Let's Get This Straight
Unless one accepts Almighty God as the final arbiter of human destiny and His Will as the law of human life, there is little point in arguing the right or wrong of birth control. To one who accepts the Will of God, it is necessary only to know that contraception is directly forbidden by the Divine Positive Law and contrary to the very nature, purpose and end of the institution of matrimony. There argument ceases. But, if one does understand or accept the Will of God in this matter, the discussion can be concerned only with expediency.
