Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for September 1
PRaising GOD FOR HIS BLESSINGS

Golden Text—"Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits."

THE LESSON AS A WHOLE

Four times in Psalm 107 we have the fervent exclamation, "Oh that men would praise the Lord for his goodness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" (vs. 8, 15, 21, and 31.) The entire Psalm is a call to praise, as is the 103rd, which, however, is much more introspective than the other. In it the writer is calling upon his own soul to respond to God's manifold mercies. Elsewhere we read, "Praise is comely for the upright" (Psa. 33:1), and again we are told, "Whoso offereth praise glorifieth me" (Psa. 50:23). Praise is the spontaneous outcome of a grateful heart who has experienced the saving grace of God and who recognizes his providential dealings and Fatherly care day by day. It is strange indeed that we should need to be urged to praise. But we are so prone to be forgetful of the source of our mercies and to rejoice in the gifts (which we so readily take for granted) rather than in the Giver himself, who is worthy of our constant adoration. How often we pray for blessings and forget to give thanks when our cries are heard! It was one healed leper out of ten who returned to Jesus to give him glory for what he had done in cleansing him from that foul disease. The Saviour rejoiced in the praise of the one, but asked sorrowfully, "Where are the nine?" And we may be assured our blessed, risen Lord today takes note just as carefully of those who return to give thanks for the bounties he bestows. If we were more appreciative, we should have more for which to praise; but even apart from all his benefits toward us, we ought ever to "give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness" (Psa. 97:12) and rejoice in the revelation of himself which he has given us in his Word.

Verse by Verse

Psa. 103:1—"All that is within me." The body is not the real man. The man dwells in the body. David calls upon his soul, who is the personality, to "bless the Lord." True worship is not mere form or ceremony, but is the outpouring of the heart in grateful praise to the Giver of all good.

Verse 2—"Forget not all his benefits." All our lives long we have been the recipients of his gifts. He never forgets to give, but do we not often forget to thank him?

Verse 3—"Forgiveth all thine iniquities." How manifold our sins and iniquities have been! Yet when we come to him as repentant sinners, resting in the Saviour he has provided, he forgives fully and completely (Col. 1:14), and as the sins of each day are confessed and judged before him, he pardons us and restores our souls (1 John 1:9). "Who healeth all thy diseases." It is to him we are indebted for all physical health as well as spiritual blessing. Physicians and medicines would avail nothing if he did not exert his healing power.

Verse 4—"Redeemeth thy life from destruction." We little realize how often divine intervention saves us from dangers seen or unseen. He is ever watching over us and he crowneth us with loving-kindness and mercies. We could not exist one moment apart from his preserving care.

Verse 5—"Who satisfieth . . . with good." Our hearts crave satisfaction, but we never find it except in God himself. As we enjoy fellowship with him—as we learn to wait upon him—our youth is renewed like the eagles (Isa. 40:31).

Verse 10—"He has not . . . rewarded us according to our iniquities." Had he so done, we would now be forever among the lost. But he laid our iniquities upon his own blessed Son (Isa. 53:6) that he might deal with us according to his righteousness.

Verse 11—"So great is his mercy." The Psalmist seems to exhaust human language in his effort to depict the mercy of God to those who revere his name. It is limitless as the unmeasured depths and heights of the universe.

Verse 12—"As far as the east is from the west." One is lost in amazement as one contemplates God's forgiving grace. The believer's sins are so completely removed and forgotten that they can never come to light again.

Verse 13—"Like as a father." We do not have God fully revealed as the Father of the individual saint in the Old Testament. He is the Father of Israel nationally (Jer. 31:9) and the Father of mankind as Creator (Mal. 2:10). But it was Jesus our Lord who revealed the Father (Matt. 11:27) and gave us to know him in the sweet and intimate family relationship of the present age of grace. Here in this Psalm he is pictured "as a father," who pities all who fear (that is, revere) him. Job speaks of himself in the same way (Job 29:16).

Verse 14—"He knoweth . . . he remembereth." It is most comforting to the heart of the tried saint to realize that he is not in the power of some relentless fate or impersonal destiny. But we have to do with the living God, who takes cognizance of all our ways, who understands all our circumstances, who knows how we are limited by heredity, environment, education, privileges, or lack of them, and who deals with us accordingly. Just as wise parents take into consideration the peculiarities of each child's temperament and physical conditions, so does our Heavenly Father deal with us. He lays upon none of us more than we are able to bear.

Verse 15 and 16—"As for man," we are likened to the frail field flowers, blooming today and withered tomorrow. Our stay here is short at the best. Oh, to use the time we have for the glory of God! Then when others take our vacant places we shall leave abiding memories to bless and help when we ourselves are where unending praises rise to the Author of all good.

Verse 17—"From everlasting to everlasting." That is, from eternity past to eternity future. The mercies of God are like himself, eternal and unchanging (Psa. 90:2).

Verse 18—"Such as keep his covenant." It is not every one who can claim a part in the promised care of God, however. He blesses the obedient and willing-hearted, who remember his commandments to do them. "The rebellious dwell in a dry land" (Psa. 68:6). The willing and obedient are sure of his loving concern (Isa. 1:19).

Whitchurch Boy Married at Chesley

Geneva Presbyterian Church, Chesley, decked with many baskets of stately flowers, the guest pews marked with large bows of white tulle was the setting for the marriage on Saturday, August 17, at 3 o'clock of Gladys Irene, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Legge of Elderslie and James Dean son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hall of Stouffville R.R. Rev. A. H. Wilson officiated.

To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Moore of Toronto, the bride, given in marriage by her father, entered the church. She was radiantly lovely in her wedding gown of embroidered French-Point tulle, made on long lines, with fitted bodice, square neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her floor length veil of silk tulle was held in place with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white lilies and baby's breath. Long lace gloves and white slippers completed her costume. Miss Jean Legge attended her sister as bridesmaid, wearing a floor-length jacket frock of shell-pink sheer with shoulder-length veil of pink tulle. Her flowers were pink and white gladioli. Little Phyllis Cloughton, niece of the groom, was a quaint flower girl in a long blue frock carrying a colonial nosegay of sweet-peas. Kenneth Mannerow, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer. He wore a white linen suit. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. William Hall of Toronto.

During the signing of the register Miss Hilda Becker of Toronto sang, "Because." The ushers were Mr. Wilbur Cloughton and Mr. Frank Hall of Stouffville and Francis and Gordon Legge of Chesley.

Following the ceremony the guests numbering about sixty motored to the home of the bride's parents where the reception was held. Receiving with the bride and groom were Mr. and Mrs. Legge and Mr. and Mrs. Hall. For her daughters' wedding Mrs. Legge chose a navy crepe ensemble with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Hall was in navy crepe with corsage of pink roses. About five o'clock all sat down at beautifully decorated tables arranged on the lawn. Low pink bowls of garden flowers and smilax were placed at intervals, and the four-storied wedding cake centered the bride's table. The waitresses were Vera and Doreen Weppler, cousins of the bride, and four girl friends. To each of these the bride gave a china cup and saucer.

The groom's gift to the bride was a silver tea service; to the bridesmaid a turquoise setting, to the flower girl a cameo necklace; to the ring-bearer a watch; to the pianist and soloist, silver salt and pepper shakers, to the groomsmen and ushers, tie pins.

Amid showers of good wishes and confetti, Mr. and Mrs. Hall left for a short honeymoon, the bride wearing a British blue ensemble with white accessories. They will be "At Home," to their many friends after Sept. 1st, at 137 Aldwych Avenue, Toronto.

Relatives of the groom who attended were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Hall, Messrs. Frank, Walter and Daniel Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Cloughton and daughter Phyllis, Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Kidd, Mr. Robert Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Swain, Mr. and Mrs. William Swain, Mr. and Mrs. William Hall, Mr. George Harrison and Misses Verna and Edith Harrison.

The four storied wedding cake was made by the bride's mother and iced by her grandmother who is 83.

TORONTO Goodwood FLASHES

Walter Davey
8 Stanton Ave
Toronto.

Mr. George Taylor spent Sunday at S. Bacon's.

Fred Middleton visited Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown last week.

Exhibition is on now. If in the city, let us know.

The Correspondent appreciates the letter received from the Goodwood Women's Institute for his work and prizes given to their booth sales.

Miss Johnston of Manitoulin Island, spent a week's holiday with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Brown. Sorry to report Mr. P. H. Davey has been ill and confined to bed for over a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanfield, friends of the Correspondent, have returned from Musselman Lake after two week's holiday.

Miss Eunice and Betty Woodland are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tindall.

An extra large birthday list this week. One man a few weeks ago told the Correspondent that he did not know his wife's birthday till he saw it in Toronto Flashes Column, (result it cost him a new dress for his wife).

Well folks, Exhibition time is here again and well do we remember when a boy those special trains coming down from the north loaded with passengers to the Exhibition. The Scribe remembers one day the G.T.R. Agent telling him he sold the same number of tickets as there were miles to the Union Station, so some thirty or thirty-five tickets were sold. Seven autos now carry the same amount.

The names of 20 appear in the birthday book for the last six days of August, and to all we say "happy birthday." They are Mrs. Chas. Watson, John Maye, Mrs. Freeman Slack, Edward Norton, Chas. Bewell, Annie Luke, Mrs. Willard Slack, Marion Eileen Carrol, Emily Luella Baker, Eldon Dixon, Miss Mary E. Todd, all of Goodwood and the township; Mrs. Walter Davey, Mrs. George Lee, Toronto; Howard Hill and Mr. and Mrs. E. McNelly, Musselman's Lake, Jack Cavanaugh, Brougham; Flossie Spang, Ellwood Johnson, Dorothy Meyer, Ellwood Lintner, Claremont and R.R.'s.

BROUGHAM

On Sunday afternoon last, the service here was in charge of the Young People, Mr. Allan Ellicott and Mr. Ross Wilson led the devotional services and Mr. Roy Ormiston of Brooklin was guest speaker, taking for his subject the word "Career" which proved very interesting to all present.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Brown of Toronto were with his parents on Sunday.

Mrs. R. W. Witter and Mrs. Wm. Paterson of Toronto also Mrs. Donald Witter and his daughter of Montreal visited with the former's brother Albert and L. Matthews over the weekend.

Mrs. M. Hamilton spent a couple of days last week with her daughter Mrs. C. Balsdon of Pickering.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ellicott were in Toronto on Thursday last attending the funeral of the latter's sister, the late Mrs. Findley of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Gray returned home after a pleasant trip around Niagara Falls, Windsor and other Western points.

WARNED AGAINST BLIGHT

As we reported sometime ago, a series of experiments and demonstration acre plots on 12 farms in Mt. Albert and Zephyr districts is being conducted by the Department of Agriculture. At the Field Day attended by about 70 growers reference was made to disease control and growers were urged to use Bordeaux Mixture along with the poison to control late blight.
