pressed the opinion that the dead woman had possibly suffered from a seizure, by virtue of the fact that her hands were found clutched at her abdomen when brought out of the water. "Armstrong evidently jumped in to save her, got into difficulties and called for help," he declared.

Others taking part in dragging operations were Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson, Constable Robert Windsor, and George Dewsbury, of Whitchurch; Percy Ash.

Born Near Orillia

Miss Lawlor was a daughter of the late Frank Lawlor and Mrs. Josephine Lawlor, 11th Concession of Medonte. She was born on the family homestead, and was educated at Jarrett's Corners School, and at Orillia Collegiate. Her mother, five sisters and three brothers survive. They are: Mrs. John Quinn, 119 Hollywood crescent, Toronto; Mrs. Brady Lee, Toronto; Mrs. Edward Cooper, Bracebridge; Mrs. Paul Magneau, Larder Lake; Mrs. Frank J. Robbins, R.R. No. 2, Orillia. Brothers surviving are Jack of Mt. St. Louis; Frank, who resides directly across the road from the old homestead, and Darcy, at home.

Mr. Armstrong was a former general manager of the Puritan Laundry Company and was president of the Launderers and Cleaners' Association. He left his position with the Puritan Laundry Company in June to accept a position with the War-time Prices and Trades Board.

He lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, and had been spending the weekend at his summer cottage near Vondorf.

Tried to Swim to Shore

Tymchuschyn was drowned off Ash's boat livery at the main section of the bathing beach when he attempted to swim to shore from a row boat, occupied by John Vlasyty Observers said he didn't swim very far when he developed stomach cramps and cried for help.

Observing his plight from the shore, husky 15-year-old Anita Haynes swam quickly to the scene about 100 yards out. The girl attempted to grasp his hair, but failed to do so.

"I swam out to save him, for no one else around seemed to do anything when he called for help. When I saw him go down for the last time, I stayed near the spot so that I could point out to rescuers where he went under," she said.

The body was recovered about fifteen minutes later by Percy Ash, and brought to shore where Dr. J. P. Wilson of Richmond Hill, worked for over an hour trying to revive him by artificial respiration.

"I've certainly got to take my hat off to the Haynes youngster, she's the bravest girl I've ever seen," said Percy Ash who said that he had never experienced such a tragic weekend in all his 22 years of business at Wilcox Lake. "She simply showed no sign of fear when she risked her own life to save a frantic, drowning victim. I thought for a time she would be pulled under, too," he added.

welcome parcel of cigarettes waiting. Thanks plenty, and while I known you are always hearing the same thing, let me tell you we really mean it. I understand it's been a little damp over home this spring. Hope you soon get a little sunshine.

Yours,
George Abell.

July 14th.

Dear Comrades,

Thanks again to all those who make your fund possible. Getting good smokes this war is a privilege you "old sweats" did not enjoy last time. Those who remember the issue of "half a mo's" will no doubt agree. All in good shape over here. Everyone tired of waiting, but things will break wide open soon.

Sgt. Percy Pipher.

Hello Bert,

Well Bert, how are things going with you and the fish plant, or are you still working there. I suppose everything in Canada is going strong now that there aren't so many fellows left around the old town to do the work. Suppose most of them are gone where there is more money Haven't been down near London yet, but I will get around to it. It has been very dry here, and today is the first we have had a good rain for two months. Hope you got the ring I sent. Sorry I didn't get the cigarettes you sent to me the last two months, but have received the June lot. The Germans still drop a few eggs around now and again, but not the kind you can eat. I haven't seen any of the boys from home for a long time, but I guess there are quite a few of them scattered throughout England. Try and drop a line if you get time. Keep the old wheel turning and we will try to do the same.

Harold Lewis.

Dear Comrades,

Just a few lines thanking you very much for the fags I received this week through your fund. Thanks to all the people who contribute too. We had rain yesterday, the first in two months. Things are still fairly quiet here. We are building camps and between jobs we get a spell of training. Thanking you again, I remain,

Spr. A. Maskell

Important Change...

The time to switch from Marmill Growing Mash to Marmill Laying Meal or Excello Laying Mash is at four months of age. Make the change gradually, keeping up the grain feeding as before, and mixing the two mashes, that is Marmill Growing Mash & Marmill Egg Mash. Gradually increase the Egg Mash until at the end of six or seven days the Growing Mash is left out entirely. As we stated before, changing from Marmill Growing Mash to Marmill Laying Mash at four months does not force the bird into production, it merely builds the bird up.

Birds may lay well for a short time, on an inferior ration, but for steady, high production something better is required.

Marmill Laying Mash is made up of selected ingredients and is carefully balanced for highest results.

AN UNUSUAL CASE

Judge W. G. Owens of Walkerton presided over a rather unusual case at a special sitting of Dufferin county court in Orangeville, when

Clare Cook, Mulmur township farmer, sued Thomas H. McMahon, veterinary surgeon, also of Mulmur, charging mal-practice and negligence in an operation on a black Percheron stallion, owned by the plaintiff. The horse took ill and died four days after the operation in April, 1941. Hearing of the case continued 10 hours. The evidence disclosed that the plaintiff had requested Mr. McMahon to dock the stallion's tail. The veterinary administered a tetanus anti-toxoid injection and operated three days later. He intended to use a scalpel, but Cook insisted that he perform the operation with an axe and to this he finally agreed. For the plaintiff it was claimed that the axe had not been properly sterilized. Two neighboring veterinarians, Dr. Maxwell of Barrie and Dr. Dunn of Elmvale, expressed the opinion that the defendant had failed to exercise proper care. In the end a settlement was arranged, plaintiff to receive $200.

AN OLD CANADIAN CUSTOM

When our pioneer grandparents had a big job to do they called in their neighbours. A barn raising brought help from miles around. Skilled barn framers took charge; sides were chosen and competition between teams lent interest to the work. This old Canadian custom was revived when Canada's National War Finance Committee was formed and went into operation. Under the leadership of the National and Provincial Committees—men experienced in the organization and conduct of financial operations—Local Committees were formed in all communities. Cooperation and competition characterized the work. The biggest "raising" in Canada's history got away to a magnificent start.

WE'VE GOT A BIG JOB TO DO NOW

The War goes on. The National War Finance Committee carries on. Some will serve on the committees organized to promote continued sales of Bonds, War Savings Certificates and Stamps. All of us must continue to buy these securities. We must save every dollar, every cent we can—and lend our money to Canada. We must provide the money required to carry on the war—the money required to win the war.

Our fighters must have more ships and tanks and guns and planes. They must have better ships and tanks and guns and planes than the enemy has. We must all work, and save and lend. The safest investments we can find for our savings are Bonds, War Savings Certificates and Stamps—and they will provide money for us to buy things that we will want when the war is ended.
