Blind Since Birth, Arthur Curtis Talented Musician, Dead

The death from a heart attack on Sunday, May 9th, of Arthur Curtis, eldest son of the late Robert and Ann Swales Curtis of Mongolia, in the Chatham General Hospital at the age of 37 years, may recall to memory many incidents of his early life to older residents of Stouffville and surrounding community.

He was born on the late Jas. Renie farm, then known as the "Noble farm" on the tenth concession of Markham, south of Stouffville. Blind from birth, he attended Mongolia school, accompanied by his sister Alice, who assisted him in his studies. In his very early youth, he showed marked musical ability, so his father purchased one of the first organs known in that community, and which is still with one of the family. He attended "Brantford School for the Blind" for some years, studying music and piano tuning, and on his vacations at home, usually brought other blind boys with him. Many times these were the famed Leppard brothers of Sharon, Ont. and the three, all blind, and gifted as singers and playing different instruments, gave many concerts in schools and churches in the different localities.

His father, was a storekeeper and postmaster, for forty-four years at Mongolia, and their home was the rendezvous for many blind boys on their vacations. After leaving the Brantford School, Arthur was employed with the firm of Mason & Risch Co., Toronto, as a piano tuner for some years. Later he went to Essex and Kent counties, where he also taught music and tuned pianos, travelling unaccompanied all around these districts, driving a horse and buggy.

In September 1893 he married Luella M. Shepley, a well known school teacher and elocutionist. Their combined talents were a source of pleasure and entertainment, as Mr. Curtis played several instruments and was a great imitator of well-known characters. Mrs. Curtis passed away six years ago at Merlin, Ontario, where both had been active in church and social life there.

Local and Personal Happenings

Remember the Women's Institute meeting Thursday, at 2.30 p.m. in the Municipal Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Evans were Sunday guests with her sister, Sadie Stewart.

Miss Belle Mitchell who spent the winter in California, and the past month or more in Vancouver, is expected to arrive back today (Thursday) and will reopen her home at Ringwood after the long holiday.

Only thirteen names were added to the voters' list when the county judge held a sitting here last week in a court designed to add names to the list of persons omitted from the last revised list of voters or those who have since changed their residence. The thirteen people who requested to be added to the Stouffville list were new residents. With this addition the municipal list will serve for the provincial voters list for the coming election on June 7th. No political party took interest enough to see that their supporters were on the list, which is quite a change from the old days when they made this a business to comb the lists just before election time.

Highway to Uxbridge Under Repairs

Since it established its first forestry station at St. Williams, 40 years ago, the Ontario government has distributed 265 million trees to farmers and other landowners for planting. That is a lot of trees, comments The Financial Post editorially, but compared to the amount of ground that could and to date has been a mere drop in the bucket. Most of these trees have should be covered, the distribution been used for rebuilding and extending farm woodlots, though in recent years an increasing percentage have gone into new country and provincial forests.

Tree planting deserves and needs the greatest public support. It deserves support because without a tremendous increase in planting in the next few decades, a very large acreage of our land is going to revert to worthless and dangerous desert.

Mr. Curtis was the brother of the late Robert Curtis of Stouffville, whose death occurred in August 1936. Attending this funeral was the last time Arthur visited Stouffville.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday, May 11th in Merlin, Ont. where he was buried beside his wife.

Public spirited citizens of Richmond Hill are out to raise $35,000 for a community hall in the Yonge street town. Nineteen members of the Lions Club there contributed $100 each, to make $4,000 raised the first few days of the campaign. A hall in Stouffville is dropped for the present because of lack of support, plus the fact that the Stouffville Veterans are building a hall. Down in Markham the town passed a by-law and called for tenders only to find them too high for the money available and the building is postponed.

Find Old Canisters

Found in the ruins of one of Canada's first fruit and vegetable canneries, two rusty tin cans, being examined by pretty model, are typical of old-style hole-and-cap cans first made by hand in Canada some 80 years ago. An expert tinsmith then could turn out a few hundred cans a day, according to American Can Company, compared to more than 350 a minute on modern automatic machinery. Tins shown here were found recently under the floor of former Canadian Cannery plant at Demorestville, Ontario, first operated in 1880's by Wellington Boulter, pioneer canner.

In Toronto for a gathering of churchmen, Rev. W.M. McGuire, Mennonite pastor in Stouffville 25 years ago, made a hasty call here among old friends. He seized the opportunity to spend the day on the trout streams north of town, and was able to catch a few of the speckled beauties to take back to his home across the line. Following a serious motor accident last fall, Mr. McGuire has made good recovery, and his one son who was injured in the same accident is almost completely recovered. After a day's fishing this former townsman enjoyed supper with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Connor, Main street.

WILD DEER VISITS TOWN

We have no record of when a live wild deer has visited Stouffville, but a few days ago Mrs. Frank Rowbotham stepped out the door of her home to see one romping across the park travelling south in the direction of the Harper farm.

The animal did not appear to be alarmed and romped across the big field at just a mild pace, but bumped into the strand of fence wire that marks off the baseball field from the roadway. Then it travelled close to the mounted guns and on south. There were no dogs in pursuit, and no one about to alarm the visitor. As the deer travels cityward no doubt its troubles will increase, and its worries mount higher and higher.
