Oiling the highway between Stouffville and Uxbridge certainly is meeting with many favorable comments on the part of motorists. This is the first time this road was ever treated to oil, and it certainly modifies to a great degree the otherwise rough surface.

We see by the local paper in Walkerton that a poultry fancier there has a pullet laying (July 24) which was hatched on March 13, exactly four months. It is a Barred Rock and its 200 sisters in the flock are expected to follow the leader almost any day in the matter of early production. Can any local poultryman equal the record?

Several cottagers from Musselman's Lake dropped into The Tribune office to congratulate us on last week's paper which was designed to be especially interesting to the lake campers. We hope you will make it an annual thing, said one caller when another piped up and said "why not weekly for the summer holidays." Well, the whole matter will get still further and more enlarged thought next year.

The older generation have vivid recollections of the old time medicine show which did business by the aid of a smudgy oil lamp while the soap box orator went through the gymnastics he knew so well how to perform. Well, the village was treated to one of the old time free shows one night last week. Instead of the oil lamp some one held up an electric bulb which was attached to some nearby socket. As usual some business was done, and buyers were on hand to try out the unknown dope which the Indian Chief had to offer. This kind of show has practically dropped out of the small town, although there are still ready patrons to buy their wares.

Mr. Jim Miller has been holidaying in town visiting his sister Mrs. Latchford. Mr. Miller is a drug seller in one of New York's big hotels. It is 25 or 30 years since he left the old town here and naturally nearly all the faces are new ones to him.

Dr. Thos. Mitchell, who has been preaching for three Sundays in the United Church here during the absence of Rev. L. E. Atkinson was greeted with almost a full church last Sunday morning. Next Sabbath Rev. Herbert Lee will preach.

We are not in a position to state which garageman made the offer, no sir, and we are not making any enquiries, but the story goes that a farmer near town cleaned up his premises. All the scrap iron and junk he could find he piled into a wagon and told the hired man to take it to the junk dealer. By mistake the man delivered it to the garage. A few days later the farmer received this note: "This is one of the worst wrecks we ever saw. If you think its worth $249.75, we will guarantee to put it in good running condition."

We do complain a good deal about the weather, and things beyond our control, but a trip through the country these days should bring a smile to any face and we do note the one on the faces of neighboring farmers is contagious. With bountiful crops conditions are bound to improve. But the crops need to be harvested. Surely there are places for workers on the farms, who have failed to find employment elsewhere. Those who would eat must work, and the time to work is now.

Three weeks until exhibition opens!

The school board are calling for tenders for a 50 ton car of coal that will be especially designed for use with the new stocker just installed at the school, which is an automatic feeding mechanism that is intended to not only save labor but it will save coal also, and will keep the fire at any regulated temperature.

The Town of Aurora is staging a monster street carnival beginning with a soft ball match, all in aid of the Aurora Boys' Band which recently provided a demonstration in Stouffville. There is to be a lucky ticket draw to add interest and numbers to the carnival which comes off on August 10. The idea appeals to us, and we pass it on to those who are promoting the Stouffville band.

The village of Alliston has been able to reduce taxation this year to the extent of dropping six mills from the rate prevailing last year—it was then 60 mills, and will still be 54. Alliston is a village enjoying all the modern conveniences that Stouffville boasts, with a few added ones. They were forced to build a sewage disposal plant and several of the side streets there are paved. However we think, in all other respects, the two places are similar. Of course, the Stouffville water system is a revenue producer, whereas it costs a lot of money to supply Allistonians as it does most every other place that enjoys a domestic system.

Mr. Dawson Kinsey of the Art Metal Co., Cincinnati, was in town for a brief time intending to call on Mr. F. L. Button, K.C., who happened to be away on holidays. Mr. Kinsey proceeded north to holiday on the lakes with his family who accompanied him. He received his early education in Stouffville, being a son of the late J. A. Kinsey who farmed just north of town on the 9th 50 years ago. The late J. A. Kinsey was identified with the establishment of the Stouffville Creamery here nearly half a century ago and was the general manager under Seneca Baker, president; Noah Baker, vice; H. Johnson, secretary, and J. Burkholder, treasurer. Abner Baker, J. J. Brown, I. Raymond, D. Stouffer and W. P. Hartry were also on the Board during those early days when Mr. Kinsey was manager.

Mr. Bruce Lehman who is with the Delhi Cold Storage people was in town for the weekend visiting his home at Almira. Bruce has promised to prepare an article on the workings of the cold storage business as it affects the farmer, which we hope to pass to our readers at an early date, in view of the fact that a similar establishment is contemplated in Markham Township. Bruce is enthusiastic about the business which he regards as a real boon for the farmer.

The Mennonite Church could scarcely accommodate the large crowd which gathered on Friday evening to hear the program put on by the scholars who attended the bible school conducted in that church for the two weeks period ending on Friday. The program consisted of numbers by the three groups or classes of juniors, intermediates and seniors. Mr. Norman Lehman led the first group, Mr. Harold Drewery the second, and Mr. Lawrence Hoover the third. The seniors presented numbers on the Life of Christ, the intermediates gave bible numbers orally, while the juniors presented a short skit. There was also singing, numbers well received. Rev. I. B. Brubacher cordially welcomed the large audience and congratulated the teachers and scholars on the fine effort put forth which resulted in such a successful school being carried on.
