ASKS DISTILLERIES AND BREWERIES BE CLOSED DOWN

"A right-thinking person should rise up in arms against such waste and close the breweries and distilleries until such times as famine conditions are eliminated in the needy countries," declared Rev. C. W. Sorley, pastor of Missionary Tabernacle in Kitchener, in a temperance address.

"It is hard to believe that intelligent Canadians would permit such a colossal waste of grain for the manufacture of such beverages when they know that millions are on a diet which is virtually a slow death."

UNIONVILLE

Miss Ila C. Weighill, A.T.C.M. of Unionville, sponsored a most enjoyable entertainment when 45 of her class of piano pupils gave a recital in the Central United Church last Thursday evening. The large audience thoroughly enjoyed the program which was comprised of choice selections from the best composers. The manner in which they were rendered even by some children not over seven years old and the complete absence of prompting gave positive evidence of the efficiency of teaching the class has received. Miss Weighill is to be congratulated on the excellent work she is carrying on toward the musical education of the community.

Hon. James A. MacKinnon, Minister of Trade and Commerce, has stated in Ottawa that payments on the 1943 participation certificates would be started in June. "So far as I know the board is hoping to be able, and feel confident they will be, to start the issuing of cheques on the 1943 wheat participation certificates in June," he said, continuing to point out that it was only a matter of getting the cheques out.

Missionary Service Raises $1,080

The annual missionary Sunday in connection with the Gormley Menonite Church which has been promoted under the pastorate of Rev. E. Huson, topped all previous givings this year when during the day no less than $1080 was subscribed for the work.

It was also agreed to maintain two native workers on the field in Africa for one year, at a cost of about $100 each. In addition to this the convention promised to donate $100 to the first missionary worker who volunteers for the foreign field from Gormley.

FOOLISH, BUT NOT CRIMINAL TO BURN DOWN HIS HOME

Magistrate J. E. Pritchard, K.C., dismissed a charge of arson against Michael E. West, Holland Landing, in magistrate's court at Newmarket. West, it was shown burned down his home in disgust, and had no insurance. His daughter was permitted to remove her belongings which she failed to do.

In his judgment, Magistrate Pritchard found that the charge of arson must carry with it an intent to defraud. There was no evidence of such an intent, he said. The accused owned his house and carried no insurance. Referring to the crown's evidence that clothes of the accused man's daughter had been destroyed in the fire, he pointed out that West had given the daughter an opportunity to remove her belongings.

The question before the court is whether or not the act constituted a criminal offense within the meaning of section 511 of the Criminal Code," he said. "There is no allegation in the charge that the accused set fire to his home for the purpose of defrauding. The evidence does not establish fraud or any attempt at fraud."

As owner of the house, accused has a legal justification and color of right to dispose of the house as he sees fit, and cannot be convicted of the arson charge unless there is evidence of defrauding or an attempt to defraud, Magistrate Pritchard ruled.

"While I find the actions of the accused man very foolish, I cannot find that a criminal offence has been committed or sufficient evidence to call for a defence," he concluded.

Agnew's Hardware

Share with the Hungry!

In support of Canada's campaign to conserve food for shipment to starving people overseas, Stouffville Bakery appeals to all their customers to use up each loaf of bread completely, crust and crumb, before cutting into a fresh one. Only by lessening waste at home can we help to lessen starvation abroad.

The bread normally wasted in Canada each day, thrown out carelessly with the garbage, would be enough to save many thousands of people abroad from actual starvation. So please make the most of every loaf you buy. Protect it from air, between meals, and you'll find it fresh and good to the last crumb.

To-day the world needs bread desperately. Help to eliminate unnecessary waste so that Canada may ship more surplus wheat to starving people overseas. Every family can co-operate by using up each loaf of bread completely, crust and crumb, before cutting into a fresh one. Less bread wanted in Canada will mean less starvation abroad.

Some Ways to Prevent Waste

Bread Economies

Day-old bread is easier to slice and the family are less likely to eat more of it than they need.

Get a few extra slices from each loaf by cutting bread thinner. If you take a second slice make it a half slice.

Never remove—always eat the crusts.

Dry and use the crumbs from the bread board. It's surprising how they mount up.

Make toast as needed. Watch the toast. Don't let it burn.

Can you cut bread straight, or are you left with a wedge-shaped end of loaf that can only be used for crumbs? Here's the secret of even slicing. Make sure that:

- (1) Loaf and knife at right angles to each other.
- (2) The blade of the knife is absolutely perpendicular and not slanting either to right or left.
- (3) You cut with a sawing motion.

To Freshen Stale Bread

Pour a little boiling water in a roasting pan, place loaf on a rack in the pan, cover the pan closely and let stand for about ten minutes; time depending on the degree of staleness and the size of the loaf. Moisten a paper bag well, place stale loaf in the bag and heat in a moderate oven. Bread freshened this way must be eaten immediately.

Split and toast stale biscuits, rolls or muffins. Freshen rolls, muffins and biscuits by heating them in the top of the double boiler, with the lid on, or in a moistened paper bag in the oven.

Uses for Stale Bread

When there is stale bread the following suggestions will use it up—

- Toast it.
- Use it for making stuffings for meat, fish, poultry or vegetables.
- Use it in cheese dishes, e.g. cheese fondue.
- Use it in puddings.
- Make French Toast.
- Make Melba Toast.
- Make croutons to serve with soup.
- Use it in scalloped tomatoes.
- Dry it and make it into crumbs—Use these crumbs as topping for casserole dishes, to coat chops, cutlets or fish, to coat croquettes—which may be over-baked to save fat, to give body to clear soup.
- Use dry cake or cookie crumbs to make desserts such as trifle or as topping for Fruit Butty's.
