

2,300 CATTLE SELL FOR $225,000 AT BIGGEST AUCTION

Little Current, Ont., Oct. 1—About 2,300 head of choice Manitoulin Island cattle drew close to $225,000 here yesterday in the largest single cattle sale in the Dominion. Buyers from many parts of Canada paid prices from $6.10 for canners to $14.75 for best beef cattle.

Only seven of the 79 carloads sold at the annual auction went to packing houses. Most of the cattle—lighter than last year's due to a dry summer—will be fattened on the grasslands of Southwestern Ontario and reach Canadian tables during the winter.

Car-lots this year averaged nearly $2,800 compared with $2,000 last year. Sales are by carload lots only which run to about 24,000 pounds each.

At last year's sale 1,876 head were sold in 72 car-lots for a total of $144,000.

Eighty-two year old James McCorrie was gored by a cow on his farm near Beaverton and died a few hours later. He was found by his son in an unconscious condition.

Ontario County Roads

NEW SET-UP PROPOSED FOR COUNTY ROAD WORK

As a step toward increased efficiency, plans are under way for the reorganization of road work in Ontario County so as to divide the county into five districts with a permanent foreman in each. All work would continue under the supervision of County Engineer D. J. Kean, and Superintendent Jack Rae, but each foreman would be responsible for obtaining the necessary labor and carrying out work in his respective territory.

The plan was suggested by the county engineer at a special session of County Council, and council expressed itself in accord with such an arrangement. Mr. Kean said that these men could also look after maintenance of county bridges and with adequate staff the county would be able to do jobs which would otherwise be let by tender.

Pointing out that the county has approximately 235 miles of roads under its jurisdiction, excluding suburban roads, Mr. Kean suggested that the divisions be made so as to include 40 to 45 miles of road in each.

His suggested divisions were as follows: 1, the north section of the county taking in all of Rama Township and Mara north of the 6th concession; 2 the area around Brechin and roads in Thorah and the north part of Brock Townships; 3 roughly, the central north-west section of the county, including Wilfrid and Victoria Corners and those in Scott and Uxbridge Townships; 4, the southwest section of the county including the roads in Whitby and Pickering Townships; 5, the southeast section of the county, north to Saintfield.

Since 1935 the system has been to have a part-time foreman in each township. Mr. Kean said that while the work of these men had been commendable, it would assist in keeping proper records of costs, for instance, if there were a permanent, full-time man in charge of each district.

A show of hands indicated the council's unanimous approval of a reorganization along these lines.

During further discussion on county roads, Mr. Kean was asked why the general superintendent had not full charge of dragging operations as decided by the county roads committee at the last session. The county engineer replied that this had been carried out in general but in some instances the construction work of which he had charge had encroached on the dragging. He said the arrangement would be carried out as directed as soon as the construction work was completed. He explained also that the most suitable time for dragging was after a rain.

Mr. Kean said this had been completed in July this year while it was still in progress in September a year ago. He added that it was planned to cut all weeds before winter so that they would not contribute to snow drifting.

Geo. Brown Uxbridge, Dead

The death of George Brown at his home on the 5th concession of Uxbridge, at lot 20, on Sept. 27 was due to heart failure. He had been a sufferer from dropsy and gangrene for a long time. He was 74 years of age and was born on the 3rd concession of the township in which he died and spent 36 years of his life. He was a son of John Brown and his wife Susan Morden.

In the year 1900 he married Rachael Miller and the couple took up farming which they continued all his life. Besides his wife there survives three daughters, Mrs. E. Norton of Goodwood, Mrs. McPhee of Toronto, and Mrs. H. Norton of Claremont. There are two brothers, David of Uxbridge and Thomas of Whitby, and two sisters, Mrs. A. Miller and Mrs. S. Simpson, Uxbridge. Two sons and a daughter also an adopted son predeceased him.

Toronto Suburban Turkey Farm in Scarborough

Almost due south of Stouffville at West Hill in the southern part of Scarborough Township is an interesting turkey farm, that appears to be making a success of what many farmers consider a difficult stock to raise. Here, Edward Hope, proprietor of what might be termed suburban Toronto's only turkey farm, says it is no trick at all to raise turkeys if you follow the simple rules. Right now he has 1,200 turkeys but will lighten the load since hundreds of them are intended for the Thanksgiving market next week, but main flock will grace the Christmas tables of Toronto.

The gobblers, since May, when they weighed a little over an ounce as poults, have attained the weight of 16 to 18 lbs. When you see them in the window of your local butcher store they will tip the scales between 20 and 25 lbs.

Mr. Hope is raising a special breed of turkeys this year called White Hollands. The birds are pure white with a light blue head and red wattles.

A retired business man, Mr. Hope, expects to enlarge his pens to accommodate between two and three thousand next year.

"Some people say turkeys are delicate and difficult to raise, but I can't agree with them. There are certain do's and don'ts that have to be adhered to but if you follow the proper procedure there is nothing to worry about," he commented.

His reason for raising the white birds is the fact their feathers bring 80 cents a lb.

To protect this added revenue Mr. Hope has had to supply all his birds with "bits." The bit is a piece of wire hooked into the nostril of the bird and running under the upper bill.

Of a cannibalistic nature the birds would peck each other naked if the bits were not used. Although the bit does not hamper the bird in eating it cannot take a hold of anything with its beak.

The turkeys are kept in pens raised up from the ground to protect them from dampness. Although there are 17 diseases to which the birds are subject, most of them contagious, Mr. Hope has not lost a bird this year.

They are fed specially prepared feed which is changed as they get older. Mr. Hope estimates that it costs him from $3 to $4 to feed one bird.

The present cool weather is the best thing that could have happened according to Mr. Hope. The birds eat more and right now they are on their special market diet which means bigger and better birds.

Mr. Hope will raise a much smaller turkey next year as it is his belief that is what the market needs.

"You can't expect a man with a wife and two children to buy a 20-lb. turkey. All he can afford is one weighing 11 or 12 lbs.

He said he would bring in a breed developed in Southern America that did not grown any bigger than 14 lbs.

"I have heard from a reliable source that all the turkeys west of Brantford are being diverted to the United States markets. It is something like 12,000 birds," he said.

Oh Yes! The price of turkeys? Mr. Hope figures they will be in the vicinity of 60 cents a lb. "I pay 50 cents a pound for minced steak. So what can you expect," he concluded.
