

TWO NEW STORES TO BE ADDED TO LOCAL BUSINESS BLOCK

Mr. Edwin Lloyd has sold his vacant property in the heart of Main street business section adjoining the Bank of Nova Scotia, to Harry Golden and Hugh Bannerman, each buyer taking half of the 45 foot frontage. The total sale price of $2400 is probably the best price ever obtained for building lots heretofore in Stouffville. It so happens however, this is the only vacant land right in the best business section, and with the keen desire for store space the price is not viewed as exorbitant by any means.

Mr. Golden takes the land next the bank and intends to erect a modern store, with living apartment upstairs. The store will have an up-to-date appearance and the business will display ladies and men's apparel.

The lot to the east is secured by Mr. Bannerman for future needs. He may not build for another year, but ultimately a 5 to a Dollar Store will go up, of the model type.

This piece of land has been in the Lloyd family through three generations. The present owner inherited it from his father the late Dr. Lloyd who in turn inherited it the same way. Long years ago it formed part of the hotel property which extended to Church street. The big frame building was ultimately burned.

Uxbridge fire brigade rushed to the scene but could do nothing.

A valuable collection of Asiatic chinaware and oil paintings was destroyed. The house was a substantial frame structure in good repair, and was the home of ex-reeve Davies for over 25 years.

Flower Lovers Rally at Guelph

District Number Five of the Ontario Horticultural Association under the leadership of district director Lionel Godson, Toronto, established a horticultural attendance record at the O.A.C., Guelph, July 6th.

A record was established for the day when 752 sat down to luncheon in the O.A.C. dining hall. Major C. H. Reeve, president of the Forest Hill Society, was a capable chairman, both of the luncheon and sports program.

Stouffville rallied well and sent over twelve cars with some 60 or more people. Owing to some failing to register however we were just outside on getting third prize for attendance. Wm. Malloy won second prize in the long list of sports, in the Men's 100 yd. dash, Jean Piper third in the boot and shoe race, Erla Crosier, first, in kick the slipper, with Mrs. Floyl Fairles, third. Miss Crosier and Wm. Malloy won first in the mixed, lucky spot race.

The visitors from the Counties of York, Ontario, Simcoe and district of Muskoka, arrived at 10 a.m., and visited college rose gardens and perennial borders until noon. Following luncheon, there was a parade of live stock. The sports program was one of the best on record, over 150 valuable prizes being distributed to the winners.

Dr. G. I. Christie, president of the O.A.C. was the main speaker at the luncheon. He praised Mr. Godson for the manner in which he had his district organized. Dr. Christie told of research work in connection with flowers. He advised the members to visit the "cloth house" and note the difference between plants grown inside and outside that structure. The large attendance at the gathering was a demonstration of the support being given horticultural work in the Province. "I have never seen Ontario looking more beautiful" said Dr. Christie. "We have had a good season, but it has been the work of you horticultural people in making homes, schools and playgrounds more beautiful, that has had a definite and lasting effect on the attractiveness of your communities."

SPENT ALL HER ACTIVE DAYS IN BALSAM

A resident of Stouffville for little more than a year, Mrs. Mary Jones died at the Brierbush Hospital early Friday morning after quite a siege of illness. The funeral on Sunday afternoon took place to Salem cemetery, the service being in charge of Rev. L. E. Atkinson.

The late Mrs. Jones who was in her 71st year, spent all her married life on the farm in the Balsam district where with her husband they were actively engaged until six or seven years ago when Mr. Jones passed away.

There survives the mother three daughters Mrs. C. Cadieux, Mrs. Coultice and Mrs. Ormsby Lehman.

Mrs. Jones was highly esteemed and greatly beloved by a wide circle of friends especially over in the district where she was best known.

Barbers Organize for Price Increase

Ask For York County Code But Local Shops Not Consulted

According to a report sent out a movement is on foot to increase barbering prices in York County, and to this end a meeting was held in Newmarket when it was decided to ask the Ontario Government to put the code into effect in York County.

The Tribune interviewed local tonsorial artists only to learn that they had never been consulted. Said one of them, "if we are to be regulated as to hours and prices we are to charge we should be consulted. Why should they call a meeting and ask the government to interfere with our business without consulting us?"

The meeting, so it is reported went on record as favoring making an application to the government to regulate prices and hours throughout the county, and a man from the Dept. of Labour was on hand to help along the agitation.

Prices to be agreed on are, hair cut 35c, shave 20c, closing hours are to be 8 p.m. nightly and 11 p.m. on Saturdays and any night preceding a holiday.

A. E. Hancock of Aurora was elected president of the association and barbers were present from Lansing to Sutton. There is little doubt that all barbers in the county will have a chance to be heard from ere any such regulations are enforced over the whole county. Here is Stouffville with a liberal trade coming from the Goodwood area, it would be a blow to the local hair croppers to enforce 35c cuts when Uxbridge and Claremont charges 25c.

Lincolnton Native Golden Wedding

A communication from Hartney, Manitoba, tells of the golden wedding celebration of Mr. and Mrs. John Agnew, who have been frequent visitors in town over past years when they came to stay with her sister the late Mrs. Elijah Pennock. The Hartney report says: Mr. and Mrs. John J. Agnew celebrated their golden wedding. Married on June 27th, 1888, by Rev. Septimus Jones, they lived at Acton, Ontario, until 1903, when the urge to come west caused the family to come to Manitoba, settling at Argue, where farming was followed until Mr. Agnew got a position in the C.N.R. shops at Transcona. About six years ago he retired, and since then Mr. and Mrs. Agnew have resided in Hartney.

Mrs. Agnew, formerly Mary E. Conner, was born at Stouffville, Ontario. For a number of years she was active in Salvation Army work, and when married, had reached the rank of Captain. During her residence in Acton, she took an active part in Sunday School work, teaching a class of high school girls.

Mr. Agnew was born at Acton. For sixteen years he managed a department in the Storey glove factory. In his early years he was interested in lacrosse and baseball. He celebrated his 74th birthday on April 18th, last.

Over 100 friends called at their home on East Railway street Monday afternoon. The rooms were tastefully decorated with beautiful blooms.

Children Honour Esteemed Couple

A delightful birthday party was held at the home of Mr. William Slack just east of town on Friday last, July 8, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. James Slack who have both just passed another year of life. Mr. Slack was 77 the day the party was held, and Mrs. Slack had a birthday on the 25th of June. Thirty-two sat down to supper tables and enjoyed a splendid feast, then a program was heard during which the honored couple were presented with a floor lamp by their families, Miss Blanch Slack of Stouffville, eldest grandchild, read a complimentary address which accompanied the gift. Games were played and a happy time spent on the lawn.

James Slack was born in the Township of Uxbridge and spent all his long life there until he moved to Stouffville ten years ago. Mrs. Slack was born in Pickering near Bethel, but her parents moved up near Creemore and it was there that they became man and wife 54 years ago.

They are consistent members of the Baptist church, and have enjoyed a wonderful life together, although they were dealt a severe blow 12 years ago when their only daughter Mrs. William Eckardt died. This is the only break in the family over all the years. There are three sons, Louis, William and Henry all living in the neighborhood east of town where the parents farmed for 45 years. Thirteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren are proudly numbered as members of the family by the happy grandparents. Mrs. Slack was a member of the Altona Women's Institute and owns a 25-year-membership pin which was presented to her.

(Note: The Tribune had intended to publish a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Slack with this write-up, but our electroplaters in some way failed to deliver the cut to us in time for publication this week.)

ALTONA ROBBERS GET TERMS IN KINGSTON AND PORTSMOUTH

Jack Bennett was sentenced to three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary by Magistrate Ebbs at Whitby on Tuesday on charges of breaking, entering and theft and armed robbery, and Richard Ough was given a term of two years in Kingston.

"This was very serious business, Bennett," said Magistrate Ebbs to the accused man. "You were told enough and apparently knew what you were doing when you robbed the cashier at the point of a gun."

"I consider you equally as guilty as Bennett," the magistrate told Ough. "You were the look-out man. You drove the car, and I believe Bennett was under your influence. He is still trying to shield you, possibly through fear."

Jack Bennett and Richard Ough, were convicted of armed robbery at Madill's store in Altona, on June 2, were both sentenced Tuesday of this week when they appeared before Magistrate F. S. Ebbs in Whitby. Jack Bennett had previously pleaded guilty to four counts and Ough had pleaded not guilty to the armed robbery charge. Ough was convicted in this week's court on a charge of receiving $55, part of the proceeds of the Palais Royale hold-up, from Bennett, who pleaded guilty to it last week. Ough pleaded not guilty on the receiving charge, but was convicted, after which the Crown withdrew the charge of robbery at the Palais Royale.

"Bennett entered the door and said: 'Hand it over or I'll shoot you,'" stated Miss Mabel Bury, cashier at the Palais Royale, Toronto dance pavilion. Miss Bury said that Bennett reached over and took a roll of bills amounting to $350 with his right hand, while he held the revolver in his left. "He then told me not to move for two minutes or he'd shoot me," said Miss Bury who told the court that the hold-up occurred shortly before eleven o'clock on the night of June 11th. She identified a five dollar bill found on the person of Ough by a notation she had made on the back of the bill. She said that she had not seen Ough on the night of the hold-up. Ough stated at last week's court that he drove Bennett to the corner of Queen and Roncesvalles streets and left him there early in the evening, and Bennett had corroborated this.

Detective-Sergeant William McAllister, of the Toronto police force, testified to searching Bennett's room at 73 Yorkville Avenue, and finding a coat in the lining of which was a wallet containing $218. Bennett was carrying $26.18 on his person when arrested, stated Detective-

Mrs. Sheffer of Brougham has been engaged as public school teacher at Dickson Hill beginning on September 1st. Mrs. Sheffer taught for over six years at Glasgow, and her experience must have been a factor with the trustees at the Hill in choosing her out of so many applicants for this school with an abnormal number of pupils for a purely rural class room.

Where Catholics, Protestants Agree

Rev. W. H. Fuller Addresses L.O.L. at Annual Church Service

"Protestants are willing to accept the charge laid against them by the Catholic Church when it says we have departed from the heresy," declared Rev. W. H. Fuller in an address before the members of the Loyal Orange Lodge of Stouffville and visiting brethren from outside lodges. "What we have done is to return to the apostolic teachings," he explained.

The speaker outlined the truths wherein the Roman church and Protestant faith see eye to eye. For instance both great bodies, he said, hold to the tradition in common concerning God, both believe in Him, and therein there is no conflict between Catholic and Protestants. Both believe in the deity of Christ, both agree man was made by God, and again both hold to the belief that this religion is a saving thing.

There are, however, certain other important truths where the two great bodies differ. While both believe that the Bible is the inspired word of God, the Catholic teaches there is another authority outside the Bible which is the church itself. The Catholic denies himself the right to interpret the Bible, he may read it, but he must accept the interpretation of the church. The Protestant admits no authority over his own soul. The reformation brought the world the open Bible, before which there were very few. If a man owned one, it was mentioned in his will, so scarce a book was it.

The Protestant again reserves his right to stand alone before God and make intercession and receive forgiveness of sin. The Roman church gives the pastors this right, and under such a condition the speaker declared, our destiny is held in human hands. No wonder, he exclaimed, why a man can remain faithful to the church, when he is taught from childhood that the church can forgive him his sins.

Another great principle on which we differ is the claim of the Catholic church to rule the state. Protestants believe the church and state are separate, although there is a great difference of opinion as to just where the line should be drawn. Mr. Fuller said, "I admire the Catholic church for insisting on educating their children in their own faith." We protestants believe it is the duty of the home to give this training, the Catholic says the state is responsible.

A final point of cleavage mentioned was the attitude on marriage.

Protestants have a great tradition to uphold, said the speaker, when in closing he read to the Orangemen their obligation as defined in their own ritual.

The Ratcliff quartette and the Markham Presbyterian choir assisted in the service which formed the regular hour of worship in St. James church.

The Orangemen were about fifty strong and paraded to the service headed by the Stouffville Band.
