Miss Vera Tarr is home again after spending a couple of weeks in Toronto among friends. Vera is just now living with her brother, Percy on Baker avenue. The old home on Main street east has been sold and the furniture will be offered by auction, Saturday, Feb. 15.

Mr. Isaac Barkey has been lending a helping hand to an old friend who operates a machine shop in Toronto. No doubt one with the varied and thorough knowledge of a machinist like Mr. Barkey would be of inestimable value, and while he is normally supposed to be living a retired life, this veteran mechanic is actually a very busy man.

Parade of Hits at Stanley Theatre patrons will be most pleased with the programs listed on their schedule of entertainment at the Stanley, Stouffville. This current week saw crowds enjoy, "Lost Weekend", one of the most publicized pictures of the year just ended. Montgomery, fresh from a three weeks sojourn at the Toronto Uptown.

On Sunday, Mr. Albert Hoover reached his 81st birthday, enjoying very good health. Certainly, he doesn't look a man of that age. Hoover, west end, who is spending the winter in Toronto at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. P. Steckley.

COMFORTABLE QUARTERS FOR PRISONERS

A few days ago County Constable Edgar Kidd, old Ballantrae boy, showed us over the basement floor of the York County building at 57 Adelaide street east. This is the building where county court is held on the ground floor, and where York County Chambers provide the meeting place for the county council upstairs. Although we have been sitting in the chambers for more than two years, this was the first time we decided to stroll into the basement, where we met Constable Kidd. We were shown the two cells where prisoners are kept when brought to the building for trial, and were agreeably surprised with the splendid, clean condition everything was in. The cells are warm and quite comfortable, each provided with a toilet and hand washing basin. The whole building is heated by a large gas-burning furnace, much like an oil burner. Prisoners are not kept in the cells for any length of time, only when awaiting trial. One cell was occupied, so we entered the other one, but were able to get out immediately. Arriving in Stouffville that night it was brought to our attention that a middle-aged man was living in an unheated chicken pen, which wasn't half as comfortable as the county cells.

HAROLD WOOD WEDS MARGARET WIDEMAN

The first wedding solemnized in M.B.C. church at Gormley this year was that of Margaret Wideman, Toronto, formerly of Gormley, daughter of Mr. S. Wideman and the late Mrs. Wideman, and Harold Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Wood, Toronto, on Saturday, January 25th. Rev. P. C. Huson performed the ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white winter wool dressmaker ensemble with little Dutch hat of violet petals and a muff to match. She wore an orchid corsage. Her only attendant, Blanche Wideman, sister of the bride, wore a beaver brown suit with a corsage of coral roses. Best man was Jack McDay. The bridal pair left on a trip to Montreal, the bride in a French gray suit with matching topcoat.

It was the annual warden's and York County night at Ft. York army camp last week with county councillors and civic officials throughout the county were guests of the Queen's York Rangers, 1st American Regiment.

The salute was taken by Warden Charles Hooper and the guests were welcomed by Lieut. Col. John Hunter, M.C., officer commanding, assisted by the officers. Around 30 cadets from Aurora were present to parade with the regiment and the boys made an excellent showing. C. Company was also on parade.

L. E. O'Neill's February sale of furniture offers big reductions on mattresses, and numerous items of furniture. Watch for the display announcement, and be sure and call at the store whether you buy or not.

Mrs. Roy Andrew of Ballantrae is nursing a broken bone in the right hand, sustained when she fell on some ice, striking her hand on a pail.

Persons who found it necessary to tramp the streets of Toronto last week, were not the ones who did any complaining about conditions in Stouffville. The so-called "beautiful" doesn't stay that way very long in a big city, and so far as the writer could see it took just as long to remove it. Fred Castle and his helpers did a good job in town opening the main streets after the last big storm.

Troubles of this Week

This issue of The Tribune was produced under trying conditions. Since our last paper went out, fluorescent lighting has been installed in the workshop, and the interior of the shop painted a suitable green such as is recommended for school rooms. Not that we operate a school room, but we do require the best of light. During the painting operation, no other work could be carried on, and this placed us at a disadvantage in keeping up with the publication of the paper. Add to the absence of a reporter, and a linotype operator, and you can imagine the trouble we have experienced. With a better shop to work in, and a fully organized staff of six or seven regular hands, we hope to be moving along better, and so be enabled to do a first-class job.

It is expected that a bus will convey the hockey fans to Newmarket for the Junior game Monday night.

A Horse Barn Needed

The need for a horse shed in Waterloo was so keenly felt that the farmers banded together, and with the aid of a few business people purchased an unused building and are rebuilding it in a convenient place in that town. Since a similar situation is arising in Stouffville, the same idea might well be followed here. It is more than likely that a suitable shed could be bought and erected in a convenient place for use by the horsemen who are developing a Christmas show here. Such a building would be very convenient on numerous occasions, and the town business men would undoubtedly be glad to help finance the small cost. Councillor Hugh Boyd has been interested in the idea and we hope he will follow the matter to a successful conclusion.

Sportsmen!

In renewing his subscription to The Tribune, R. G. Brown, Midland says, "I would like to add my congratulations to the boys from my home town for the fine showing they made in the recent bonspiel held here. They made many friends not only as good curiers, but also true sportsmen. I am sure a warm welcome awaits them on a return visit. I am also greatly interested in the success of the hockey club. Good luck boys."

The regular meeting of the council will be held this Thursday evening, with the reeve absent owing to a banquet at Victoria Square in honor of Warden Chas. Hooper.

Mr. William Reaman who underwent an operation in York County Hospital is convalescing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Boake, Pine Orchard.

Directors of York County Federation of Agriculture Hold Meeting.

On Tuesday evening, Jan. 28, the directors of York County Federation of Agriculture met at the council chambers, Maple. The executive of the Hog Producers' Assoc. was also present. Dalton Rummy the president, opened a County Cream Producers' Assoc. The creameries were not giving their co-operation, it was said, and no decision was arrived at.

The hog producers assoc. has planned to have an open meeting in the near future which all hog producers are urged to attend. The Federation is going to try and secure a full time film circuit as the film showings have become very popular. The other townships in the county are to be asked to consider the assessment levy system of finance as is now being done in Markham.

The annual meeting of the Federation will be held in the 2nd or 3rd week of March at Newmarket.

SAW HIS FIRST PICTURE SHOW IN 84 YEARS

Although he has lived to be 84 years of age, Albert E. Davis, lifelong resident east of Stouffville, attended his first picture show last week when he accompanied a friend to the Stanley Theatre here. And was he delighted with the experience! Ab. declared that he would like to sit through the same program again, and that if he had known what he was missing all those years, he would have been a more regular attendant.

THE CEMENT VAULT DEMAND

Six years ago there was not a cement vault in the cemetery at Heise Hill, but since that time there have been five used there. The last one went in last week for the late Geo. Leary. Cement vaults during war years became more common than the steel vaults which were impossible to procure. The cement built receptacle for the dead is just as lasting and durable as steel, it is said, and is entirely water proof in construction.

At Stouffville cemetery L. E. O'Neill, funeral director, supported the claim made that cement vaults are more in use just now than steel because of the shortage of materials. However, only three or four have been used in Stouffville cemetery in the last five or ten years but the number of steel vaults are considerable and could not readily be reckoned. Most burials use what is commonly known as a wooden rough box, but when it is of steel or cement it is designated a vault, and adds about $250 to the funeral costs.
