In Time of Bereavement

The most dignified and approved manner in which to announce the demise of loved ones, is to issue the time-honored Memorial Cards, which serve often a double purpose.

Memorial cards not only flash the news, but they announce details of a funeral.

Memorial Cards are prized as something to take care of, and are to be found in families for half a century. The message of a memorial card is more personal than any other printed form.

Should you be called on to need this service, phone direct or just ask your funeral director to secure Tribune Memorial Cards. They are obtainable in a few hours.
