The members of Mr. Wm. Reesor's former Sunday School class met at his home on Monday evening of last week and presented Mr. Reesor with a lovely Bible and Mrs. Reesor with a Religious Plaque. The address read as follows: Mr. Reesor the members of your former S.S. class have met with you tonight to give an expression of their appreciation of you being their teacher in the past few years. The Christian Fellowship has grown and many are the blessings bestowed upon its Christian work. It is our wish that you and Mrs. Reesor will long be spared to enjoy your home together. As a token of our respect for you, and our gratitude of your work and interest among us, we ask you and Mrs. Reesor to accept these gifts for in it are your secret treasurers hid, your best comfort lies, your desire satisfied and hence your hopes arrived. Signed on behalf of the class, Mrs. Allen Myers, Mrs. Fred Byers, Mrs. Norman Neal.

GOODWOOD

We welcome home Dvr. Harold Wellman who came on the Queen Elizabeth on Monday evening after being overseas two years and ten months. This is the first time Murray has seen his daddy.

Old Bess went to market last week from the farm of Reeve Chas. Hooper of Markham township. She had been a grand cow in her day, and if she had a good memory she could recall when young Hooper (now Reeve Hooper) tried out his skill as a boy milker, for Old Bess is long past voting age. It might seem a bit thankless, but Old Bess last week went to the stock yards, her first and only trip away from home in more than 21 years. Here again she upheld her tradition of being "tops" for she went down the gangway to bring a good price per pound, despite her advanced years. She was sleek and round, with no sign of her great age being too apparent.

LOCUST HILL

Surrounded by members of their family Mr. and Mrs. John Baker Richmond Hill, on Tuesday, January 29th, celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary. They are the parents of Mr. Lloyd Baker of our locality. A family party in their honor was held at the home of their eldest daughter, Mrs. Edgar Anning. During the evening there were speeches of congratulation after which three grandchildren presented the honoured couple with a gold banded tea pot containing a sum of money from members of the family and Mrs. Baker's sister, Mrs. Whitney of Toronto. Mr. and Mrs. Baker also were the recipients of many beautiful and useful gifts from relatives and many cards and messages of congratulations from friends in many distant points including California, Chicago and Ottawa. The bride and groom of fifty years ago expressed their thanks for their lovely gifts and a dainty luncheon was served. Members of the family are Leslie, Mrs. Edgar Anning, Mrs. Wm. H. Hornor, all of Richmond Hill; Lloyd at Locust Hill, and Miss Dorothy at home. Their are eight grand children.
