MARRIAGES
COAKWELL—BROWN

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Saturday, Sept. 18th, when Miss Ella Elizabeth Brown, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Brown, became the bride of Mr. Harold Milton Coakwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Coakwell. Rev. S. M. Kanagy, uncle of the bride officiated. Gladioli and autumn flowers made an effective setting for the ceremony. Miss Ruby Reesor played the wedding music; during the signing of the register Master Laurence Graham sang, "I Love You Truly." The bride given in marriage by her father looked charming in a gown of ivory chiffon in fitted lines, with skirt extending into a train, stand-up collar and yoke of lace. She wore a matching hat with short face veil and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Miss Leona Brown attended her sister gowned in yellow sheer with matching accessories, carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Mr. Arthur Coakwell was best man.

After the ceremony the bride's mother received, gowned in navy triple sheer with corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother wore aubonnet crepe with corsage of yellow roses.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Coakwell left for a motor trip to the United States and Eastern Canada, the bride travelling in navy wool suit and navy accessories. On their return they will reside in Markham.

Dr. Quinn left on Friday, Sept. 17th for England, where he will spend a month in the London Hospital for Tropical Diseases. From London he will journey to Bombay with Mrs. Quinn and daughter.

Mrs. Quinn, formerly, Miss L. Arnold, was a teacher on our school staff in Stouffville, some years ago.

Have The Girls
Got The Courage

In a neighboring police court the other morning there were no less than four young men hauled up for the pernicious habit of drinking in public places. The Magistrate said "If young girls would adopt a policy of snubbing and dropping young men smelling of liquor at dances there would be fewer of these cases." He added, "Out of beer or liquor you get nothing that's of any benefit to you, but you all seem to have money to booze, but none to pay a fine."

Commenting on the above, the Paisley Advocate says:

Of course the magistrate is correct. If the girls and young lads who attend dances would snub these smart aleck young men who come to them smelling like the slush pile of a brewery, it would certainly stop a lot of this promiscuous drinking. But we are afraid that the theory wouldn't work out in practice for, much as we regret saying it, we do not believe the average Canadian young lady has either the inclination or the courage to snub a man who has the smell of liquor on his breath. The girl is looking for a good time when she goes to a dance, and she well knows that if she snubs one or two lads for their drinking proclivities, the stag line will gang up on her, and she would sit out the rest of the dances as a miserable wall flower, destined to be known henceforth as a poor sport and a killjoy. And again there is far too large a percentage of our young ladies who so far condone this sort of conduct on the part of their boy friends as to join with them in consuming a bottle or two of the suds at a nearby beverage room table. In fact, it is considered the ultra smart thing to attend dances slightly "spiffed."

Naturally, the young lady who takes a drink before she goes to a dance is unlikely to do any snubbing of anybody. So that the snubbing, if it is to be done, must be performed by the non-imbibing girl. And much as we appreciate the fine points in the characters of our Canadian womanhood, we confess that we simply cannot picture even "nice" girls having the courage to stand up and declare: "If you wish to dance with me, you will have to come without the smell of liquor (or cloves) on your breath."

Just so long as drinking in beverage rooms or in the back seats of cars is considered the height of smartness, so long will we have with us the type of young men and women who insist upon tanking up before a dance engagement. We won't have to go out of Paisley to find many of that sort, and on the night of local dances bootleggers of home brew and illegal liquor do a great business. And believe it or not, but the rule is that the boys who get properly canned up are the lads who get the most dancing partners, while the young man who does not indulge, are more often than not, ridiculed as being "afraid to take a little drink."

Our girls hold it within their power to stop this gin-bibbing by their male partners at a dance, but will they take heed of the sort of grand advice as offered by the magistrate? We think not—the modern girl is both beautiful and resourceful, and despite many opinions is no worse than her grandmother. But, and it pains us to say it, she most surely lacks the courage needed to say "No," when a booze-smelling youth asks her to dance with him.

His companion in the car, Wilmot Hill was severely cut about the head and required 27 stitches to close his wounds. The third passenger, Gordon Denison, escaped with a shaking up. Dr. B. E. Wilson of Uxbridge attended the injured.

DUNTROON MINISTER IS CANDIDATE

At the Conservative Convention held in Alliston for Dufferin—Simcoe, Rev. A. W. Downer, Anglican minister of Duntroon, was chosen candidate last week to oppose Dr. W. D. Smith, Liberal.

Many folk's reaction to a gospel minister entering an election contest, is that he ought to be in politics and not in the ministry—probably never should have been.

Mrs. Bert. Wilkinson, was in Toronto on Saturday, attending the wedding of her brother, Dr. Harry Hobbs, at Dale Presbyterian Church.

HON. H. C. NIXON
Provincial Secretary, who is again Liberal Candidate in the Brant, St. Georges Riding.

THREATEN TO RAISE INDEMNITY

Because a certain Ontario town had so many accidents due to faulty sidewalks the insurance company carrying their accident risk, has threatened to place an almost prohibitive rate on them, and the town fathers are worried. Just what would the situation be here in Stouffville if the village could not obtain protection of this kind? Well, we have to think of it. Fortunately there have been no large claims against us, and we are rated as a fairly good risk by the companies taking this form of insurance. Repairing sidewalks that present a danger is, aside from the dollars and cents view, a good thing. Older people go out now more at night and in the daylight too. A few years ago legal actions against the village were unheard of. However, so many bad accidents on sidewalks, in various municipalities, especially by elderly women, who seem to be the greatest claimants for injuries by falling on the walks, and in some of which cases judgments running upwards of $3,000 have been obtained in the courts, that several companies have recently dropped this type of insurance, while others are substantially boosting their rates in view of the risk involved.

The records of some towns are so bad that they can hardly get insurance of this type at all. Walkerton, which has been on the preferred list and has been enjoying a comparatively low rate, is in eminent danger of being boosted to a higher plane for coverage in view of the claims going in from there.

SUPER OVAL

The beautiful lines and pleasing colors of the new range are a delight to the eye. At the same time it performs all the functions of an efficient cooker, baker and heater.

The oven is finished inside in porcelain enamel, and may be washed like a china dish — always shining and fresh.

Cooking top is of annealed gun metal finish, easily kept clean and gleaming—with lift-off front section for broiling or feeding fuel.

The firepot is the deep oval-shaped type which has proved such an efficient heater. Grates may be set in either deep or shallow position for, coal or wood, according to amount of heat needed in the kitchen. The extra large wood firebox is 24" long and when grate is in lower position will hold large chunks which make it easy to retain a good fire overnight.

Construction is largely of cast iron, with heavy steel, enamelled and rust-proof—built to last a lifetime.

The minute minder, a handy timing device, which warns you when it is time to take a dish out of the oven is a new and welcome feature.

Mirror shelves and condiment holders can be furnished to match range.

Super Ovals also now have chrome door handles — always cool — always shining. Made in three sizes — with oven 16, 18 and 20 inches wide.

The colors: All ivory — Ivory shaded walnut, or Ivory shaded green.
