

First peacetime honeymoon season is swinging into its stride at Niagara Falls, Ont.

Pte. and Mrs. Vic Roventini, Brooklyn, N.Y., cross the border. Officials believe this will be the biggest in five years of honeymoons.

No time during the war, servicemen are now having their honeymoon at the Falls.

Pte. Bob McCallum, Wallaceburg, Ont., about to hoist his bride into a surrey. Times may change, but you can always pick out the honeymooners.

STORY ABOUT SUGAR

The problem of how to provide mankind with enough sugar pops up from time to time in human history and usually some satisfactory solution is found. Napoleon offered a prize for the extraction of sugar from native products and sure enough one of his scientists came through with the answer—sugar from beets. More than a hundred years after Napoleon's time we have answered the sugar shortage by pooling our resources internationally. True, that does not provide all the sugar we could use—but it gives everyone enough for their basic needs.

So the United States, Great Britain and Canada divided up the available sugar supply and on a man-for-man basis Canada was given 5% of the world's supply for her share.

Now it has been urged that if we increased our best sugar crop there would be plenty of sugar for all Canadians—but since we are pooling all our sugar on a share-and-share alike basis with other countries such an increase would only give us a tiny amount per person more—something like 1.50th of a pound per year at the most. Furthermore, even if the labor was available for the sugar beet industry—which it apparently isn't—in the large numbers necessary to increase the production substantially—we kept what we produced, then our exports of cane sugar would be cut down accordingly. But cane sugar in many respects is a necessity.

The shortage of sugar is worldwide. But with the problem being handled as carefully and fairly as it is, we may be certain of one thing—the amount of sugar allotted to each Canadian is as much as can possibly be allowed at the present time. After all, we are all in it together, nation by nation, with our belts pulled in exactly the same number of notches.

John L. Wilson of Toronto, Ont., has been named to the Ontario high court of justice to replace Mr. Justice A. W. Greene who has been moved to the court of appeal. At 44, Mr. Justice Wilson is the youngest judge on the supreme court bench. A former newspaperman, he studied law with the late Hon. N. W. Rowell, then chief justice of the province.

Man to Man Talk

'Sectionalism Must be Ended'

The Ottawa Journal May 17th

No one will accuse John Bracken of talking from both sides of his mouth at the same time. In Ottawa on Tuesday night (May 15) he declared that "sectionalism" must be ended, and went on to say:

"Every one, regardless of racial origin, must be regarded as a Canadian, sharing equally the rights and obligations of citizenship both in peace and war."

Earlier on the same day, Mr. Bracken, speaking to Progressive Conservative candidates in Quebec who met him in Montreal, said:

"Tell them the nation will expect from them all to be Canadians after June 11; tell them each of us will be equal in Canada—equal in the rights we enjoy and equal in the responsibilities we share. Tell them their constitutional rights of religion and language and civil code will be scrupulously respected; tell them they will be denied no rights enjoyed by other Canadians.

Tell them the nation will expect from them no more, either in peace or war, than it expects from others—but that it will expect as much.

Tell them we mean to preserve Confederation; tell them it can be preserved on a basis of equal rights for all and equal responsibilities for all, in time of war as well as in time of peace.

Tell them that on the basis of such a policy they can face the world and the future and their children's future with confidence and without fear; and that there is no other just way by which the objective of orderly progress for us all in Canada can be achieved."

What bitterness, strife, misunderstanding and distrust might have been saved in this country if more leaders of our political parties had spoken thus honestly during the past 25 years. Instead of appeal to Quebec's Canadianism and self-respect, to her sane and moderate elements, there was catering to her baser elements, appeasement of her extremists, crucifixion of those saner French-Canadians who realized that Quebec's place was by the side of the other provinces in equality of rights and responsibilities. Worse, there was failure among English Canadians to punish those among them who, to prosper their political fortunes appealed basely to Quebec. It was politically prosperous to mislead and deceive Quebec, to preach disunity, or, what was more reprehensible, a unity that was false; and so we had the spectacle of English-speaking Canada placing a premium on racial appeals to Quebec by support of the political party which, more than any other, made such things its stock-in-trade. To get an overall majority in all of Canada through a "solid bloc" in Quebec was good party-business.

Mr. Bracken's rejection of such discreditable tactics, his straight honest talk to Quebec comes like a breath of fresh air. For that talk alone, for what it tells of his integrity as a man, he deserves the support of the country. Compare this with the muddling and double talk of Mr. McKenzie King. Consider the confusion and disunity created by Mr. King. When pressed for a forthright manpower policy, he said he would have a plebiscite to determine the wishes of the people. The plebiscite costs the people of Canada a tremendous sum. Every province but Quebec voted "yes," but Mr. King ignored the wishes of the people (except in Quebec) and said "No."

During his régime he appointed a Defence Minister and a Commanding Officer overseas. When the Commanding Officer (Gen. McNaughton) failed to fit into the overseas picture he was let out. Following disclosures by Major Smythe and Colonel Drew, the Defence Minister was sent overseas and when he returned with constructive recommendations, he was let out and the Commanding Officer who had previously been let out was installed in the position of Minister of Defence. When the people of North Gray voted against McNaughton, Mr. King continued to ignore the wishes of the people. He insisted on keeping a "yes man" in this highly important post.

Mr. King gave the people nothing constructive before the war and permitted pitiful conditions to exist among the labouring class and the unemployed.

These are just a few of the many cases which could be mentioned to show the manner in which Mr. King has ignored the wishes of the people of Canada. He has been in power so long that he has pretty well absorbed the old Liberal party and does just about as he, as an individual selfish politician, pleases. Under a progressive Conservative Government, the newest party, with a new leader and a new policy, these unnecessary conditions (disunity, confusion, unemployment, bread lines and the blocking of the people's wishes) will be done away with and in their place we will have social security, prosperity, full employment, and freedom of action.

HAVE YOU REGISTERED YOUR CHILDREN FOR FAMILY ALLOWANCES?

1,200,000 FAMILIES have already registered for Family Allowances. Approximately 100,000 families who are entitled to register and who will benefit, have not yet registered.

Family Allowances cheques will be mailed in July.

If you want to receive your first cheque, register now. If you delay your registration any longer, it may not be possible to deal with your application in time to send you the first cheque.

If you have children under 16 and if your income is under $3,000 a year, you will benefit from Family Allowances. If you have not registered, and intend to do so, please act at once! Family Allowances Registration forms have been mailed to every family. They can be obtained at the nearest post office or by writing to the Regional Director of Family Allowances in the capital of your province.

FAMILY ALLOWANCES AND INCOME TAX

When the Family Allowances Act was passed, Parliament approved the principle that there should be no duplication of benefits by way of Family Allowances and Income Tax credits for the same child.

Family Allowances cheques will be paid in full every month. But for the last six months of 1945 an adjustment will be made to avoid duplication of benefits. The table below shows the effect of this adjustment and will enable taxpayers to determine the extent to which they will benefit from Family Allowances.

TABLE SHOWING EFFECT OF ADJUSTMENT FOR 1945

AMOUNT OF TAXABLE INCOME	Percent by which tax will benefit from Family Allowances in addition to present income tax credits; for 1945.
Over $1200 but not over 1400	100%
" 1400 " " 1600	90% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 1600 " " 1800	80% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 1800 " " 2000	70% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 2000 " " 2200	60% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 2200 " " 2400	50% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 2400 " " 2600	40% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 2600 " " 2800	30% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 2800 " " 3000	20% of the actual allowances received in 1945.
" 3000	10% of the actual allowances received in 1945.

NOTE: This table applies to married persons and others having the status of married persons for income tax purposes. For single persons supporting children and not having the status of married persons for income tax purposes, and for members of the Armed Forces, special tables can be obtained from the Regional Director of Family Allowances in each provincial capital.

The BENEFITS: The Family Allowances Act was passed to help equalize opportunities for all children.

The monthly allowances will assist in providing medical, dental and nursing services, better food, better clothing and shelter.

Family Allowances are additional to dependents' allowances for servicemen's families and military pensions.

Furthermore, Family Allowances are NOT taxable. You do not add these monthly payments to your total income when computing your income tax.

In the column at left is an explanation of the relationship between Family Allowances and Income Tax deductions for children. From the table given you can determine quickly the extent to which you will benefit.

REGISTER NOW!

If you intend to apply for Family Allowances but have not already done so, please act at once—in the interests of your children. Remember, the first cheques will be mailed in July, but only to those who have registered and are eligible to receive Family Allowances.

SCALE OF MONTHLY ALLOWANCES FOR THE FIRST FOUR CHILDREN
