ONCE LAD OF LEMONVILLE WILL SOON BE 89

James H. White of Rokeby, Sask., native son of Lemonville, will be 89 years of age on the 17th of February next. This is interesting information to the many readers who will recall James White, son of the Lemonville post master of over a century ago. Those were the busy days for the little hamlet on the 7th of Whitechurch with its post master busy at his bench when not handling the mail. Many folks still remember the post master, William White. His son James has been in Western Canada for a good many years. James had a brother Edwin who was employed here with Todd & Cook for some time.

In renewing his subscription Mr. James H. White says: "I would not like to be without the paper. There has been some interesting things in it lately." He also reports a fine winter around Rokeby, good sleighing, and no storms up to time of writing.

Old friends far and near will join in wishing this old timer from Whitechurch hearty congratulations on the eve of his 89th birthday.

ALEX. McMILLAN DEAD

AT UXBRIDGE

The death on Friday night last of James Alexander McMillan came as a shock to his many friends in Uxbridge as he had been down town in his usual health during the day and in the evening, but during the night he was suddenly stricken with a heart attack from which he passed away in a very few minutes. He was in his 55th year and had not been any too robust for some years.

The late James Alexander McMillan was born at Unionville in 1887, a son of Mrs. and the late David McMillan and for some years was employed in Toronto until 1932 when he returned to Uxbridge and engaged in horse dealing. In 1936 he married Carrie Bustin, who with his mother survives him. Deceased was a relative of Mr. George Watson and Hugh Anderson of Stouffville. —Uxbridge Times-Journal

Ex-Warden C. E. Toole congratulates Mr. Stan. Osborne, elected Warden of York County last week for the year 1943. Warden Osborne is reeve of East Gwillimbury Township. The election marks the rare occasion when the warden of York has been chosen from the north end of the county for two years in succession.

Seldom Seen

Isn't it strange how we older fellows get the idea every so often that we are still young enough to go out and play with the youngsters. Last year I was watching the kids out on the pond in the meadow on the Higgins place. They were gliding around on their skates as happy and carefree as you please. They were cutting figure eights and curls and everything.

There was an old pair of skates hanging in the driving shed. They were a bit rusty and the boots were hard from lack of grease but I picked them up and went across to the pond. The youngsters didn't say anything but there seemed to be a titter of amusement running around the crowd. They were frankly amused by the whole thing. In fact they seemed to put on a perfect demonstration of skating from then on. It looked so easy and it was so easy to remember the days when I cut quite a figure on the ice.

Those first few moments of teetering on the ice were bad . . . mighty bad . . . but then after discovering that the best way was to forget all about the long, dashing strokes I started to creep across: There were rusty streaks along behind me . . . long, brown smears and my toes were all cramped up in the too-small boots. A youngster went dashing around me in a graceful swirl and I was off again on a flight of fancy imagining that I could do the same thing. That's when I lost my balance and the ice came up with startling rapidity. In fact I went down to meet it in a very amazing way.

The older you get the more stubborn it seems you get. No matter what you do you keep on thinking that in just a little while you will be able to do it properly. The more you keep on the worse it gets and I do mean worse. I slipped and fell and skidded and finally landed on some shell ice and went down on my knees in water. I went home and spent a whole week with aches and bruises. Muscles I never knew existed before came to light in a painful way. I got a cold that lasted all winter and every time I sneezed it seemed as if the pain in my muscles decided to start all over again.

Just last week I watched the youngsters out from school trying their toboggan on the steep slopes of the big hill. They had perfect tobogganing. It had rained a little scum of ice over the snow and on this crust they were whizzing along like bullets. It was the most perfect thing you could imagine. My, but they were having lots of fun. I sort of ambled over to where they were hoping all the time that they would ask me to join them.

At first I just stood there making out I just wanted to watch them. Then they finally asked me if I would like to go for a ride. At first I said I didn't want to. They insisted and so finally I got on. It was a most thrilling thing to go whizzing along. The steep climb back up the hill wasn't so good but I took that in my stride.

I sat out for a couple of times and then the oldest Higgins lad asked me to go along and go over the bump. That was a hollowed out piece that gave just the right twist to send you flipping high in the air. The boys had all gone over the bump and they didn't seem to mind it. They put me on the back of the toboggan. I was the heaviest they said. We skimmed along like nobody's business. Then came the bump. Wow! What a bump that really was. We hit it at a tremendous speed and the first thing I knew the toboggan was away off down the hill and I was rolling down the crust. It was like rolling through a plate glass window.

Yesterday was the first day that I could shave myself without supreme torture. I've ached and pained and have resolved to never try anything like that again. I wonder what fool thing I'll try next year. A person has a hard time learning common sense it seems.

Obituary

John Jacob Lunau

After a lingering illness John Jacob Lunau passed away at his home Richmond Hill, on Monday evening, January 18th 1943. Mr. Lunau was born January 6th, 1866, in Uxbridge township, near Goodwood. In 1887 he married Harriett Burnham of Scott Township. They celebrated their golden wedding on February 1st, 1936.

Mr. Lunau's young manhood was spent in farming. He lived at Sandford, Lemonville, and Victoria Square. Forty years ago he joined the Macabees at Stouffville.

Twenty eight years ago he moved to Richmond Hill.

He was elected to the council and served as Reeve for seven years. He was a member of the United Church which he attended faithfully until his health began to fail.

Mr. Lunau is survived by his widow and two daughters, Mrs. R. Perkins, Victoria Square and Mrs. E. Brown, Richmond Hill, also by three sisters, Mrs. Thompson of Zephyr, Mrs. Lawton and Mrs. Norris of Toronto, and one brother George in Michigan. Mr. Nathan

KEEP FARM POULTRY AWAY FROM PIG PENS

In spite of the fact that great strides have been made in eradicating bovine tuberculosis, which was formerly believed to be the main source of tuberculous infection in pigs, tuberculosis in hogs is increasing, states Dr. A. E. Cameron, Veterinary Director General of Canada. A large percentage of tuberculosis in swine is of the avian type and is transmitted to swine by poultry. Consequently, farmers raising swine should take measures to prevent poultry having access to pig pens. If poultry are kept away from swine, healthy pigs are prevented from contracting avian tuberculosis.

Forsythe of Stouffville was his uncle.

The funeral took place on Jan. 21, following a private service in the home. Public service was held in Richmond Hill United Church conducted by the pastor.

Interment took place in Victoria Square Cemetery. The pall bearers were Edward Brown, Pte. Douglas Brown, Donald Giffen, Floyd R. Perkins, Donald Pickering and Gordon Mortson.
