

BUTTER is four Pats a Week in Britain

HITLER chose "Guns instead of butter." So the Nazis have guns! We must catch up . . . and beat them.

They tortured people to make them save. We must save willingly.

So it's up to us, each one of us, to economize of our own free will . . . to economize and buy War Savings Stamps so that we can outstrip our enemies with planes and tanks and guns and ships . . . so that our soldiers may be better equipped than the enemy they have to conquer.

Women must help by economizing in the kitchen, by patching and darning, by shopping carefully and cutting out waste. Make up your mind now to buy one, two, five or more War Savings Stamps every week. You can. You must!

Buy War Savings Stamps from banks, post offices, telephone offices, department stores, druggists, grocers, tobacconists, book stores and other retail stores.

GORMLEY MAN IS PROMOTED

Among the promotions recently announced of Canadian officers overseas is that of an old Vandorf boy F. H. VanNostrand to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel, R.C.A.M.C.

Prior to the war Col. VanNostrand was on the staff of Christie Street Hospital, and his promotion will be learned with interest by his many acquaintances in the Township of Whitechurch.

Since he went overseas Col. VanNostrand's mother met with a fatal accident it will be recalled and was killed by the ferocious attack of a ram near the family home at Vandorf.

SCOTT TOWNSHIP NEAR 100th BIRTHDAY

It will be exactly 100 years next January 1943 since the township of Scott was organized into a municipality. The first minute book of the township is still intact. It reveals that the first meeting was held at the home of one Thomas Hood, Lot 3, Con. 6, and Abraham Bagshaw was elected first chairman, and John Clark, father of the well known Peter Clark, the first clerk, assessor and collector of taxes. The township at that time must have only been half cleared for cropping or perhaps not that amount of land was freed from the bush.

To Make Movie of Our Navy

Joris Ivens, director and producer of documentary motion pictures shown here with a naval cameraman, is now engaged in making a film of the Royal Canadian Navy.

Phil Osifer of Lazy Meadows

Writing in the Herald and Times of Walkerton we were impressed with a story terms "Phil Osifer of Lazy Meadows," and without comment here it is:

"The Phil Osifer family has just been picked as the typical family of Canada. You may be surprised at that. Surprised, is no word to describe my feelings when a car drove into the laneway one day and an excited young man jumped out and started ordering me around. He shoved a card into my hand, said a whole mouthful of words, and expected me to understand what he was saying.

Finally he calmed down and said that he wanted to take a film of the family and the general doings here at Lazy Meadows. It seems that we were picked as the average Canadian family and he wanted to start taking pictures right away. We're all human and the young man had a way with him. In spite of Mrs. Phil's doubts on the whole affair I agreed and the crew arrived next morning.

Wearing some of the strangest clothes I have ever seen in my life, this gang of young fellows swarmed over the place like a bunch of ants over a honey-pail lid. They unloaded crate after crate of complicated looking machinery. Then the fun really started. We may have been the average family . . . but they tried desperately hard to make us anything but the average. They argued and haggled over silly, little pieces of paper and what they called "shooting locations."

I won't tell you of the scenes which they actually did take. In place of that we'll talk about the ones which they wanted and about which we made such a fuss that they were finally deleted. I was lean-over to pick up some chips in the back yard when one of the directors in the gang saw the patches on the seat of my overalls. They wanted to take a close-up of a rear-view of me stooping over. We argued about that for hours but I refused to give it.

They were glum and scur-looking. One of the men chanced to go out in the back wood-shed. He saw the old tub in which the Saturday evening bath ritual is performed. He forgot all about the patches. Wouldn't I just take a bath in the old tub. It would make an excellent scene. They were off in a cloud of rapture at the thought of having me fathering up in that old tub. It was a marvelous idea. Of course they would not do that. By the time that I had a chance to protest they were planning all the intimate details of it. They even had the cameras set up in the wood-shed.

My ideas of making a film were not exactly of that nature. I refused and they pleaded. I continued to refuse. They sulked. Didn't I want to co-operate? All the Hollywood movie actors and actresses were erady at a moments notice to peel for a scene like that. It was a honey. I still persisted in my refusal.

There were plenty of ideas like that. They wanted Mrs. Phil and I to pose in bed with long, cotton night-gowns on. One of them actually wanted to cut a half-moon in the door of the little house in the backyard to make it seem more realistic. They had a thousand and one ideas in a minute. We refused all of them and finally they started listening to what we told them about the way we live on the farm. They were amazed. Finally they gave up their queer notions about the farmers of Canada and made their film. It just goes to show you how little city people actually do know about their country cousins."

Housewife, Teacher and Tuber Grower

Musselman's Lake district upholds some rather remarkable people, and one we give credit to right now is Mrs. Robert Windsor, wife of the township constable. In addition to attending to her household duties for her husband and young family, Mrs. Windsor taught school last year near Mount Albert, driving back and forth each day, and her entrance class all passed too. In recognition of her teaching qualities the trustees have offered Mrs. Windsor a contract for next term at an increased salary.

Now that would seem quite a chore for one woman, but we're not through yet. Mrs. Windsor directed the cultivation of some 12 acres of potatoes in her spare time, and from sample now dug, it will be a wonderful crop. The tubers are from certified seed, and while seed and fertilizer invested runs around $500 this crop ought to turn out a nice profit. However, this item is intended to tell our readers about what one woman can accomplish if she is proficient and possessed of a will to get things done, and not about the profits on potatoes.

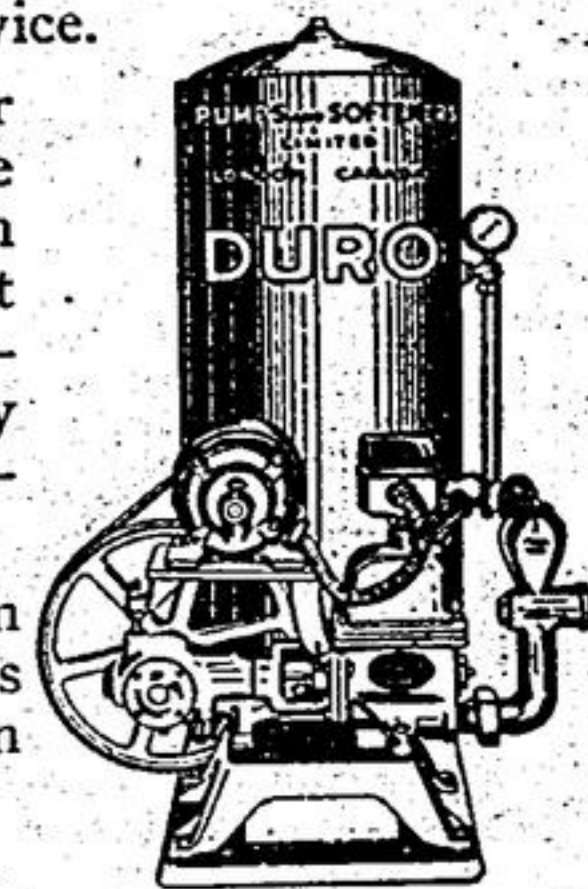

THAT'S what everyone has to do these days — manufacturers, dealers and consumers.

Because of the reduction of materials available for the manufacture of Duro Pumping Systems, our many dealers have been requested to place the few new Duro Pumps we can allot each one with prospective purchasers whose war-time farm production can be materially increased by having running water.

These dealers, because we cannot supply as many new Duro Pumps as they can sell, will be anxious to keep every Duro Pump in their territory in good running order, so that it will give maximum uninterrupted service.

The Duro dealer in your vicinity will be glad to service and replace worn parts in your Duro Pump. Have it checked now to insure a continuation of the satisfactory service to which you are accustomed.

The Duro Special shown opposite pumps 250 gallons per hour and has a 25 gallon galvanized tank.
