Wm. Louis Banbury Dies in 91st Year

The funeral took place at Aurora cemetery on Tuesday last week of one of Aurora's oldest citizens, the late Wm. Louis Banbury, who died at Whitby on Sunday.

Mr. Banbury was in his 91st year and was born at Columbus in Pickering township, Ontario county. He was one of a family of five sons and one daughter. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Banbury.

After farming in the Columbus district he and his brother, Jesse, came to Aurora about 49 years ago and purchased the livery business of the late James Major, which operated back of the Queen's hotel. The business was a flourishing one, with 12 or 15 horses in use. About 23 years ago he built the Banbury block on Yonge St. and after the horse went out of fashion ran a taxi business. He was for four or five years town constable and was for 15 years a member of the public school board. He was a member of Aurora United church, school for many years, and a member of the board of management.

He had been in ill-health for the past five years, as has been his wife, the former Ruth Bell of Claremont, who survives him. A brother, Jack died in Idaho, U.S.A., two months ago. Two brothers, Jesse and Geo. of Aurora, and one sister, Mrs. Sherman Rumohr of Claremont, survive. Rev. Roy Hicks was in charge of the funeral service.
