Seldom Seen

Its a long time since we used to gather in the evenings over at the corner store to sit around on the cracker barrel, swap yarns, repair the government fences, and generally run the country. My wife used to say, "Josh, I don't see why the store keeper doesn't ask you to go home," and if I did come back without getting the soap or the coal oil there was a lot more said to me.

Feeling a little bit pepped up about the way the war is going and on how the loan is jumping even if it lags a bit in our own township, and especially around Seldom Seen, for that name after all refers to dollar bills, I undertook to pencil a bit of poetry on the old cracker barrel, so here goes:

I remember the old cracker barrel
As it stood in the grocery man's store,
And we farmers would often there gather

When the tolls of our long day was o'er.

You didn't begrudge us that respite,
We richly deserved it, I'm sure;

'Twas there we talked over our problems—

Even then life was so insecure.
In these modern days problems are graver,

More serious than ever they are.
Long hours, poor returns for our labours,

And many restrictions that bar.
Our sons catch the lure of the city,
Farm help is most hard to obtain,
It would take more than one cracker barrel,

Even a list of their 'plaints to contain.

But the farmer still thinks (who would blame him?)

And quite rightly conventions attends,

To study and plan for improvement,
And in some way to make for amends
And those frequent "sits" on the barrel

Though not quite altogether in vain.
Are replaced now by more modern systems,

But still without adequate gain.
There are critics, however—ill timed ones—

Who with voice and with pen make complaint,
Blaming farmers themselves for farm losses.

Due to "grandfather's ways," old and quaint.

They say they still sit on the barrels,
Cracker barrels (perhaps Christie's), oh well!

If they do they have themes that concern them—

Themes that for improvement should tell.

We're lonesome indeed, for old cracker barrel,

Like a pulpit we stood by its side.
And preached blood and thunder aplenty

In those days now long gone bye.

money, as though it were just some charlatan's trickery or some hypnotic charm that could be exercised at will, once the secret of it was known — His attitude has introduced into our language a new name for a certain type of sin. We speak of simony as the effort to make money out of religious rites and ceremonies.

Verse 21 — "Thy heart is not right in the sight of God." This was the root of the whole trouble. Simon had never faced his sins in the presence of God. There had been a Christian profession without repentance. There is always the danger of this when a great religious awakening is in progress. Some are likely to be outwardly moved, emotionally stirred, who have never realized their lost condition and their need of a Saviour. When these are added to the Christian company, they become liabilities rather than assets, hindrances instead of helpers. It is a great mistake to be too hasty in counting converts. Mere profession manifests its unreality when a little time has elapsed.

Verse 22 — "Repent . . . pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee." Peter did more than expose Simon's unreality and wickedness. He exhorted him to judge his sin in the sight of God and to cry to Him for forgiveness. It was not yet too late to find deliverance.

Verse 23 — "I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity." In spite of his lip profession and his baptism, the heart of this man was unchanged. He was envious of those who seemed to possess mysterious powers which he desired, and he was still a slave to sin, a thrall of Satan whom he had served so long.

Verse 24 — "Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which we have spoken come upon me." There was no evidence of repentance, no definite intention to get right with God. Exhorted to go directly to the One against whom he had sinned so grievously, Simon sought to evade the whole matter by asking Peter to do the praying for him, as though vicarious confession and pleading for pardon were the same thing as facing one's own condition before God and crying to Him for needed forgiveness. Peter apparently gave him no answer. The man was determined to pursue his own unholy course. Further exhortation was useless.

Verse 25 — "They . . . preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans." Encouraged by what they had seen of the manifest grace of God, Peter and John left Philip and these young converts and started back to Jerusalem, stopping long enough in village after village along the way to proclaim the Gospel to other people of the same mixed races

PATRIOTISM IS NOT

STOUFFVILLE, MARKHAM — WHITCHURCH

LET'S EACH BUY
VICTORY BONDS

While Stouffville has passed its objective and Markham and Whitchurch are working hard, lets take nothing for granted. Lets make sure every possible dollar is invested.

As a matter of fact, there should be no quotas in connection with the sale of Victory Bonds. Until the war has been won there can be no halting — no resting for any of us. We haven't won the war yet.

Our fighters are not working on a quota basis. They are "all out", doing everything they can to get the job done.

So, if we give this matter proper thought, each of us will buy MORE Victory Bonds. We will buy all we can for cash, and we will buy more — on the instalment plan — all we can pay for in the next six months. If necessary, we will scrimp to save to do it.

LOOK OUT FOR YOUR LIVER!

You can't be completely well
if your liver isn't well.

Your liver is the largest organ in your body and most important to your health. It pours out bile to digest food, gets rid of waste, supplies new energy, allows proper nourishment to reach your blood. When your liver gets out of order food decomposes in your intestines. You become constipated, stomach and kidneys can't work properly. You feel "rotten" — headache, backache, dizzy, dragged out all the time.

Thousands have won prompt relief with "Fruit-a-tive." So can you NOW. Try "Fruit-a-tive" Canada's largest selling liver tablets. They must be good. You'll be delighted how quickly you'll feel like a new person, happy and well again. 25c, 50c.
