Egg Factory

Stouffville folks, we are right in your neighborhood with fresh cage laid eggs from battery layers. This is the most modern and up-to-date way of producing hen fruit in its most sanitary form. These birds are raised on wire floors, never ever getting to the droppings. On maturity they go into individual cages, on sloping wire floors, eggs when laid, roll to the front. They get pure sterilized water, and special cereal food fed the Ful-O-Pepway, to secure fine upstanding yolks, with delicious odor and flavor. Once tasted you will never have the barnyard or floor variety. These eggs cost you no more than the ordinary kind. From producer to consumer, gives you guaranteed fresh eggs, with a saving to you and a profit to us. A phone call brings them to your door. Phone 8411 Stouffville or at Stiver Bros. IN MEMORIAM

CROSSEN—In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Wm. Crossen, who passed away Jan. 17, 1942. As a wonderful mother we still think of you in memories that are still fond and true.

There wasn't a thing too big or too small
That you wouldn't try to do for us all.

It's sad but true I wonder why,
That the best are always the first to die.

We have lost, but Heaven has gained
The best mother this world ever contained.

Ever remembered by son Fred and daughter-in-law, Eleanor

IRWIN — In loving memory of my dear husband, Robert Irwin, who passed away January 14, 1940.

The one I loved has gone to rest,
His fond true heart is still;
The hand that always helped me
Now lies in death's cold chill.
When all is still and silent,
And sleep forsakes my eyes,
My thoughts are in the silent grave
Where my dear husband lies.
Ever remembered by his wife

Charge Farmers are 'Let Down' by Selective Service

Former York Warden Warns Action Essential to Maintain Present Production

LACK FARM HELP

York County farmers and farm officials today welcomed with open arms the suggestion of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture that compulsory labor be instituted to help meet the demands of the government for increased food production. "Theoretically I'm all for it," declared W. M. Cockburn, York county agricultural representative. "But I don't know just what kind of work compulsory labor would do if it were put into practice. We're not used to it in this country." He criticized Selective Service officials for allowing farm lads to "slip through their fingers" into better paying industry, after they had received postponements from military service.

"There would not be the present shortage of labor if these young men had not been allowed to enter other industries," he said. "There should certainly be a strict check made before permission is granted. One boy near here left a farm to take a job in an industrial plant and now his brother is left alone to till 150 acres."

Mr. Cockburn said many of the lads get military postponements on the strength of their farm experience and then "almost before they are out the door," they form plans to get factory jobs. "The local Selective Service officer in Newmarket checks with our office before he gives postponements or allows farm boys to leave for 'big money' in the city," he added.

He revealed the farm labor situation is steadily getting worse, despite volunteer help. "While our labor is dropping off all the time, we are continually bombarded with requests to increase production," he said. "It's like an eight-cylinder car. We're now operating on only four cylinders, yet we are being pushed to greater speed than we reached on all eight before the war."

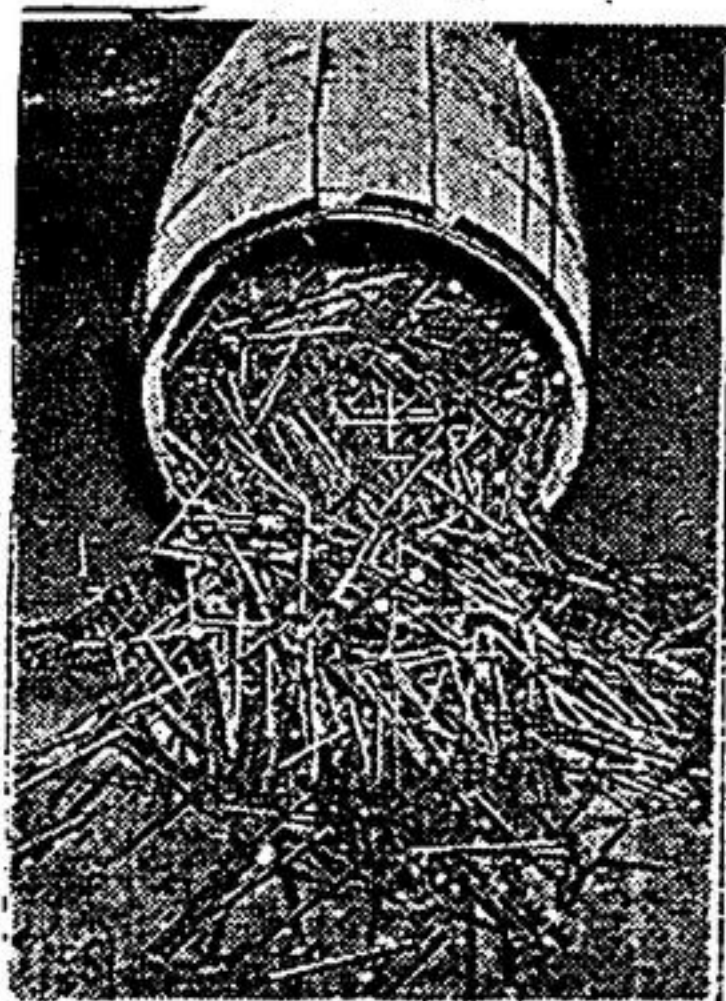

He said the government has asked farmers to attempt increases of 10 per cent in beef output, 10 per cent in butter, 15 per cent in eggs and 25 per cent in pork. "Last year, Canada produced more wheat and livestock than at any other time in her history, but we can't keep it up," said. "Vegetable production has already begun to drop off."

"Some kind of action must be taken if production is to be kept at its present level, let alone be increased," warned Reeve C. Earl Toole of Whitechurch township. A dirt farmer himself, he was warden of York county council last year.

"I don't know what plans they have for getting this compulsory labor, and the manner in which they get it makes a lot of difference," he said. "Therefore, I don't think I should make any comment on the plan. However, if the government feels it is necessary to conscript men to fight on battlefields, I think they should consider it necessary to conscript men to provide food on the home front. Food can be just as important a weapon as shells in winning the war."

He echoed Mr. Cockburn's criticism of the Selective Service board.

SAVE 10,000 OF THESE

"Worth its weight in gold" right now is this 100-pound keg of nails. Multiply the keg by 10,000 and you get the approximate annual saving in nails accomplished by new conservation methods in Canada's war plants. The saving is realized by using the same ammunition boxes over and over again.
