Schools reopen on Sept. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hutchinson and two children of Blackwater were visiting with his grandmother, Mrs. Henry Vanzant on Sunday.

Miss Maryon Hastings in company with a party of young people spent Sunday in Muskoka at Bigwin Inn, Lake of Bays.

Mr. Edward Meyer and his daughter Mrs. Taylor had a trip last week to Flint, Mich., where they visited relatives. Mrs. Taylor had previously been at Lake Simcoe visiting her brother Allan for three weeks.

The huge electric sign in front of the Stanley theatre is being favorably commented on by many people. One can readily see what is playing, while the layout provides illumination and general improvement to the front of the theatre building.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brant and daughter Lola from Oshawa were in town on Sunday and called on Mr. and Mrs. K.G. Tarr.

Teachers appear to be fairly plentiful this fall. A school in Carrick township, near Walkerton, advertised for one and received 71 applications.

Hepburn's 3c gasoline tax looks high, but last Saturday we read in dispatches from Italy that on the calling of a half million additional extra men to take up arms in Italy, an emergency price of 95c a gallon was placed on gasoline. This virtually eliminated private motoring so the country's limited supply of motor fuel could be preserved for military use.

Mr. Thomas Birkett was called to Moosejaw last week owing to the serious illness of his sister-in-law Mrs. Randal Birkett. He arrived in the Western city the very day his sister-in-law passed away. It is expected that Mr. Birkett will be absent from town here for a couple of weeks, but his office will be open as usual in charge of his son Mr. Gordon Birkett.

The Muston greenhouses advertised for public sale drew no outside buyers, we are informed by the solicitor Mr. F.L. Button. However, it is stated on reliable source that the business will be taken over by Mr. Milton Smith who has been in charge here at Stouffville for a couple of years now. Mr. Stan. Muston will retire from the business.

A new house has been started on Pine street being built by Elwood Betz, son of F. W. Betz, contractor and builder. Few people will know Pine street and for the benefit of those who do not we may explain that it runs south off Main street, almost like a continuation of Baker Avenue. Up to the present time only one house fronts on the street, that being the property of Mrs. Jack and for long years the home of the late Dan. Miller. The old Baptist church demolished fifteen years ago was described as on Main street at the corner of Pine street. The new house on Pine street is directly south of the residence of F. W. Betz, and faces Mrs. Jack's. The brick foundation was completed last week for the new place which is designed to be a neat cottage or bungalow.

Mr. H. M. Fletcher is reorganizing the Uxbridge Choral Society.

Mr. Tom Hughes of Toronto was in town on Sunday visiting his sister Mrs. L. E. Atkinson at the parsonage.

Miss Lorna Baker, of Rosedale, Balsam Lake, whose home town is Stouffville, has been visiting with friends in Buffalo, most of this past month.

Mr. and Mrs. John Quibell and Verna Hogan were visiting in Bobcaygeon last week at the home of his sister Mrs. J. Crowe.

Recent visitors with Miss Sadie Stewart were Mrs. Jack Johnson and son of Uxbridge, and Miss Winnie Stewart of Goodwood.

Mrs. William Watson and sister Miss Charlotte Lehman are on a visit to relatives and friends on Manitoulin Island. They intend to spend a short time with two of their cousins who left Altona in 1877, being members of the Abraham Lehman family.

Town clerk J. S. Dougherty is back in his office after a week spent at Balsam Lake. He was one of a party including Mrs. Dougherty and Evelyn also Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burnett. The men found fishing rather slow, as the finny tribe refused to perform due to much rain and windy weather it was believed.

The Senior Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Turner, on Thursday afternoon, September 14, at 2.30 p.m. Roll call "Some prominent woman of present day." Address, Marjorie Stewart, R.N. Talk on flowers by Miss Eva Hoover; Cornet solo, Alice Forsythe; Picnic lunch and sports. (Note change of day and date.)

It is now reported that the 1940 automobile will not have the "bustles" in the rear, and the mechanical changes will be numerous. One of the good things is to be a new type of headlight, doing away with bulbs and glare. Strange that so many people have had to be killed before a necessity of this kind has been invented.

In the little village of Ripley last week a vote for the return of the open bar was taken. 166 persons voted it back and 149 were against. However, there will be no open bar as the required two-fifths was not obtained for its return. Uxbridge will vote on the issue the latter part of September, but we hear from the northern town that the chances of the issue being carried is unlikely.

During the past decade a constantly increasing list of items has entered into the cost of living. But there is one item of expenditure at least that has been cut down. A generation ago families spent small fortunes on massive marble monuments which towered high in local cemeteries. In some modern cemeteries the monuments are limited to a foot or 18 inches. In other grounds the stone is limited to a flat plaque. We understand there is no limit to the height of a stone that might be set up in Stouffville cemetery, although other similar grounds in Markham township have such regulation. After all, perhaps, the latter is to be preferred. Many people feel that to erect stones running into the thousands is a veritable waste, although everybody recognizes the desirability of a substantial marker of reasonable proportion. Since the day of elaborate tomb stones is gone many monument works have passed on with the change. The town of St. Mary's for instance had two such works employing twelve men, and today people in St. Mary's buy their monuments through agents that call. Perhaps it is better that present-day folk are forced to do something worth-while in life in order to gain a "lasting monument" in the memory of people.

Next Monday is Labor Day. Business place close.

Miss Dolly Thoman of Kitchener has been visiting Miss Eulah Brillinger.

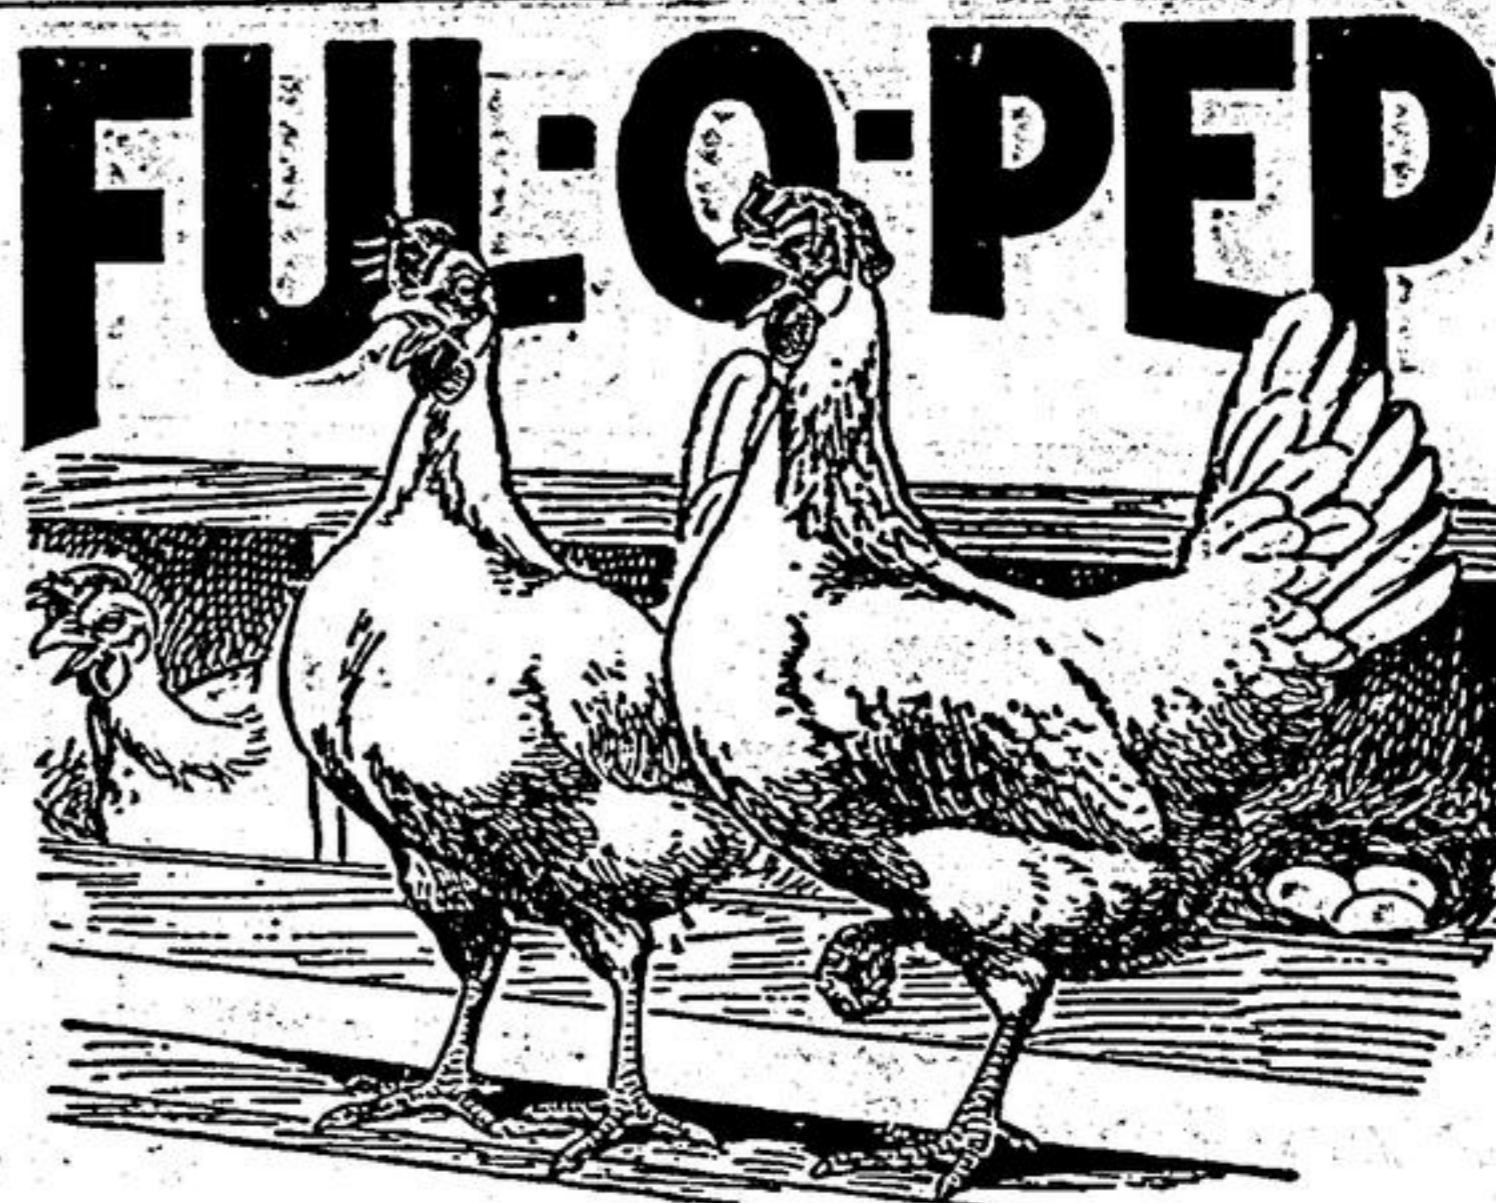

Reeve A. E. Weldon slipped away for a few days last week and visited the scenes of his boyhood days back in the Lindsay district. Mrs. Weldon has also been on holidays visiting her parental home in the same locality.

Mr. Jos. Cadieux suffered a slight stroke last Friday, but is considerably improved again the family report. Mr. Cadieux is the father of the express driver, and with his wife occupies part of Miss Nora Stapleton's residence in the westend. He is 79 years of age.

We are informed that a military guard has been placed on the post office building in the town of Uxbridge. There is a vacant room in the place which is supposed to be for military use, and was occupied as an office during the last war. Down in the basement of the building is a target range also noted for its being left alone. Evidently Uxbridge is designated as a customs office, but even that under the existing conditions is not enough to keep people from laughing. However if a state of war exists, the government is taking no chances.

Owing to the war situation Ontario people who arrived back from England and the continent the last few days were more than delighted to be on Canadian soil again. Indeed, the congestion became so great that one could not get passage on any of the lines without waiting for two or three weeks. Miss Phyllis Klinck of Stouffville, and Miss Iunis Williamson (Markham) returned on the Letitia, reaching Montreal Sunday morning. Of course when they left England the situation was not so tense. Miss Williamson is the school teacher at Armitage. Mrs. Jas. Turner, sister of Miss Nettie Rae and Mr. Frank Rae is still in Scotland, according to the latest word, while friends had communication from Miss Gladys Miller two weeks ago. She was then in Norway.

Ever since Bible days man has been commanded to "take up thy bed and walk," but not always with the same rejoicing as characterized that greatest of all stories. For instance Chief Quibell one night last week issued this command to a "knight of the road" who had parked on a comfortable couch on the veranda of a Church street home. Having been summoned to remove the stranger, the cop approached the scene with all necessary caution, having in mind how some of these chaps resent interference and quickly pull a gun. However, as the cop approached he heard the soothing and sonorous sounds as from one in deep slumber, although in the darkness he could scarcely see what he was approaching. Drawing alongside the cot, he shot his flash light into what he believed to be the face of the stranger, only to find his head was well covered under a blanket he had taken possession of. He was as the noise from under the blanket inferred, soundly asleep. Awakened from his glorious state, the tramp was bidden to "arise and follow me." This he did and was led to the upper chamber of the council rooms, where he was introduced to a bare table minus the comfortable springs and blanket he enjoyed on the veranda. It is only fair to state the stranger, before parking on the veranda, obtained permission from the owner to do so, but he later recanted through nervousness. The tramp was perfectly civil, and as was bidden, "flew his kite at the break of dawn." After all, it would have been much more human to have offered this roamer a bed of some sort which could be readily arranged in the furnace room of the council chambers for the winter months. We have frequently heard the suggestion that a cot could be placed beside the furnace to be used by those not so fortunate in life as the least of us in this prosperous village.

STIVER BROS.

Congratulations are due the members of the Horticultural Society who united their effort to put on a winning exhibit at the North York Society exhibition last week. Those most active in this undertaking were Misses Marjorie Mertens, Ann Lehman, Eva Hoover, Mrs. H. O. Klinck and Mrs. D. Woodburn. At the C.N.E. this week this same group with Mrs. A. Farthing taking the place of Mrs. Klinck, and with the president George Saunders assisting combined their efforts to put on a lovely display of cut flowers in a space 6x9 feet. Stouffville had won first honors in their efforts at the "ex" on other occasion and had an excellent exhibit on this occasion, winning second prize in a class of 5.

Next week the annual holiday time for The Tribune, there will be no issue of the paper on September 7, but we will resume again on September 14, and will try and review anything of importance from the preceding week.
