WHITEVALE

(Too late last week)

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carter were hosts at the fireside prayer meeting last Wednesday evening when the United Church held their weekly meeting of praise and prayer.
 At the annual meeting of the Women's Association of the Whitevale United Church held over a week ago, Mrs. D. B. Annis was returned to office as president.

The young people of Cherrywood, Whitevale, and Locust Hill United Churches will gather with the members of the B.Y.P.U. on the evening of January 1, 1946 in the I.O.O.F. Hall for a few hours of badminton and volley ball. Come along and bring a friend, and have a splendid evening of fun!

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the Whitevale United Church parsonage on Wednesday afternoon, December 12, when the Rev. John McLachlan united in marriage Gladys Clara Irene Udell, younger daughter of Mrs. Udell and the late E. Udell, to Mr. George Frederick Harold Rixon, son of Mrs. Rixon and the late George Rixon of Sussex, England. The bride wore a crepe de chine gown in a shade of light blue and had a corsage of pink carnations. She was attended by Mrs. Eleanor F. Archer of Toronto, who wore red crepe with pink carnations. The best man was Mr. William Smith of Cherrywood, a brother-in-law of the bride. The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, receiving with the bride was her grandmother, Mrs. Wesley Burke, of Cherrywood. The room where the reception was held was gay with sprays of mums. The wedding cake was cut with an heirloom knife belonging to the bride's great grandmother. Among the guests were Mrs. T. Dillon, Mrs. John McLachlan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, Mrs. William Smith and little son George of Cherrywood, and Mr. Omar Udell. Upon returning from their wedding trip the young couple took up residence in Whitevale.

Watch for announcements regarding a watch-night service which is being held by the first Baptist Church.

ATTACKED BY WILDCATS, FARMER SHOOT'S PAIR

Eugene Hare of Nixon near Brantford, has shot two savage cats and he's trying to determine if they are wildcats or lynx.

Both of them tried to attack him. They are a third to a half bigger than an ordinary house cat and heavily furred. He beat one off with a pitchfork and the other with a shovel.

The first was caught in a barn by Hare and several neighbors he summoned. They shot it with a rifle. The other killed five chickens on the farm of Hare's father. Hare trailed it for three miles and shot it in a field.

"These are not ordinary house cats," Hare said. "If they are they are a tremendous size. They weigh about 16 pounds. The one I caught in the barn came at me with a rush. I knocked it down with a shovel. It sprang at me again and when I hit it the second time it ran up into the loft. I got several fellows and with a flashlight, we found it and shot it."

"I had a pitchfork when the other one came at me at my dad's place. It had been killing chickens, put the dog on it and we came on it in a field, it was crouching there ready to spring, lashing its tail. I shot it before it had a chance to jump at me."

Editor's Mail

Dear Editor,
 This may not interest you, but I thought the suggestion might be worth trying to get started.
 As you know, there are quite a number of elderly people in every town who find it hard to get to the local post office for their mail. Why couldn't they have house delivery without an extra charge onto the town, same as the city people, and all rural mail routes are run. There are plenty of ex-service men who would be glad of an appointment like that and those people are just as deserving of service as any other people in the country.

Personally, I always think the mail service pays well. You never hear of a deficit in that department. My sister who is living at Agincourt has quite a distance to go for her mail and is not very well most of the time. I wrote to her last Monday hoping she would get it on Tuesday, but she was not able to go to the office till Wednesday then I had written again, and did not hear from her, so phoned on Saturday. (we don't have a phone) and she had not been to the office for her mail. There are about ten families in that corner of the village who once paid an elderly man to bring their mail every morning, but he died and no one else has taken on the job. If a person lives outside of a town limits where a mail route passes by, they get their mail in their box without extra charge.

I thought I would send this to you and maybe you could have a write-up in your paper and others might take it up as well.

Yours sincerely,

Annie Nosbitt.
 [The postal department at Ottawa never made a profit in all its long existence. All its public buildings are maintained by the Public Works Dept., and if rent and heat were charged against the postal service the deficit would be very great. Observer writing under Editor's Mail last week should be read in conjunction with the above letter since one rather answers the queries made by the other. Editor]

The new license plates for motor cars will be on sale next week from the dealers. The letter and figures will be white with a dark background.

W.P.T.B. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Typical questions consumers have asked the Wartime Prices & Trade Board this week are answered by the Consumer Branch Committee.
 Q.—I saw two small mantel radios in a store window last week priced at $19.95. When I went in to make a purchase the storekeeper would not sell one to me. Is he allowed to put merchandise in his window and refuse to sell to a customer?
 A.—Yes, the display of merchandise in any window does not compel the storekeeper to sell. Several electrical appliance shops are displaying radios and other household equipment in their windows at the present time. You will find these items are not for sale, the dealers are taking orders for delivery as soon as possible after the new year.

Q.—I bought a pound of chocolates (boxed) this week and was charged $1.17. This seems like a very high price for candy. Was I overcharged?
 A.—No, we have checked with the manufacturers of the brand you bought and they have always made a box which sells for $1.00 and from the description given in your letter we are sure this is the type of chocolate you bought. The 17c, of course, is a government excise tax which is levied on all candy sales.

Q.—I have been unable to buy a suit of clothes despite the fact I have visited dozens of stores. When men's suits are so scarce why are they not rationed?
 A.—The rationing of any item means a tremendous amount of administrative work, a terrific cost and a great deal of extra work for storekeepers. For these reasons it is not practical to ration men's clothes when there is only a temporary shortage. 35% of all retail tailor supplies have been set aside for returned men and there just isn't enough cloth available for everyone to have a new suit at the moment. Returned men have been wearing the same old battle dress for many years and naturally they are given a preference when it comes to buying their first suit of civvies. When the returned men have been outfitted there will be plenty of suits for everyone, so it would be a waste of time and money to set up a rationing plan which would be needed for only a few months.

 Q.—Are plumbers governed by a ceiling price or can they charge just as much as they like for their labour?
 A.—It must be cold weather. We have received so many enquiries regarding charges made by plumbers for household repairs. We repeat once more that prices charged for such work are certainly governed by price ceiling regulations.

A Happy New Year

to all ———
AND MAY THE NEW YEAR BRING PEACE TO EVERY LAND

We salute the homemakers of Canada. In saying Happy New Year we want to convey to the homemakers of Stouffville and district our appreciation of your co-operation with us as a home store. We know we have not been able to render you the service you have learned to expect.....we know that we did not always have just what you wanted.....but we hope to make amends when Canada can again concentrate upon the needs of a nation at peace rather than upon the requirements of a wartime world.

Another Christmas..... another year drawing to a close..... a new year dawning which is different from the last wartime years because it brings to us all the hope of a year of peace..... of a better world to come.
