The life of an editor is no bed of roses. Some people grumble because we do not publish all the news, and others crack down on us when we do. In other words the editor is a target both going and coming.

Complaints are being made that persons using the municipal hall have recently mutilated the chairs by breaking the backs of some and otherwise upsetting the room. Inasmuch as the town allows the use of this room without charge one could scarcely imagine why such thoughtlessness goes on. It may result in the privilege being cancelled.

This year's Easter parade may have been one of color and comic on Toronto's board walk, but for Stouffville Main street was like any other winter Sunday afternoon. The weather while clear and bright, was cold enough to make indoors much more inviting. and so most of the girls are yet to be admired in their new spring toggery. Church services in the morning were better attended than on an average Sunday most ministers reported.

Two county constables from Newmarket district established themselves at Ringwood for a couple of hours on Saturday and stopped every car going through and demanded to see driver's permit and license renewal card. Several were caught cold, and we mean by that they did not yet have their new papers, and so will probably be hauled into court. Still a few others returned with the necessary papers. It all is a reminder that the time to secure your driver's license is past, and it is an offense against the law to be caught without it.

No less than eight residents of Brooklin are over 90 years of age, so it came to light when invitations to a dinner were being issued in Oshawa for Easter, when persons over 90 outside the city and those 80 and over inside are entertained at a banquet each year. In all 80 persons qualified for invitations, with Brooklin leading the list. It speaks very well for the attractive little village lying north of Whitby to be able to keep their citizens to such a great age. An old Stouffville boy, Mr. P. R. Stover, supplies the "staff of life" there, which, to say the least has not interfered with the digestive organs of its people when such great ages are attained by so many.

Sixty per cent of students at Western University voted to say they would back Britain in war. A man may be very peaceful and humble, but when some person slams him on the jaw he is apt to change his outlook.

Mr. Lou Tindall held a successful auction sale last Thursday when he sold all his farm stock and implements on his acreage at Bloomington through A. S. Farmer, auctioneer. Total receipts ran between 12 and 13 hundred dollars. Our attention was called to the sale of one aged horse which went for $48, the exact amount Mr. Tindall paid for the animal twelve years ago. If old Dobbin pays the new owner as good a dividend as it did Mr. Tindall, the gelding will surely be ready for a peaceful future via the glue factory.

The chief item of business at the school board meeting on Monday evening was passing accounts, and a discussion on how best to check accounts now that they are becoming so numerous with the installation of the new classes at the school. It was determined that every teacher must secure a statement from the merchant once a month for supplies purchased which when certified by the teacher will be paid. In both the Continuation and public school the principal gives the O.K. to small purchases required between meetings, which latitude in expenditures seems quite necessary. The problem however, confronting the school board is to establish a proper monthly accounting, and a step in this direction will be the adoption of a monthly statement to be procured by the principals who in turn will hold their staffs responsible to carry out the requirements.

We wish to correct an item of last week, referring to the high standing of one of Lloyd Turner's purebred holsteins in the recent production tests. Betsy Roebuck Dixie, highest in the 3-year-old class in the 305 day division in Canada had a standing of 583 lbs. fat from 17011 lb. milk, not 383 as stated last week.

It's too bad Stouffville hadn't some sort of a frog pond at our door. The Dominion government pays handsome sums out every time an election rolls around to those places located on public waters. This year Pefferlaw, we note is voted $21,000 for dredging and Port Perry $15,000 for harbor improvements. Whitby gets the sum of $17,400.

Business men came down town on Tuesday to find Main street piled up with snow again after an all-night fall of the so-called beautiful, which is not really beautiful at all so late in the season when our thoughts turn to green fields and budding trees. Some predict that warm weather is not likely until there is a new moon on the 19th.

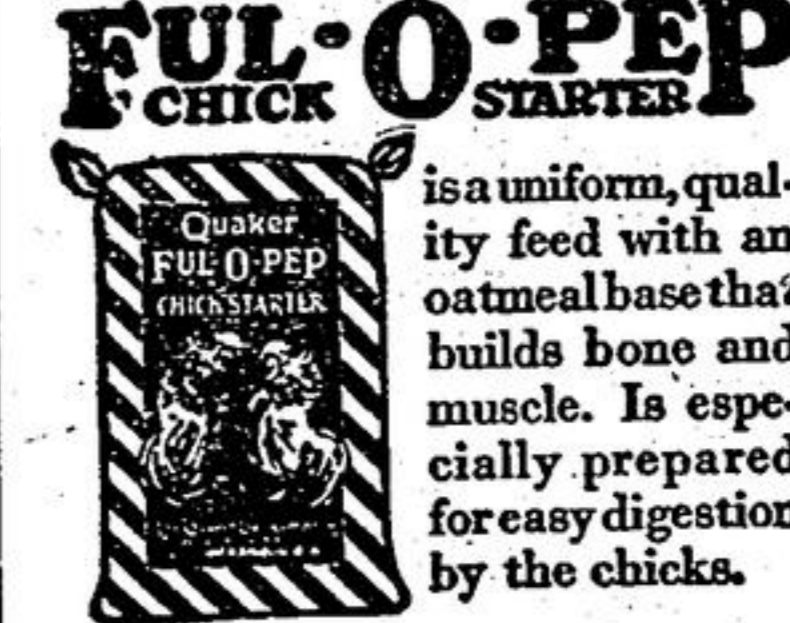

The Senior Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. E. J. Davey, on April 19, at 2.30. Motto: Kindness, like grain, increases by sowing. Roll Call—"What benefit do I get out of the Institute." Mrs. Herbert Lee gave the bible reading—"Three Parables on Man's Cooperation with God." Four prayers were offered by different members, especially for the communities in Canada where there is no Christian church, for our ministers and their wives who are working alone where two or three workers are needed, for those who have drifted from the church, and for all Canadians suffering from poverty and unemployment, social injustices and racial differences.
