The more I think of it the more I laugh sometimes at the different views people have on the same thing. I was talking to the editor of this paper once as he told me how a certain article he once wrote brought condemnation, while another group said it was the fairest thing they had ever read on the issue. Then he told me that one man confessed that he believed the editor was paid to make the charge he did. All the time the editor said he never intended the item in question to either offend or defend, but rather instructive. So you see, the editor had a different view to a lot of other people and he was the author of the thing.

Now I'm going to confess something. Not long ago I went for a boat ride at Musselman's one hot Sunday night. Mrs. Josh. doesn't like boats, but we had some friends for tea and it was a "doost" of a hot day and she was ready for anything when evening came that promised relief. It was just dusk and all you could see around that pot of water was people, twinkling lights and motor cars.

The breeze came leaping up over the bow of the boat when we got out on the lake, but somehow felt sort of out of place because it was the Sabbath day, and we never spent one quite like that before. I shook off the idea that there was anything wrong about spending the Sabbath evening in this fashion and tried to enjoy the cool relief. I said to myself, if the good Lord wanted me to stay from the lake on the Sabbath why in thunder didn't he provide some tolerable weather for a farmer. He knows better than we do that we can only stand so much. Anyway, we finally went back home in the car, still doubtful, although I never raised the issue, about the right or wrong of it at all. Mrs. Josh never raised the question either, and she is a good soul if ever there was one. The Lord, I feel sure, told her to obtain relief from the heat, and I sort of hang under her protection.

But there are all those people at the lake who would laugh at the idea of being worldly because they parade around the lake on Sunday, and there is another group who wouldn't be found there at all. For them there is no question but that it is a wrong thing to do. Still another group say they would be there if they were privileged to get there, so you see the picture. The whole thing finds so many people with a different idea on the matter. Religion is much like politics and many other issues, you can't make everybody think alike. Probably the Supreme Ruler of the Universe will take this into consideration on the Judgment Day.

FAILURE TO EXCHANGE INSURANCE BOOKS

Mr. P. J. Tod, manager of the Local Employment Office, today stated that a change in policy has been adopted by the Unemployment Insurance Commission in regard to the exchange of unemployment insurance books required by law to be made at April 1st. Up to this year, Mr. Tod stated, in order to give employers an opportunity of becoming familiar with the Act, prosecutions were not entered against employers who delayed unreasonably or failed to exchange the insurance books of their employees. However, this year prosecutions are being gone ahead with, and already six convictions of delinquent employers are reported from various points across Canada. Employers charged with negligence at Waterford, N.S., Shediac, N.B., Toronto and Sudbury, Ont., and Chicoutimi and Sherbrooke, P.Q., have all been convicted by local magistrates. The magistrates levied minimum fines in some cases, but in other instances penalties were rather severe; several magistrates issued warnings that further offences would be treated more seriously.

Mr. Tod added that he is informed from Ottawa that a number of additional cases across Canada, where failure to exchange insurance books is alleged, are now under review, and some of them at least will come before the courts.

The Local Employment Office Manager stated that in this district there are some employers who have not yet complied with the require-

DREW 22-POINT PROGRAM BACKED BY HOUSE RECORDS

The Press Endorses Progressive Conservative Platform

DREW PLANS A DYNAMIC ONTARIO

(Essex County Reporter, Kingsville, Ont.)

Social security, full employment, and economic planning are prominent topics of the day. George Drew's approach to the discussions forms a stimulating contribution to Ontario's planning problem, according to George Drew, is not a static one, but is dynamic in character, designed to develop to the utmost our Nature-given potentialities. His view at first may sound like old-line thinking, but one must admit that his approach is more than an echo of Laurier and Macdonald. He adds something new to our planning for the future must be dynamic.

DREW APPEALS TO THE BEST IN ONTARIO

(Ottawa Journal)

For the Progressive Conservative Programme offered the people of Ontario by George Drew, one thing must be said at the outset. It is that here at least is a pronouncement by a public man who reveals understanding of the gravity, and the faith and hope, of our times. He (Mr. Drew) offers us a programme within the framework of freedom; a programme that must appeal to Ontario's tradition of individual independence and self-reliance. He would have government control and superintendence for the citizen; he would not subject men to the degrading hand of bureaucracy, nor plan us all into puppets under drill sergeants of the state. That he leaves as it should be left to the Socialists of the C.C.F. No Ontario leader in years has advanced a more progressive, a more humane, or a more hopeful programme.

DREW'S GREAT SOCIAL DOCUMENT

(Toronto Globe and Mail)

Progressive Conservative Leader, George Drew has raised the present campaign far above the picaresque things of the little politician. By it all the carping, all the sneers, the innuendo and the petty slander of his critics were swept aside. In that address George Drew has given the people of Ontario a great document, the finest social document in Ontario's history, one which should be read, studied and thought upon by every citizen. Point by point it is a massive thing. Even in the skeletonized form it is a dynamic and constructive programme. Almost every point offers a practical approach to fundamental problems. It is essentially a programme of work, a series of well integrated steps calling for the creative use of all our resources and all our skill. George Drew is publicly pledged to these 22 points. What is more, he is pledged to implement them with the guidance and assistance of the chosen representatives of each group directly concerned. If some concrete evidence of the genuineness of the Party were needed, there is the record. Many of the records of the points Mr. Drew itemized in his address are not new. He has offered them to the Legislature of the Province and as Opposition Leader offered to assist the Government in carrying them out.

TO THE RESCUE OF REAL ESTATE

(Windsor Star)

Mr. Drew proposes that the Ontario Government, if he is called upon to form it, will assume at least fifty percent of the school taxes now charged against real estate. That... would prove a relief to all taxpayers.

Constructive Proposals In Public Interest

Speaking over the C.B.C. network Friday night, July 16th, Leslie M. Frost, M.P.E. for Victoria and Hurlburton, one of the outstanding Progressive Conservative members in the Ontario Legislature, emphasized the fact that the 22-point program recently enunciated by George Drew, Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, was the product of extended consultation with his followers; and that it was unanimously adopted at a largely attended meeting of party candidates and officials from all over Ontario held at the Royal York Hotel on Saturday, July 3rd.

Not only this, said Mr. Frost, the platform given out after that meeting was the natural sequence and outcome of constructive proposals made in the legislature by Mr. Drew and his associates. Ever since the war began the Opposition, led by Mr. Drew, has at each session put forward a series of resolutions conceived in the public interest. These proposals, added the member for Victoria and Hurlburton, have been either voted down at the instance of the Liberal Government or declared out of order by a Liberal Speaker.

On February 15th, 1941, the Opposition, submitted a resolution, calling upon the Government to move for a conference of representatives of the Dominion and of all the provinces for the following purposes:

- (a) To adopt such measure by inter-provincial co-operation as may be necessary.
- (b) To assure the greatest war and post-war effort.
- (c) To meet emergencies created by the war.
- (d) To assure adequate prices for agricultural products.
- (e) To protect the established rights of labor.
- (f) And to devise plans for the rehabilitation of the members of our armed forces and for the re-employment of civilians who may be thrown out of work by postwar industrial readjustment; and to consider such other questions relating to the welfare and security of the people as may be deemed advisable.

Voted down by the Liberals including Mr. Nixon.

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING

The advisability of planning beforehand for postwar recovery was again pressed upon the House by the Opposition in a resolution which read:

That the proposed St. Lawrence development and other public undertakings throughout the province, in the opinion of this Legislature, call for the immediate creation of an Ontario Town and Country Planning Commission, with authority to recommend and supervise plans for the reconstruction, reclamation, and development of rural and urban areas.

This and similar Opposition proposals were voted down by the Liberals, including Mr. Nixon.

ECONOMY URGED

In the same session the Opposition, impressed by the need for economy in the administration of the province, brought in a resolution:

That the estimates for the current year be referred back to the executive council with instructions to decrease the total amount of supply by $25,000,000.

This was turned down by the Liberals, including Mr. Nixon.

FOREST RESOURCES

Later on Mr. Drew's followers offered a resolution demanding that the administration and control of the provincial forest resources be placed under the direction of a public body to be known as the Ontario Forest Resources Commission, after the manner of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

Rejected by the Liberals, including Mr. Nixon.

RECONSTRUCTION PLANS

In the late session of the Legislature (1943) the Opposition kept up the pressure for action by submitting this resolution:

This House regrets that the Liberal Government has introduced no legislation to provide for the re-establishment in civilian occupations of the members of our forces, for after war reconstruction, and for work, wages, and social security for our people.

The Liberals, including Mr. Nixon, voted this down.

Still on the same drive for action the Opposition proposed:

That the Government should undertake (with special reference to the constitutional relationships between the Dominion and Provincial Governments) a survey of existing social schemes here and elsewhere; and with due regard to the probable course of events after the war, make recommendations for a unified workable plan which would assure a proper standard of work, wages, health, education, and living standards, for all our people with special reference to the re-establishment of the men and women in our fighting forces and the war industries.

The Liberals, including Mr. Nixon, killed this resolution.

HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

The Opposition renewed the attack with this further resolution:

The members of this legislature express their regret that the Government has failed to meet the critical needs of our agricultural producers; and they insist that the Government immediately take whatever steps are necessary to assure stability of prices, and an adequate supply of manpower and machinery for the rapidly increasing demands of war production.

This was a move on behalf of the farmers of Ontario which the Liberals were afraid to veto directly. The Liberal Government members, including Mr. Nixon, got around this difficulty by adopting a resolution praising the Government for the admirable work done by the province in assuring manpower, prices and machinery for the agricultural industry.

UNIFORM RATE FOR HYDRO

The next resolution submitted by the Opposition asserted that the Hydro Electric resources of the Province belonged to all the people; and that it is therefore desirable that the Hydro Electric Power Commission Act be amended immediately to equalize rates for electric energy and remove the present service charge in rural areas.

TO MEET FUEL SHORTAGE

An Opposition resolution dealing with the current fuel shortage read:

In the opinion of this House a fuel committee should be appointed to inquire into the fuel situation and to recommend to the government measures to assure the greatest possible supply of fuel for the coming winter.

Despite the sufferings of last winter and the prospective sufferings of the coming winter on the part of the people, the Liberal Government of the day, including Mr. Nixon, unanimously voted down this resolution.

FINANCIAL PROTECTION FOR SOLDIERS

The next Resolution, introduced by the Opposition at the recent session of the House, proposed that all members of the Canadian Armed Forces from Ontario should be given effective legal protection against the normal economic consequences of their service; and that all those whose ability to meet their financial obligations has been materially reduced by such service, should be sheltered against the forfeiture of instalment contracts, cancellation of life insurance policies up to $10,000.00, and judgments or other legal proceedings for debts incurred before entering military service. The resolution stated that this protection should be extended on the express condition that those able to pay should not be encouraged to evade their obligations. The deferment rather than the cancellation of obligations was suggested so that justice might be assured.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

A further resolution introduced by the Opposition read:

Resolved that in the opinion of this House the Government should take immediate steps to adjust the old-age pension payment in accordance with the present cost of living.

In supporting this resolution Mr. Drew and others contended that old age pension payments should be raised immediately by at least $5.00 a month and that the practice should be abandoned of compelling old people with little homes to give up these homes before they can collect their scanty pensions.

This reasonable proposal of the Opposition was ruled out of order by the Speaker, Mr. James Clarke, who now favors union of Canada with the United States. On another occasion in the late session the Speaker ruled out of order a proposal for the celebration of Empire Day. Mr. Nixon is not on record as protesting against the Liberal Speaker's rulings.

LABOUR AND "TEAM-PLAY"

As far back as 1941 George Drew placed before the Legislature a proposal calling upon the Minister of Labour to arrange a conference to be known as the Ontario Industrial Production Conference to be attended by representatives of Labour Unions, Employers and the public. The purpose of the Conference was to be the assurance of maximum industrial production, with effective protection for the workers.

The Liberal Government, including Mr. Nixon, have taken no action up to the present time, in regard to this proposal. In keeping with its record in the Legislature, on the public platform and in the press, ever since 1939 the Progressive Conservative Party, as already indicated is pledged to carry out the program outlined in the 22-points of its platform.

The only means of making sure that these forward looking commitments will be put into forthright practice is to vote George Drew and the Progressive Conservative Party into Office on August 4th.

The issue is in the hands of the electors who are under a patriotic and moral obligation to do three things:

- (1) See that your name is on the voters' list.
- (2) Get out and work for the Progressive Conservative Party and its platform and a greater and more prosperous Ontario.
- (3) Talk to your friends and acquaintances and get them to the polls on the right side.
