Markham Lightly Policed When Compared with City of Toronto

Ben. Gayman, Markham Township is the single constable policing 6,369 people. In the city of Toronto there is a constable for each 622 citizens. In addition in rural municipalities, many of the constables apart from doing police work, hold other positions such as water inspector, sanitary inspector, truant officer, relief officer, license issuer and caretaker.

At present York County excluding Toronto, is policed by 166 officers and men of all ranks, this figure including the county and local municipal forces. With the county population given as 254,151, there is an average of one officer for each 1,531. York Township with a population of 75,842 heads the list with forty-nine officers, an average of one of every 1,547 of its citizens; East York 16 and a population of 38,132; Forest Hill 13 and a population of 11,117; Scarborough 9 and a population of 23,208; Etobicoke 7 and a population of 15,974 and New Toronto 7 to a population of 7,175. The total cost of municipal policing last year was $328,026 and the county force cost $30,427, with 15 men of all ranks.

Slightly more than 4,000 new cars went on the road last month in Canada, with an average of $830 owing on the deal. Nearly 12,000 used cars went to new owners who left an average balance of $349 due thereon. Records of other years indicate

FIVE ARE FINED FOR LIQUOR IN AUTOS

As a result of police continuing their watch on cars parked about Musselman's Lake five persons appeared in Newmarket police court last week to answer charges of having liquor in an illegal place. "Some place," commented Magistrate J.C.M. Geran, as he ordered fines of $10.00 and costs of $3.00 and the beer confiscated in each case.

Constable Ronald Watt, who was responsible for two of the charges being laid, testified that he searched a car owned by Howard Adams, Toronto, in a parking lot at the lake and found some beer. He said that Mr. Adams admitted having been drinking in the car. The officer stated that he also searched the car of Harold Hopkins, Claremont, and that the latter, who was staying at a cottage for the weekend, admitted drinking in the car.

A plea of guilty to having liquor in their car was given by Earle Whaley and Roy McMurray, both of Toronto, on charges laid by Constable Aubrey Fleury.

"Don't do it any more," Magistrate German told the two men as he fined them the $10 and costs each.

Constable Fleury noticed John Tuttle, Montreal, sitting in his car and "just putting a bottle up to his lips." As a result the latter was fined $10.00 and costs.

SCHOOL ESSAY

Local History

GLASGOW

(By Grace Latham)

The settlement of Glasgow started about 200 years ago in 1740. It is said to have been named by Chas. Mitchell, a settler who came from Glasgow, Scotland.

One of the earliest settlers was Mr. John Morden who owned a farm on lot 6, facing Concession 2. Mr. James Forsyth was one of the next to settle in this area. He located on several hundred acres and married a sister of Mr. Morden. Other pioneers of the settlement were Mr. Joseph Stover, Mr. John Pearson, Mr. Thos. Latham, Mr. Timothy Millard and Mr. Reynolds.

The first church was built by the Forsyth family in 1845 and lasted until about 1880 when the one which still stands was built. On the hill north of the corner was a Primitive Methodist Church. In the year 1880 the shed was bought by the Goodwood Baptist Church and is still in use. The church building was bought by Mr. Timothy Bruels who took it to Ringwood and had it rebricked as a house. There was also a place where the Salvation Army came to hold meetings.

The first school was built of logs on the south-west corner and the teachers here were Miss Mapes then Mr. Frieze. In 1860 Mr. John and Benjamin Parker built the frame schoolhouse which is still in use. First teachers here were Mr. Donaldson and Mr. Jim Hand who was also a local preacher.

There were two blacksmith shops one owned by Mr. Latham and one by Mr. Samuel Ottewil. Mr. Elisha Miller kept a hotel on the north-west corner, and this building was only torn down about three years ago. Mr. Benjamin Parker kept a store and post-office until about 1900 when it was burned and rebuilt by William Forsyth. There was also a store north of the corner operated by Mr. Anderson. Mr. Elijah Patterson and Mr. Trenton were dentists who came and worked in Glasgow every once in a while. Mr. Frank Burgess supplied the pioneers with pails, buckets, barrels etc., which he made.

The water power in Glasgow was first used in 1845 by an oatmeal mill. The oats were laid out in large pans and then were heated. When the oats were dried they were put through a machine to remove the hulls and the part left was the oatmeal which the pioneers used. Later a saw mill and a grist mill were built and operated by Charles Mitchell.

Other settlers who came a little later were Mr. John Dike, Mr. John Wideman, Mr. Drewery, Mr. Humphry, Mr. Wrex.

In the year 1860 there was a live stock judging fair held in the field behind the hotel, but this was not held any more than the one year.

Pioneer Glasgow was then a thriving centre, but now it only consists of a few houses, grist mill, a church and the schoolhouse.

NO SUMMER COURSES

Announcement was made by Major J. P. Cowles of the Dept. of Education, that Ontario would have no summer courses for teachers this year under departmental control. In the last few summers the enrolment of teachers in various summer classes has risen to 7,000. "The main reason for not holding them is that so many teachers will be employed in war work," said Major Cowles.

Pine Orchard

(Too late last week)

Miss Aleta Widdifield was a recent visitor at Howard McClures.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston have been in Millbrook.

Mr. Gordon Stevens motored to Gravenhurst over the weekend.

We are sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. James Fair of Millbrook, Ontario, formerly Alma Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, her parents, one sister Jean of Toronto and three brothers, Harold of Claremont, Edson and Walter of Pine Orchard. Our sincere sympathy is extended to the family.
