CLOSING BIBLE SCHOOL NIGHT

The M.B.C. Church was packed on Friday evening for the closing exercises of the Vacation Bible School sponsored each year by this church, and splendidly supported by other denominations who realize the fine work being done. The total enrollment this year was 150 students, according to Rev. H. Shantz, while the average attendance was 117. Friday's program was provided by the classes giving sketches of the work they had taken during the two weeks' course of study, and it proved quite a revelation to the parents and others, that so much could be gathered by the children in so short a time.

TO BE CONSIDERED

The plea put forth through the columns of this paper two weeks ago on behalf of the Ballantrae farmers who receive mail from Cedar Valley that they be allowed to be serviced from Stouffville, has not fallen on deaf ears. Postmaster General Mulock has promised to look into the proposal to route one of the Stouffville couriers who passes within a mile and a half of Ballantrae to carry the Ballantrae mail. Indeed the matter is now being checked, and the possibilities are that this long suffering corner will get an improved mail service almost immediately.

From Cedar Valley the mail is delivered and taken only three days a week, whereas the Stouffville service is daily and more accurate since Cedar Valley is not on a railway line.

Agnes Macphail Opens Campaign at Hagerman

Opening her election campaign in York East at Hagerman school on Wednesday evening of last week, Agnes Macphail addressed a well attended meeting of the residents of that district. Miss Macphail spent a good part of the evening in renewing old acquaintances and in expressing appreciation for the many promises of campaign assistance.

In her remarks Miss Macphail stressed the need for a price floor which would assure the farmer a decent living, particularly in the period of readjustment when the war has been won. The value of farm property indicates clearly that agriculture is an insufficiently rewarded occupation. If the young people are to be kept on the farms, said Miss Macphail, there will have to be some assurance that agriculture will be fairly rewarded for its labours. To establish young farmers on the land the Government should make loans available at low interest rates over long terms. In this connection Miss Macphail praised the system of loans which prevailed in Denmark before the present war.

The candidate reviewed the policies of the C.C.F. pointing out that these had been democratically worked out by the people in annual conventions held during the past ten years. Referring to the farm program of the C.C.F. Miss Macphail assured the gathering that the family farm is and always has been the centre of the party's policy. The family on the farm must be assured of a decent standard of living and a promising future if the family farm is to flourish. The public must own or control those trusts and monopolies which control the lives of the people through their handling of the money markets and all aspects of trade.

In the field of education Miss Macphail recommended the revision of the courses of study in rural schools to allow pupils to learn more things which would be of direct value to them in their lives on the soil. Such courses should include farm motor mechanics.

At the close of the meeting Miss Macphail answered many questions about co-operatives, health insurance and other matters.

of hay in his barns with nearly 100 more to be brought in.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Ratcliff, Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Stouffer, and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Steckley and Burnice, had tea with Mr. and Mrs. Truman Grove on Sunday.
