Many Stouffvilleites have enjoyed a trip to the Niagara and St. Catharines district this summer, and of course, all of them, or nearly so, bring back peaches. Visitors to the fruit belt must have been impressed with the drought season experienced there as compared with the moisture that has fallen on the land about Stouffville. After traveling 20 miles out of Toronto enroute to the fruit section, there is scarcely a blade of green grass to be seen, so parched is the land. It is not much wonder when it is known that in the Vineland district there has not been a good rain since July.

From Winnipeg Subscriber

Writing from Winnipeg Mrs. T. H. Reynolds says that her husband just has to get his Tribune each week so she sent along the renewal subscription, with the explanation: "Mr. Reynolds has taken The Tribune since 1902, and if it is a day late reaching Winnipeg he sure misses it. His health is not very good this last two years and he does not get out very much, but he does like to read about the folks back home." Friends back home will certainly hope for an early return to better health for Mr. Reynolds.

No names were exchanged at the time, but the other day Mr. Agnew was the recipient of a 40-pound shipment of honey from the party whom he had aided some weeks ago.

The sport of horseshoe pitching is really booming in Stouffville right now, and a number of the men who are regular attendants at the courts back of the Griffith blacksmith shop banded together recently and had a set of lights installed for night games.
