THE FLYING MILKMAN

Clayt. Baker denies that he is going to New York to see the latest in milk delivery service: An airplane which can carry a flying milkman from door to door in an accomplished fact there, and as our M.O.H. is in the big city, he may take time to look it over, seeing that he is vitally interested in milk and how it's handled. This new style milkman could stop his plane in the air while he deposits the bottles, and picks up empties.

All he would need would be a window-high shelf. In fact he could fly to within two feet of you when you called for an extra pint of cream and place it in your hand. He could back away—always flying, always courteous as Walter Brown pretends to be. Then he could speed away at 30 to 40 miles an hour to the next house.

This can be done, because it has been done, except that the flying wasn't a milkman and instead of bottle of cream it was a suit case. The plane at present would not fit all yards, but it would do for most. The plane is one of several breathing-taking prospects of the apparently near future in the air, described by experts to the midwinter meeting of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

The flying milkman plane is a helicopter, called the VV-300, built by I. I. Sikorsky, of the Vought Sikorsky Company, United Aircraft Corporation. It flies straight up stands still in air, flies backward and has done 30 - 40 miles straight-away, and performed well in a 25-mile wind.

The tests have been under way for nearly a year. Sikorsky told the institute the experiments have proved that this kind of ship would solve the problems of landing and taking off between buildings, between trees, on buildings and on ships.

WESTERN OIL JOTTINGS

Even at this early date, unless something unforeseen happens in the meantime, this year will see further new records established by the oil wells of the Province so far as production is concerned and therefore in returns to royalty holders. There is still considerable room for expansion in Alberta's oil output, since the 1940 total was well under market demand in the three Prairie Provinces.

Born at Altona, Served Under Six Premiers

Robert Brown Well-Known Queen's Park Figure Since 1905 Was Son of Late Andrew Brown, Altona.

For generations a well-known figure in the Ontario Legislature, Robert Brown died on Sunday at his home, Wellesley street, Toronto, following a brief illness. Mr. Brown was 79 years old and had been superannuated from government service five years ago.

As chief usher, Mr. Brown constantly attended on the floor of the Legislative chamber, where he directed operations of page boys. He stood as guardian of the main door through which only members of the House passed. From him the page boys learned the routine of the session, answering calls, carrying messages.

Mr. Brown served under six of Ontario's premiers, entering the government service in 1905 as a messenger, under Premier Whitney. Officially he was attached to the Legislative Library for 35 years. He was the eldest son of Andrew Brown hotelman at Altona, and kept up a correspondence with Wills Monkhouse until recent years. Mr. Brown is survived by his wife, Minnie Dixon, and four sons, and four daughters. Mrs. Robert Ringland, Mrs. Edward Sheridan, Mrs. Montague Denman, Miss Rhoda, Harold, Howland, Morley and Frank, all of Toronto.

JACK BEAVER, UXBRIDGE BARBER BEREAVED

The death on Wednesday, January 29th, 1941, of Kate Davis, beloved wife of John H. Beaver, after an illness of less than two weeks, came as a shock to her many friends and acquaintances in Uxbridge. Mrs. Beaver who had been in very good health up to ten days prior to her death suffered a sudden attack and was removed to Toronto General Hospital on Saturday previous to her demise for treatment, but failed to rally and passed away on Wednesday in her 57th year. The funeral took place to Uxbridge cemetery on Friday, January 31st, 1941, services being conducted at her late home by Rev. E. S. Bishop.

The late Kate Davis was born in Opps township, near Lindsay, in 1883, a daughter of the late William Davis and Margaret Paul, who later moved with their family to Uxbridge township just south of the cemetery on the old Stouffville road she met and married John H. Beaver, barber, for some years they lived in Uxbridge, later moving to Havelock, Ontario, Lethbridge and Calgary, Alta., from which later point they returned to Uxbridge in 1914.

BUILDING BYLAW GIVEN CONSIDERATION BY WHITCHURCH

Deputies receive $5 each, poll clerks $3, and booth rent is paid for at $4 per booth.

Reeve Toole requested council to hear a speaker on the proposed oil leases in the municipality, but pointed out that so far it was a private matter between the farmers and the parties who sought to enter their farms to secure leases. A report on this matter is found elsewhere in this issue.

Relief for the month totalled only $53.55, while the road pay list totalled $657.40. The road insurance was not renewed, and will be settled at a special meeting after various agents have been invited to bid.

The township will give consideration to a building bylaw not yet drafted. In the meantime the clerk was instructed to secure certain information relative to such a bylaw and one for the control and licensing of booths in the municipalities.

School Building

Under-Insured Members Told

The Stouffville Public and Continuation schools and their entire contents are insured for $42,500, it was disclosed at a Board meeting on Monday evening, which sum was considered by all the members to be inadequate. It was pointed out that the whole insurance is little more than the debentures debt owing on the school.

A. V. Nolan, acting chairman in the absence of Dr. Freeland, said that fuller information was being sought as to the value of the building, the amount of insurance it is advisable to carry. He also said that data on the nature of the policy or policies most suited to our needs would be brought before the members at the March meeting.
