Woodchuck Shooting Not Popular in Pickering

A meeting of the Pickering Township Game Committee was held on Monday evening and the matter of granting licenses to shoot woodchucks in the municipality was discussed, but was held unfavorable by the majority of those present. It was generally felt that such shooting would provide too great a hazard with so much grazing in the fields. The financial report was given by the treasurer of this meeting.

Pickering Appeals Equalized Assessment

The decision of the County Equalization Committee not to reduce the amount of equalized assessment against the Township of Pickering by reason of the municipality losing some $225,000 in assessment when the Dominion government took over a number of farms for Pickering war plant, has been appealed by the town. Government property is not assessable, and as the township loses taxes on the farms taken over, they want the county to reduce county taxation accordingly. This has been refused until next year at least.

The case will be heard by the County Judge, but probably not until September.

Jewish Campfire to Cost Pickering Tp. Over $100

Fire-fighting expenses of over

$100 were revealed as a result of the recent fire which originated in the Jewish camp on the 4th concession, and which spread to several farms destroying fences and crops. The Wilson, White and Fitzpatrick farms were all damaged to some extent. Brigades of Claremont, Brougham and Pickering all answered the call while a number of truckers also gave their assistance in drawing water. The regular charge for these outfits attending outside fires is $30.

Accounts received from the truck drivers were held over for further consideration by the Pickering Council in session on Monday.

An agreement has been reached with the Allied War Construction Co., whereby the roads taken over in the new Pickering munitions plant will be maintained by this company for the duration of the plant's operation, and will then be transferred back to the municipality. One new portion of roadway which is to be built by the munition people will also be deeded to the township on the conclusion of operations, when the war is over. A suggestion that the township share in the cost of a new $15,000 overhead bridge for an approach to the plant was turned down by Reeve Reesor and his council. The township already has several easily accessible means of crossing the tracks and it was felt that any new construction of this kind should be financed solely by the parties interested.

Numerous complaints have been heard regarding the dangerous corner at the junction of the 3rd concession and the Scarboro townline, and Councillor George Todd was delegated along with the road superintendent to interview Mr. Burkholder, owner of the property, lot 35, adjacent to the spot in question with a view to purchasing sufficient land to alleviate this hazard.

The question of weed spraying in the township came in for lengthy discussion at the regular meeting of council Monday. Deputy-reeve Heber Down was of the opinion that the cost, which last year amounted to some $400, was out of proportion to the results realized. Councillor W.H. Westney suggested that the matter be tried on the same basis as the dust layer, that is, on a fifty-fifty basis with the farmers. No immediate action was taken.

A communication was received from Scarboro to the effect that the buildings and lot of Union School Section No. 4 had been sold to the Department of Highways for the sum of $6,000. This property will be taken in with the further construction of the new Queen Elizabeth Highway. Pickering and Scarboro will share about equal in the purchase price.

Wages for farmers who will cut weeds for the township will be 35¢ an hour and for a team and a mower, 75¢ an hour. This new scale was agreed upon on Monday when the question of weed cutting came up for discussion. Road Supt. Ward stated that labor was extremely scarce and urged council to raise the hourly rate in order to get the job done.

Road accounts passed totalled $2020.00. Relief was the lowest this year, totalling only $72.88 with nine recipients on the roll. Road Supt. Ward revealed that some 50 tons of calcium had been placed on the township roads.

Who of the older generation cannot recall a Sunday School picnic.
