Lottery Draft Plan Will Probably Be Scrapped Entirely

Eligible Men Still Able to Enlist for Active Service—Local Business Soon to Feel Shortage of Help.

The lottery plan of drafting men into the army has not yet been fully worked out according to Mr. Thorson in Ottawa, and will not be used for the August call-up. It is even hinted that the Department has decided after study to abandon the whole scheme as impractical. In the United States the original method of calling up men by lot has also been abandoned.

Dozens of men from Stouffville and immediate district are being called to the army, and any single man up to 40 years of age may expect to get his notice now any day.

They are being called to the active army for home defense, but of course the Federal Government may take steps at any time to send Canadian troops overseas.

A rumour to the effect that those eligible for the call-up can no longer voluntarily enlist has been found to be incorrect. According to Lieut. Dewey, recruiting officer in Toronto, M.D. 2, a slight change is planned and more may be heard about it shortly.

Eligible recruits may be placed in the branch of the army they prefer, such as the infantry, artillery, signals, etc., but it is quite unlikely they can select the unit they wish to join.

Affecting Business Already, local employers are finding the loss of men called to the army is affecting their staffs.

To what extent this will continue is something that only the authorities know, but with numerous calls for men coming in daily, little imagination is required to foresee that many firms will have to employ men under or over military where.

Our War Effort

A Weekly Review of Developments on the Home Front: July 16-23, 1942

1. Canada's synthetic rubber production for 1943 expected to reach 14,000 tons. Eventual annual production estimated at 40,700 tons.

2. Canada to produce 65 merchant ships by December 1, 1942. Twenty-five now delivered or ready for delivery. Before war, shipbuilding ran to only a few thousands tons annually.

3. All but 200 of the 1,267 Japanese fishing boats detained by Dominion authorities when Japan entered the war are again out fishing but under non-Japanese ownership, charter or lease.

4. Coastal defence of Canada considered at secret session of the House of Commons (July 18). Situation explained by three Ministers of Defence.

5. Since war began, 7,920 British children have entered Canada. Of them, 1,532 came to Canada under a Government scheme; 5,630 under private arrangement; 758 are remaining permanently.

6. Staff, guests or inmates of hotels, inns, clubs, serving meals, staff dining room and hospitals are now required to have sugar ration cards.

7. Japanese in British Columbia have been moved from areas considered by military authorities to be particularly vulnerable.

age together with girls and women.

After a man receives his call to the army, he is given three days to obtain a medical examination. Within seven more days he receives his second call together with transportation to the centre where he is instructed to report. If he passes his medical and other tests successfully, he is then a member of the Canadian Active Army and can be called upon to serve in defence of the Dominion in any areas deemed expedient.

Because M.D. 2, of which Stouffville is a part, is more populous than some others, many more young civilians are to be seen on the streets than in some other military districts. According to reports, most of the younger men have been called up in M.D. 3, with headquarters at Kingston, and the older men in their thirties are receiving calls now.

Canada is divided into 11 military districts and two coastal commands, and unless all signs fail, ever-increasing demands from the army will be made on each of them, so that in the not distant future, battle-dress will be the most general attire of male residents everywhere.

8. Purchasers applying for essential materials under new Allocation Priorities system must continue to indicate the exact purpose for which the materials will be used announces Department of Munitions and Supply.

BOTTLES BADLY NEEDED

Owing to labor shortage, bottles are now badly needed, so badly that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has issued an order making it an offence willfully to destroy any bottles fit for use. Salvage agencies are also in the market for all kinds of broken glass, including bottles, windows and plate glass which can be ground up and re-manufactured. Search house, garage and other buildings for unused bottles and get them to your nearest salvage disposal agency.

130 Twp. School Areas Replace 666 Ontario Sections

The number of township school areas in Ontario at the end of last year had increased to 130, involving the dissolutions of 666 sections, according to report given out.

Prior to 1938 only fifteen township school areas or boards were formed in the province. They were substituted for 83 school sections. In the years 1938, 1939, 1940 and 1941 the number of additional school areas established was, respectively, 15, 43, 26 and 31, representing 583 school sections.

Township school area trustees are not paid for their services, but the board may pay to each trustee a mileage allowance not exceeding seven cents each mile necessary travelled by him in going to the meetings of the board from his home and returning to it, providing that this allowance is not paid for more than eight meetings in any year.
