MUNICIPALITIES CAN'T PROHIBIT TRAILER CAMPS

No municipality may legally prohibit the use of all its land as a trailer camp, the Ontario Appeal Court ruled yesterday.

The court allowed the appeal of Mrs. Elizabeth DeClue from conviction of operating a trailer camp in suburban Scarborough Township. A township bylaw sets up a township trailer camp and prohibits camps in all other parts of the township.

CLAIM FARM LOSS EXEMPT FROM TAXES

Counsel for the estate of the late Ray McLaughlin claimed Tuesday losses of $290,000 incurred in operating a farm at nearby Oshawa, should be exempt from income taxes levied against the estate. The case is being heard in Exchequer Court.

Mr. McLaughlin, nephew of R. S. McLaughlin, chairman of the board of directors of General Motors of Canada, Ltd., died in 1947, leaving an estate of $1,278,607.

The losses on the farm from 1944 had been submitted before his death in a claim for exemption. Wilfred Judson, counsel for the National Trust Co., trustee of the estate, maintained in his claim before Mr. Justice O'Connor, presiding over the court, that Mr. McLaughlin was a bona fide farmer who expected to make his full living from his land.

Clarence W. Vice, who was employed on the farm for some 20 years, testified that Mr. McLaughlin worked hard to make the farm a success.

"Remember The Sabbath Day"

(By Lewis Milligan)

The people of the City of Toronto are being asked to vote on the question of whether they are in favor of an open Sunday for organized sports. Certain members of the Board of Control and City Council, prompted doubtless by commercial interests, have been agitating for the proposed change, and they would even extend it to motion picture shows. Letters have from time to time been appearing in the local papers complaining about the quietness of the city on Sundays. The writers say they are lonesome, have no place to go, and don't know what to do with themselves.

If one were to suggest that they go to church, these benighted souls would complain that Sunday was the only day on which they could linger undisturbed in peaceful sleep. They have no objection to other people going to church, but they themselves have no need for religion—except for weddings and funerals. They would like to be buried decently, and the church will attend to that. In the meantime, however, they prefer to worship at the shrine of Hollywood or raise their voices in rapturous praise of Sport on the Sabbath Day. These be your gods, O Toronto! All you need to do is to revise the Fourth Commandment to read: "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it Hollywood." Having done that, the remainder, such as "Thou shalt have no other gods," and "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife," will revise themselves, for Hollywood is already setting the cultural and moral standards of millions of its adherents.

When the Sabbath Day ceases to be observed by the people as a whole, Christianity will have gone the way of all defunct religions, and with it will go our free democracy. It was not for nought that the Soviet abolished the Christian Sabbath, for that was a vital part of their anti-God plan of education and State worship. The promoters of the present open Sunday movement would be shocked if they were accused of obeying the Commandment of the Kremlin. They would assure us that they have no intention of abolishing Sabbath observance, but they can hardly claim that they are promoting it.

I am not pleading for a return to the Puritanical Sabbath; that was originally a reaction against such sports as cockfighting on Sundays which were patronized by royalty and even by some parsons, and it was associated with excessive gambling. In those times Sunday was the only day on which the common people were free to enjoy popular sports, but that is not the case today. In addition to the regular sport events of the week Saturday afternoon or Wednesday is now for most people a holiday in which there is ample time and opportunity for extra recreation and amusements. Surely we can spare one day in the weekly round of work and excitement for relaxation and quiet reflection. We need spiritual as well as physical recreation. All work and no play may make Jack a dull boy, but it is equally true that all play can make him an empty-headed and self-indulgent creature.

As I write this there comes the appeal from Princess Elizabeth to the mothers of Britain to give their children "that sound Christian teaching which is essential, but which is sadly lacking in so many homes today." The Princess continues: "As we all know, a child learns by example and therefore it is not only most important for us to see that our children say their prayers and go to church, but also to practise Christianity in our lives. We surely cannot expect our children to do what we are too lazy to do ourselves. We live in an age of growing self-indulgence, of hardening materialism and falling moral standards."

That, of course, does not apply only to the people of Britain. But

Competes Again After Long Absence

Township championships were decided at 53rd annual King and Vaughan plowing matches recently. Long absence from plowing matches had been chalked up by Sheldon Walker of Sharon, Ont., who had not entered such a contest in 15 years. He was out with 70 other entries in the championship competitions.

$20,000 REALIZED ON PRIZE HOLSTEIN

Jack Fraser's all-Canadian champion Holstein bull, Spring Farm Sovereign Supreme, was sold for $20,000 to Guillermo and Hernando Herrera Carrizosa, cattle-breeding brothers from Bogota, Colombia. It was reported at Streetsville last week where the Fraser farm is located.

The three-year-old Streetsville bull, never defeated in the ring, will be flown to Colombia after an appearance at the Royal Winter Fair next month.

Bonn, Beethoven's home town, is West Germany's new capital.

HANDS IN TRAINING...FOR ONTARIO

Learning to Work With Copper and Brass

IN Ontario the wheels of industry turn for the benefit of every single one of us. Our lathes, dynamos, drill presses, farm combines, tractors, business machines, etc. are producing goods and services which earn dollars. These dollars provide food, clothing, medical care and other necessities which contribute to our security and high standard of living. Every single one of us, therefore, has a very personal interest in the flow of a steady supply of trained workers to industrial plants. These workers will operate machines which are important to our way of life.

We should appreciate, then, the co-operative efforts of government, industry and labour in the field of employee training. In schools and in factories our workers, young and old, are given the opportunity to develop new and specific skills in every field of business and industrial activity. For instance, every effort on the part of workers to become proficient in the art of shaping and moulding copper and brass, will mean greater industrial progress—will help to make Ontario a finer place in which to live and work.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO)

Our Way of Life Rewards Trained Hands

Ontario workers know they can earn more, have executive responsibility and enjoy a higher standard of living in direct ratio to the skills they acquire and the way they make use of them. That's always true in a free economy—that's why our competitive system will continue to make Canada great and a great place in which to live.
