 "Back of the golden harvest fields,
 Back of the stubbled land, Always,
 Always, O Master Lord, I see Thee stand.
 Back of the orchards laden-red, Back
 of their leafy grace, always, Master
 of love and life I see Thy face.
 Over my cup of milk, my loaf, There at my tables end, Ever, O dear beloved guest I see Thee bend.
 I do not hold one day apart for Thy especial praise, all through the year
 my thanks arise For Thy good days:
 All through the year my grateful
 heart leaps like a living spring:
 Sparkling, laughing thanking Thee.
FOR EVERYTHING."

—G. N. Crowell.
