Jos. Farr who disposed of his elevator and feed business here some months ago, and moved with his family to Orillia, is shortly to open one of the most up-to-date implement show-rooms in the north. The building is 40'x80' and a considerable sum of money is being spent in remodelling the front.

Richard Flumerfelt who recently lost his house by fire at Sandford, has purchased a building at Ajax which he is having converted into a dwelling. The job of moving the new home from Ajax to Sandford, a distance of nearly 30 miles was handled last week by Jack Chapman. Considerable delay was experienced in getting through Claremont's four corners due to the many telephone wires which criss-cross the street. The local telephone linesmen were confronted with quite a task of removing the wires to allow the convoy to pass through. It required approximately two days to move the building north from the lakefront.

The Sinclair Cup, bowling trophy competed for annually on the local greens, was won last week by a Stouffville pair, Mr. Gordon Lemon and Mrs. Fred Crossen. Mr. Winton White has purchased a portion of the local Baptist Church sheds, and is having the building converted into a cattle shelter on his farm near Balsam. The building 20x30 ft. was advertised some weeks ago in the Tribune. The one remaining portion of the Baptist sheds will be maintained at the church for wood storage.

Talking to L. Kahn & Sons since their public auction sale held on the farm east of Claremont, Mr. Kahn told The Tribune that they regretted having to withdraw some of their cattle and hogs from the sale. Pigs that they had paid the farmers $12 each for were only bid to $10, hence they were not sold. Mr. Kahn said the market had declined, and this was a fact, also it indicated no doubt that the Kahns pay good prices to the farmers for first quality stock. The implements were all sold, and the tractor which brought $1440 had only been used a season and was bought new for $1950. In any event the Kahn sale was a clean cut affair, with everything going to the high bidders.

Little Objection To New Bylaw

Following the public meeting held in the Pickering Twp. municipal office last week, when the Municipal Board representatives sat to hear complaints on the Pickering Township zoning bylaw, it was agreed that a halt should be called to the erection of any more cabins in the township.

At present there are said to be between fifty and sixty cabins operated for overnight accommodation. It has been found in the past that some of these cabins have been used for permanent dwellings, with unsanitary and overcrowded conditions arising.

Only a couple of dozen ratepayers showed up at the township office for the meeting, and only a half dozen of these made any statement of criticism of the by-law.

"The Dominion government created the housing problem here when it built Ajax and brought in more help than there was housing to accommodate," said Harry Newman, Toronto lawyer and land owner in the township. Mr. Newman represented both himself and the Premier Trust Company which is mortgagee for a group of residents along the Dunbarton Shores.

"This by-law is expropriation in a very straight-forward form," said Mr. Newman but he was assured that the land restrictions would apply only to new sub-divisions.

Edward R. Hannah, representing the Pickering Ratepayers Association, objected to the clause which calls for a continuous foundation. Presenting the township's views, Melville Grant, of the firm of Grant and Grant, Toronto, said: "This by-law is a matter of self-preservation. We have six summer developments in the township which are being turned into permanent residential areas but the township has not the assessment to support them with urban conveniences. This by-law was prepared in harmony with the wishes of the Whitby-Pickering township planning board, on the advice of Gordon Culham, a planning engineer."

Mr. Grant went on to say that Pickering Township is being plagued with people moving out from the city, building small homes and expecting city conveniences.

Claremont Co-op Turnover $170,000 In Nine Months

With assets of $70,000 and a turnover of almost $170,000 in nine months, President Milton Pegg points to the excellent accomplishments of the Claremont Co-Operative which held its annual meeting in Claremont this Wednesday night. Mr. Pegg said there had been a net saving of $3,400 and a 2% patronage refund during this period of operation.

The Claremont Co-Op took over the business of Farr's Elevators on November 1st last, and have gone steadily forward.

At the annual meeting four new directors were appointed but the names could not be obtained in time for this report. Guest speaker at the meeting was Leonard Harman, general secretary of United Co-Operatives of Ontario. Lunch was served in the Community Hall where the business was all carried on.

One requirement of the by-law is that a house must be set on a parcel of land 15,000 sq. feet in area, unless sewer service is available. Minimum frontage is 75 feet and minimum depth 200 feet. The whole idea of the by-law is to prevent overcrowding of areas, said Mr. Grant.

Dr. Neil McEwen of Pickering and Whitby, a member of last year's Pickering council, had some hard words for the by-law.

"I'm in favor of giving the young home owners a break," he said. "I'm opposed to selling this township to the mortgage companies which is just what you will be doing when you say that a man's house can't be less than 700 square feet on the ground floor. A house like this will cost today over $5,000. What young couple can afford to build like that."
