Clover Thrashings Bring Mixed Yields

Clover yields throughout the district are running about normal we are told by thresher Wm. Eohardt. The best turnout reported so far is that of Will Slack whose four acres yielded four bushels to the acre. Ken Reesor also did very well with six bags from five loads. On the farm of Allen Meyers 1 1/2 bushels was realized to the acre. The present market for red clover to the farmer is $13.50 but he is likely to receive a further instalment for his seed in the spring if the selling price at that time to the trade is higher than what he has already received. There is a ceiling on red clover of $22 a bushel, and we understand that the retail price is close to this ceiling, so that the certificates now being issued are likely to be of considerable value.

Lifelong residents of Brougham, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Holby, marked their sixtieth wedding anniversary, on Sunday, Dec. 3rd, and the children and grandchildren gathered at the home to help the couple celebrate the occasion in fitting manner. Born in Pickering Township over eighty years ago, the couple farmed for a number of years just south of the 7th concession and over fifteen years ago, moved into the village. The couple have been a marked asset to the community. Mrs. Holby has been a most energetic worker in the church and Sunday School and president of the Institute for seven years. She is still teacher of the Adult Bible Class.

The members of Mrs. Holby's Class presented her with a hymn book on the occasion and the following address, Dear Friend.

On this auspicious occasion, your Diamond wedding day, one of the greatest days of your life, we, the fellow members of the Adult Bible Class would like you to have a momento of the day, to show our love and esteem and appreciation of your long service. Every time you use it to sing praises to God, may it remind you of the unity, affection and loyalty of the class which has been due, largely to the hearty cooperation you have given, both as scholar and teacher. May you still be spared to continue this good work. You and your beloved husband have travelled a long road together and are now descending the hill towards the setting sun. May the years that are to come be free from sickness, care and anxiety, leading on to that Home which our Saviour has promised to prepare for those who love Him. Yours with love and best wishes from the Adult Bible Class, St. John's United Church, Brougham.
