STIVER BROS.

Mr. Anthony Dixon, former east end resident was in town from Ajax last week. Dropping in at the office of this paper to renew his subscription. Mr. Dixon left $3 for the Comfort Fund.

102 YEARS OLD NEXT WEEK

Capt. Robert Reesor of Markham township will reach his 102nd birthday next week. Because he doesn't go out at night any more, he was unable to attend the East York Conservative meeting called to choose a Dominion candidate on Tuesday evening, but he sent the meeting a letter of congratulation instead. Mr. Reesor said, "this is the first time I ever missed a Conservative convention in East York."

The household effects of the late William Rennie are being advertised for sale by public auction in this issue, but the property will not be sold. The compact small residence on Baker avenue has been acquired by one of the family, Mrs. Ernie Lucas, now of Elmwood, near Chesley. Some day Rev. and Mrs. Lucas may retire in Stouffville.

Labor Shortage at Peak Now
At no time since the outbreak of war has it been so hard to obtain help in this neighborhood than it is right now. There is not an available man to do odd jobs anywhere in the village. One morning last week six men were contacted before someone could be obtained to tend a fire keeping the metal hot while workmen were corking newly laid water mains.

SPENDS HIS BIRTHDAY IN ENGLAND
Somewhere in England, Cpl. Arthur Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson of Oshawa, will celebrate his 22nd birthday. He is the husband of the former Lillian Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Brown, living north of town. Mrs. Brown is living in Oshawa just now doing her bit in the plant of the G.M.C. aircraft.
Cpl. Arthur Brown enlisted in September, 1942, with a tank corps, and transferred to the R.C.O.C. in England. Before going overseas he spent three months at Fredericton, N.B., three at Camp Borden. He is now an instructor.

Local and Personal Happenings

Mrs. Dorian Woodburn has gone to Bruce Beach, Kincardine for the summer months.

Rev. S. S. Shantz will deliver the address at Dickson Hill memorial service next Sunday afternoon, June 25. The Milne sisters from Toronto, also Mrs. Shuttleworth and sister Mrs. Buckley of Stouffville will also assist in the program of singing.

Perhaps a worth-while innovation at the annual memorial service at the cemetery would be to open a register where all out of town visitors could register their names. It would be a nice record and would tend to add importance to each guest. Cemetery Commissioners please note and appoint someone to attend this little task next year.

Ladders on Restricted List
Wooden ladders over seven feet long can only be obtained by permit, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announces. Since the time of Jacob's ladder man has been in need of such a convenience for climbing upward, and now the powers that be are going to make it a bit harder to get up than ever before.

J. M. Walton Sends Along a Relic
In sending along his congratulations to The Tribune on winning the Clark Cup, Mr. J. M. Walton, that highly esteemed citizen of Aurora, enclosed a business card which he had just found among some books. It must have been very old, that card, for on it was printed the name of H. W. Woodgate, Stouffville, who was advertising his business which according to the card included, "Division Registrar, clerk and treasurer of Stouffville, issuer of marriage licenses, and dealer in agricultural implements, weigh scales and sewing machines." H. W. Woodgate, of course was the father of Mrs. E. J. Davey and the first clerk of Stouffville. As treasurer in those days 70 years ago the nearest bank was at Markham village and it was there the treasurer had to go to deposit or withdraw money.

Had the weather turned fair on Monday almost every farm in the district would have had hay to cut on Monday, but unfortunately, it rained all Sunday night and part of Monday. Fields are showing the effects of too much rain, and unless we get a week of dry weather right here the bumper hay crop will not be so big, while other crops will suffer, rather than benefit from more moisture.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION IN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

"Where else will children get their foundation for an understanding of democratic life" if not in our schools," asked Mrs. Silcox, chairman of the Canadian National Federation of Home and School Board, addressing a woman's meeting in Aurora.

Mrs. Silcox stood solid for Religious Education in the schools. In part the speaker said, "There has been a certain amount of Religious Education in the past in our schools but due to large schools, and not enough ministers, only certain grades are concentrated on, so all do not receive instruction and therefore it is not adequate. All ministers are not successful at teaching children and are apt to teach over their heads. There is no required course, so no uniformity. Then it was something apart from their training for living, something extra which one could take or leave, but not essential like arithmetic—thus it was felt by many sincere students of the subject that it should go into the school course and be part of the everyday life of the school."
Continuing Mrs. Silcox said, "I see no reason why anyone fit to have the care of my child as many hours a day as a teacher has, cannot tell stories of the 'Coming of Jesus,' the 'love of God,' the fatherhood of God," regardless of his personal belief. I would urge you all if you wish to further the movement, to bring a foundation of Christianity to all Ontario boys and girls, to welcome this new course, be very slow to criticize and very appreciative of all the best in it."

"Where else will children get their foundation for an understanding of democratic living?" she demanded. "Our democratic system is founded on the Golden Rule, the sermon on the Mount. The Ten Commandments. So many of our children are getting none of it. Our home life is so full and hurried, we have not time for family worship, every one is going somewhere, or the telephone calls one away, or there's a meeting—or an important radio broadcast—rushing—ever."

Religious Education should be given in the homes and the church, but since there are so many homes who don't, or won't, and where the church never has a chance at them, then in the interests of youth the school must be called upon," the speaker concluded.

Thinks Edinburgh Most Like Canada

Just a line or two to let you know I am still in the land of the living, even if it is a forgotten corner of Scotland. It is very quiet here except for the wind and waves—we have a nice long, sandy beach just a few yards from our hut so we should have some grand swimming when the weather warms up a bit. I have never been so near the sea before, so enjoy lying on the grassy bank in the evening, with a book, and watching the tide roll in and the sun go down. The sun doesn't go down until 11 p.m. in midsummer which gives a nice long evening.

Just got back off leave a week ago. Had a very enjoyable time too. The whole country is so pretty at this time of the year, everything is green and all the flowers and flower beds are at their best. The peaceful beauty of the green fields and flowers and hedges really impresses one and at times makes it difficult to realize there is a War on. I saw a few historic spots. The Stirling castle was most interesting. All the Scottish history I'd ever learned, and a good deal I hadn't, seemed to be connected with it. The Wallace Monument is set on a very high-hill overlooking the town of Stirling. It is about 150 feet high and from the top one can get a grand view. It takes an awful lot of climbing to get to the top though. We spent a couple days in the town of Chester near Liverpool. It is a very quaint old place with a wall around it (built by the Romans). It has a beautiful cathedral but what impressed me most was the double tiered stores. There is one row of stores and show cases at street level, and then at the corner of each street a staircase which takes you up a storey and there's a board walk and another row of stores and showcases.

Bath was the next place we saw. It was very pretty but had been heavily blitzed. We went there to see the old Roman baths and swimming pools. They were very interesting. They're fed from a hot mineral spring. The Romans had utilized the hot water for heating the building by running it through tiles under the floor, as well as for medical purposes. They had Turkish baths and special deep baths for curing rheumatism. In fact they told us that was their chief medicine centre about 45 A.D.

Stonehenge, which is a circle of huge stones carved and erected on Salisbury Plains some 3,000 years ago was the next place we saw. It wasn't so much to look at, but was interesting from the fact that there is no stone of that type within 70 miles and that these huge stones had been conveyed that long distance by some unknown means. It is thought they were used by Druids as a place of worship. I stopped a day in London but it was a bit disappointing to me, however, Edinburgh made up for it. I enjoyed it there very much, perhaps because it is the most like a Canadian town of any I have seen since leaving Canada. I spent the last few days of my leave on a large Scottish farm and really realized what the words "Scottish hospitality" means. I have promised to go back there and help them with their hay as well as help eat the strawberries.

Wes. J. James (Old Goodwood Stouffville boy)

Saturday's night's crowd in town was the peak for this season so far. Townspeople wonder where all the strange faces come from.

CUB NEWS

The Cubs had a good meeting Friday with 30 Cubs in attendance. The ball game turned out well with a score of 15-15. Mr. Milt. Smith umpired the game. Mr. Chadwick and Rev. D. Davis assisted the Cubmaster to distribute uniforms on Saturday afternoon. The Cubs will have a voluntary church parade from the Park on Sunday, June 25 to the Baptist Church for evening service. Cubs meet every Friday at 7.15 p.m. in United Church basement. Boys 8 to 12 welcome. C. H. Andrus, Cubmaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Kerswell, Margaret and Betty, of King, were in town over Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Wes. C. Schell.

Mrs. Robt. Young, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young of Aurora, to Trenton last week where they spent a few days with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Hart, Church St., have gone to their summer cottage in the Haliburton district for the summer months.

Among the old friends and former residents in town on Sunday in attendance at the cemetery service we noted Mr. B. W. Heise, provincial superintendent of Children's Aid Societies for Ontario, Miss Enna Heise on the staff of the Toronto Children's Aid Society, also Mr. and Bert Miller of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Hornsby and young son, Mr. Fred Nighswander, and daughter, Squire Vanzant, all of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. St. John of Aurora, Miss Hattie Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clark, and no doubt many other former residents whom we were unable to contact.

Claude Brillinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brillinger, has joined the Navy and will become engineer artificer. Mr. and Mrs. Brillinger have been living in Toronto, but they will give up their home there and Mrs. Brillinger and Baby Claudia will return to Stouffville shortly, we understand.

Friends will be interested to learn that Katherine and Elgin Stouffer, children of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Stouffer, formerly of Stouffville, now living at Minden, were both successful in their particular academic fields this year. Katherine distinguished herself by completing her first year in medicine at the University of Toronto, with honor standing. Elgin has graduated from the Lindsay High School. Mr. Stouffer is well remembered as a former High School principal here.

More Milk for Britain
Stouffville will be responsible for proving bombed out children in Britain with a good many gallons of milk as a result of their tag day last Saturday when $91.45 was collected by the girls of the C.G.I.T. for this laudable purpose. The girls worked hard and persistently all day and deserve credit for their splendid effort. Those who collected were Eunice Corcoran, Erline Paisley, Carol Weldon, Betty Miller, Audrey Bell, June Ward, Dorothy Wilson, Helen Lehman.

Saw the Ruins of Cassino

Price Pugh, former Stouffville Feed proprietor with the Canadian Army in Italy, writes an interesting and appreciative letter to the local Comfort Fund, in which he speaks of the ruins of Cassino and hard fight to break the enemy lines. He writes in part: "Have just received a letter from friends in the home town with some clippings of news items from The Tribune. See one which speaks of the drive being put on by the Comfort Fund for funds. Really, I don't know how to express my gratitude to you for the effort. The names of those I see donating bring back lots of fond memories. When you see what I have, one should get down on his knees and thank God that the battles are not being fought on Canadian soil.

I have driven though Cassino and have seen the Gustav and Hitler defense lines, "that were." Although I was not in the actual fighting, I can say that none of us can do too much for the boys that broke those lines. It's a race now to see who's going to get to Berlin first. My unit is a medical unit and non-combatant, and we don't get a chance to fight with the lads. We do our best to keep them in good health. Haven't seen any of Stouffville lads for a long time. I understand however, that Major Neil Smith is not very far away. Thanks again for your parcel.

Remember the popular Dances on Friday evening at Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Stouffer and daughter, Mrs. Hamilton, visited in Newmarket on Sunday.

Miss Ada McCarthy of Toronto, was a visitor with old friends in Stouffville on Friday.

In town for the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Browncombe of Hamilton, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Williamson and Betty from Toronto, visiting at the home of Mrs. F. Williamson, Church street. Mrs. Browncombe was a daughter of the late Adam Yake of this town while her husband is a cousin of Mrs. Harold Spofford of the corner store. Holidaying in Toronto they seized the opportunity of coming to Stouffville with the Williamsons who of course need no introduction in their home town.

Chief Engineer Pointon and Engineer Jas. Ludgate in charge of road superintendents in Ontario were in town Thursday evening attending the joint meeting of Uxbridge and Whitechurch councils in connection with the Gravel Hill tenders. Also on hand was Mr. Waterhouse representing the Warren Paving Co. He will be remembered by many local people as the boss man for this company at Stouffville when the Main street paving was laid fourteen years ago.

MARKHAM MAN MEMBER OF MOST POPULAR SPORTS FRATERNITY

When a public opinion poll was recently taken in Montreal, as to who was the most popular French Canadian athlete, Yvon Robert, professional wrestler, was the answer. Professional wrestling, states the sports columnist of the Newmarket Era is out drawing all others in attendance, each week. Outside of Earl McCreedy, who has turned Whitechurch farmer, Frank Tunney, son of Thomas Tunney of Markham Village is probably the local name closest to the sport.

Frank was born in Markham, and in the late twenties played football, and was the high jump specialist for Markham High School in inter-school competitions. Unable to join the army because of physical ailments, Frank is today doing his part to ease the monotony of army life, by bringing leading wrestlers to the various camps without charge. Mr. Tunney believes "Whipper" Watson to be the biggest drawing card on the continent because of his good looks, wrestling ability and attractive physique.
