More Hog than Dog

A really good joke has come to light from the Musselman's Lake district that is too good to hush up. Mr. George Davies, proprietor of Cedar Beach summer resort almost burst the buttons off his shirt laughing about it. The joke was on a cottager.

The city bred camper invited Mr. Davies and other friends over to see a pup dog which he described as a beauty and real cute. He was not sure whether it was a Pomeranian or a Peekinese, but he marvelled at its stubby legs, so cute you know. He described the dog as a stray he picked up while on a hike over Whitechurch.

Friends went over to see the pup, and believe it all, the animal proved to be a common type baby ground hog and nothing more. Yes, we believe it has been released.

Next Monday is Labor Day and a public holiday.

What Have We in the Bus?

Three youngsters about six years of age were discovered in the rear of the Gray Coach bus from Toronto on Friday night who were not noticed by conductor Harry Bridges until he reached Markham. The kids went aboard at Toronto, slipping in unnoticed among the crowd. Still more strange was the attitude of the threesome when accosted by the bus driver. They didn't intend to get out, no siree, not until they were picked up by the coat collars did they offer to get out.

Mr. Bridges arranged for their transportation back to the city from Markham to end a rather unusual incident.

M.B.C. Church Scene of Pretty Wedding

The Mennonite Church, Stouffville, was the setting for a lovely wedding at three o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, when Gladys Eldene Stover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Stover and Howard Lemon Ratcliff, son of Robt. Ratcliff and the late Mrs. Ratcliff, were united in marriage. The officiating clergymen were Rev. E. Moyer and Rev. Norman Rowan.

The altar was beautifully banked with ferns and standards of orchid, peach and white gladioli. T.W. Eagleson, A.T.C.M., presided at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of white satin, made with a long torso, and a sheer yoke buttoned down the back, the full skirt forming a slight train. Her long veil of silk tulle was caught with a head-dress of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses and gypsophylla. Immediately preceding the bride to the altar was little Robert Stover, the bride's nephew, as ring bearer. He wore long white trousers and white ruffled blouse with short black velvet jacket. He carried the ring in a nosegay of rapture roses on a white satin cushion. Mrs. Jack Spang the bride's oldest sister was matron of honor, and her younger sister, Miss Norma Stover, was bridesmaid. They wore long gowns of organdy made on similar lines to the bride's, with large matching hats, the matron of honor in orchid and the bridesmaid in lime green. They carried arm bouquets of Johanna Hill roses. The bride's youngest sister, Miss Margaret Stover, the soloist, wore a gown of apricot organdy, made on the same lines as the bridesmaid's, with a corsage of pansies. She sang "The Voice that Breathed O'er Eden," preceding the ceremony and during the signing of the register, "O Perfect Love."

The groom was attended by his brother, Floyd Ratcliff, and the ushers were Corporal Jack Spang, R.C.E., Brantford, and Charles Clubine.

The couple left on a wedding trip, a cruise on the Saguenay, the bride wearing, for going away a dusky pink dress with brown chesterfield coat and matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

She wore the gift of the groom a set of brown squirrel furs. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ratcliff will live in their new home on the island at the 6th line of Markham.

The bride was attired in a dress of dusty rose crepe and matching hat with a shoulder length veil of rose silk net. She wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the groom and carried a bouquet of dark red roses and gladioli petals. Her only attendant was Mrs. Kenneth Walters, cousin of the bride, in candid pink silk crepe with a chaplet of matching material and carrying a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and blue cornflowers.
