Local and Personal Happenings

Mrs. Lena Ramer who has been a valuable helper in the plant of the Stouffville Bakery, has taken a position in Toronto, and will live with her daughter there.

We hear that Mr. Jim Thomas has purchased a house in Leaside where Mr. and Mrs. Thomas will reside. Since coming from Overseas they have made their home with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Thomas.

Norman Farr, proprietor of the new Radio Repair Shop in the Ratcliff block attended the 25th wedding anniversary occasion of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Torrance Farr at their home at Oriole on Saturday evening.

Support the sale of Christmas seals, and thereby help the Hospital of Consumptives which is doing such a great free work throughout the County of York at this time. Yes, even you, good reader, may have a free test if you feel that you would like to know your position in relation to this disease.

Bakery Rushes Extra Batches
The bread shortage felt in Toronto last Saturday had its counterpart in a similar situation in Stouffville. With local supplies exhausted early in the day the Stouffville Bakery went to work on two extra batches. The first one went to the delivery and the second supplied the counter demand, so that no home was without the staff of life.

Illness Delays Holiday in California

On the eve of her departure for a holiday in Florida Mrs. Gar. Lehman was suddenly seized with illness on Tuesday evening last week, and sent to the hospital, where her condition, while improved, is such that she is still in a local nursing home. Mr. and Mrs. Lehman and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wilson had planned to start on an extensive motor trip to the south expecting to leave on Wednesday the day after Mrs. Lehman was suddenly stricken.

Experiences on Door-to-Door Visit

The fifteen or twenty men who were chosen to do the collecting for the Salvation Army Red Shield campaign in Stouffville, could reveal some interesting episodes which formed part of their experiences as they hurried from door to door throughout the village on Friday night. These men entered the homes of the rich, the well-to-do, the poor, and the very poor. No one was missed unless they were away from home.

Said one of the canvassers: "I stood outside in the dark looking at a very humble home, asking myself should I call there. Ere I had time to back away, I was at the door, and in answer to my knock, a faltering footstep could be heard inside. The rickety door knob yielded to the wrenching, and a feeble old lady peeped out nervously, but I quickly assured her, and received a cordial welcome to come in. The room was dingy by the light of an oil lamp, the air heavy, and the flicker of the wood-fire in the stove played on the walls. I explained the purpose of my visit, but said that we did not expect everybody to give, and that I had called as a matter of course. She explained that it was near the end of the month for her pension cheque to arrive, and the previous one was spent, but that she had plenty of supplies laid up for the interval. She continued to mourn the fact that nothing was set aside for the Army, and seemed to be looking about trying to recall if she had a bit of change somewhere. This gave me a villainous idea, and I said, 'why here you have 50c on the window, could it be something you mislaid.' I pressed a coin into the aged hand to reassure the very old lady who couldn't believe it. Fumbling the money she said, 'well now ain't it strange that I should have forgot that money and left it there. It must have been for the bread man some time.' Then she said that was the way the Lord provided her with everything, even to causing her to save a pittance for the Army, to whom she wanted to give so badly. Actually the inability to give brought tears to the eyes of the very old lady, and now as she handed over the coin they turned to tears of joy. Actually she was proud as punch, whatever that is. The very old lady started to relate her girlhood days back in the town of ... and here she attended meetings in the Army hall, and had been deeply interested in their work since. Thanking her profusely and offering congratulations on her more than 80 years, I stepped out into the night and hurried to the next door hoping for another happy experience.

One collector could tell you, too, how when he got into a small home the man could not produce a cent, whereupon the collector said, 'here brother I know you would give if you had it, so I'm lending you half a dollar and if you feel you would like to pay it back all right, otherwise please forget, it will be forgotten by me.'

The wily collector in this instance could have explained that by this transaction he wished to boast that of 20 homes visited in one hour and twenty minutes he obtained a collection in every single instance. He didn't want the record broken, and anyhow the startled man who was extended a loan, said, 'gee that's decent of you,' indicating he was pleased too.

The Toronto Baptist Seminary Quartette will sing at the evening service, next Sunday, Dec. 9th, in local Baptist Church.

An Evening Wedding

That happy young couple known as Stanley Goldwin Reesor, son of Mrs. Reesor and the late Barkis Reesor, and Ruby Ethel Tindall, daughter of Mrs. Melvin Tindall and the late Mr. Tindall, went to the home of Rev. and Mrs. E. Morton last Wednesday evening, where they were united in holy matrimony. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Reesor plan to settle in his home in the Township of Pickering.

An oil heating plant is being rushed into place in the Ratcliff block, and other changes made, in readiness for the new manufacturing business that will shortly occupy the floor space so many years used for public hall purposes. The company manufacturing children wear expects to get into operation during the early winter.

Mr. A. S. Collins who is living at present with his daughter, Mrs. Bruce Clark in Toronto, was in town one day last week. He expects to return here shortly to reside in his old home with Mr. and Mrs. Booth the new owners. The large red brick residence which stands just opposite the Brierbush Hospital, is undergoing extensive rewalling and redecorating work.

Hot Water Cement Overcomes Cold

Despite the unusual cold weather on Friday and Saturday workmen pushed forward the installation of a cement wall and abutments under the frame building straddling the creek just east of Dr. Freely's residence. In order to mix cement hot water was used, heated on the job in a large cauldron. Mr. George Baker, of Baker's Sweetner fame, is also getting in material for overhauling the interior of the building, the west side and the dwelling above. The east side is occupied by Mr. John Monkhouse, merchant tailor, with one of the longest standing businesses on Main street. The improvement being made to this old landmark is a distinct asset to the business section in which it is located.

Rev. Ormiston Twiss, M.A., Rector of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Uxbridge, was elected Dean of the Deanery of East York at a meeting of the Great Chapter while in session in St. George's Parish Hall, Oshawa. He has since received his Commission from Archbishop Owen as his Rural Dean for the next four years.

E.A. Grubin, R.O. optometrist, will be at his office in Stouffville on Monday, December 10th.

Recent visitors with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sanders, O'Brien Ave, were Mrs. A. B. Willmott, Miss Eleanor Willmott and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Willmott of Cobourg, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Sanders, Weston and Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Burkholder, and Miss Dorothy Burkholder of Chicago.

The Offen general store at Cedar Grove which was destroyed by fire early Sunday morning, was built some 59 years ago, replacing an original store. Mr. Thos. Reesor, widely known resident on the Markham-Scarboro townline, recalled to The Tribune that many years ago a hotel operated across from the site of the Offen store, and it was later turned into a general store. Still more recently the Offen site was built on, and this was acquired by the late John Malcolm as a going concern and which he operated for many years or until he retired in Markham village.

Miss Marguerite Grubin of Toronto was a visitor in Stouffville with friends during the weekend.

The final meeting for 1945 of the Stouffville municipal council will be held this Thursday (tonight) evening. Since the boys who will gather around the oval top table will all be back in 1946 there will be no farewells or tears. Two of the members, Councillor Jack Smit and Councillor E.A. Button, are completing their first year and have done good work for the town. Councillor Hugh Boyd and Councillor R. E. Brown have had several years experience, in fact Mr. Brown has contributed more years than his reeve or any member of the council. Naturally they are all hoping that too much money will not have to be spent this winter on snow since it is hoped that a big road building program can be carried out next summer that will practically make it unnecessary to buy gravel or dust layer oil any more for our streets.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Whittingstall of Toronto, former residents of Stouffville, are awaiting the return of their son, who has been in Holland and who was honored by receiving the Oak Cluster. He also has five blons and two from the First World War. The Whittingstall's here resided in the brick cottage almost opposite the Presbyterian church.

Markham Lady Misses Theatre Offer

Mrs. Esther Grove would have been paid $265 for her photograph if she had been present at the Stanley Theatre on Photo-Nite last Thursday evening. The offer is steadily gaining ground, and some lucky person due to be paid a handsome nest egg soon. Next week's offer will be $75. Only last week in the Photo-Nite theatre at Kitsilano, B.C., a dowdy Mrs. L. M. LePeau, mother of four soldiers, was given $500, her lady had gone to the theatre because her daughter, coaxed her, but the prize really paid an appreciated dividend, as one of Mrs. LePeau's grandchildren lay seriously ill in the hospital at the time.

Weather Came Unexpectedly

The weather took an unexpected dip on Saturday morning, early played havoc with the tardy motorists who put off changing the tires in the radiator for anti-ice. Some thermometers around town hovered just around zero at midnight, but Harry Paisley, a later driver, drove his truck to Goodwood said it was three below. Anytime he confessed to being nearly shod when his truck stalled, refused to go again for a couple of hours or more. On Sunday it rained noticeably. While we are king of weather folks are contemplating this district on escaping big snow storm that wrecked phone and telegraph systems in northern Ontario. It was just at this last year that Stouffville and district had the worst snow storm years, causing the town hundreds of dollars to open the streets.

Announcement of his appointment was made by W.C. Weaver, manager of the Toronto branch. Mr. Wilkes has been sent to the company's head office in London, Ont. for a thorough underwriting. On his return he will be looking after the service of his company in this territory and will specialize in estate work.

Stouffville Christmas Market, Dec. 19th

Canada now has a population of 12,500,000 people which is arrived at, not through the census taken every ten years, but by the number of ration books issued.

Bouquet for the Proprietress

It is just one year ago that the Mayfair restaurant first opened its doors in Stouffville at a time when there was no such service being given the community at all. In commemoration of the event, Mrs. Maybree, proprietress, was taken by surprise last Saturday evening, when the staff joined to present her with a lovely bouquet. Mrs. Ina Woodburn made the presentation, and echoed the good feeling and esteem which the flowers were intended to convey.
