

CANADIANS CAN TAKE $150 INTO UNITED STATES
 Customs inspectors at border points have been instructed to allow Canadians to carry $150 in cash or traveller's cheques when crossing the border into the United States. Foreign Exchange Control Board officials said today. Of the $150 total, not more than $100 may be in United States funds. Previously Canadians were permitted to take only $50 in Canadian or U.S. funds with them on each visit across the border. Officials said the permit "Form H" which previously had to be filled out for any amounts of more than $50 now is not necessary except for amounts in excess of $150.

ALTONA
 (Too late last week)
 Mr. and Mrs. David Crosier attended the funeral of Mrs. Marshall Crosier of Oxdrift, New Ontario, held at Utica on Saturday.
 The friends, neighbors and members of the Women's Institute met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Hodgson on Friday evening last, in the form of a surprise party for Mrs. William Slack, Merle and Audrey, who are leaving our community, to reside in Goodwood. A pleasant evening was spent, with music and vocal selections. Refreshments were served. The address read:
 Mrs. Slack, Audrey and Merle.
 We, your friends, neighbors and members of the Women's Institute are gathered here to-night to bid you a fond good-bye as you leave our community. Especially do we want to express to you our high esteem for you and your family. We have appreciated your interest and active part in all the community activities. We feel that we are losing a good friend, a generous neighbour and a helpful citizen. You have brought dignity and honour to us in several capacities. We thank you, Audrey and Merle for your associations. We shall long remember them. We thank you too for the honour you have brought to our community, through your accomplishments at High School and we are proud that you are one of us. We wish you happiness in your new home and we are confident that you will be successful in whatever field you enter. Wherever you go you will carry the best wishes of all of us.
 May we show our honour and respect by presenting these small tokens of our esteem.
 Signed: Mrs. Chas. Hodgson

RAPID DECLINE IN NUMBER APPLE TREES
 What has happened to fruit trees in Canada in the last 40 years, is the subject of an article in the Economic Annalist by B.A. Campbell and Dr. W. C. Hopper. They point out that the 1901 census reported 21 million fruit trees in Canada and by 1941 the number had decreased to 13.8 million. This decrease in the number of fruit trees can be accounted for in several ways, they say. Trees were planted in all sections of Canada as the country became settled and settlers had little knowledge as to adaptability of fruit trees to the climate or soil of a particular region. In many cases it was found that climate was too severe and winter killing resulted often enough to make the growing of certain fruits impracticable.
 Later, as commercial agriculture developed, certain limited areas of Canada, particularly parts of Ontario, Nova Scotia, British Columbia, and Quebec, were found suited to growing tree fruits with the result that production expanded in these areas. In limited areas of Ontario, such as the Niagara Peninsula, plantings of tender fruits increased and replaced apple trees which could be grown over a wider area of Canada. Also as commercial agriculture developed, disease and pests became more prevalent, and specialization in other types of agriculture developed. Consequently, the farmer with a few trees found it impractical to care for his fruit properly so that the small farm orchards have practically disappeared in many sections of Canada.

 A similar story is told of the changes in numbers of apple trees in Canada during the 40-year period. In 1901 there were more than 15 million apple trees reported in Canada and by 1941 this total had declined to 8.5 million trees. In 1940, total production of apples was about 14 million bushels which was 25 per cent less than was reported in the census of 1900. The most significant change in the number of trees has taken place in Ontario where the number declined from 9.5 million in 1901 to 2.9 million in 1940. The number of trees in Nova Scotia in 1911 was about the same as that reported in 1901, while the actual production of apples from commercial apple orchards in 1940 was almost double that reported from apple trees in 1900.
