

It's All Over In Alberta But The Cleaning Up!

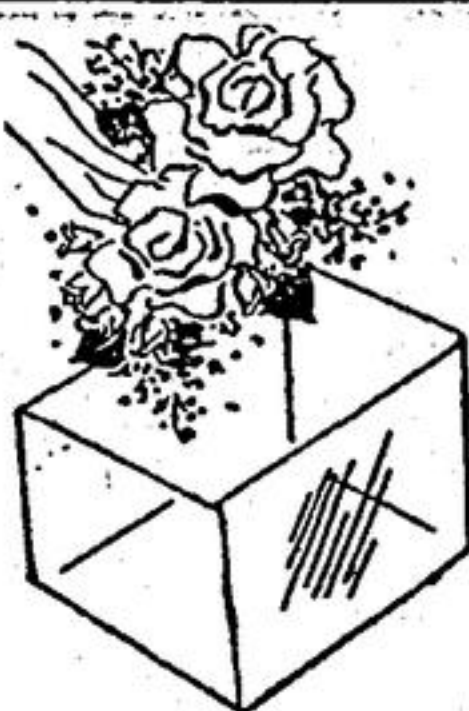

Raging 34-hour blizzard that swept across western Canada and into the U.S., deluged Lethbridge, Alta., with plenty of snow. In Manitoba, serious damage was done to power and communication lines by two sleet, snow and rain storms that sprang up within 24 hours. Seen above is car that was extricated from a snow drift, by Florence Norman, which had buried it completely, leaving only aerial showing.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

The pastor of Avenue Road Baptist Church, Toronto, told a Whitby audience that he went out and asked five acquaintances a pointed question, and the reader might be keenly interested in the exact answers received by Mr. Carlson. However, the news item from Whitby doesn't just give those pointed answers which we would like to know. Probably it will be left to Rev. Norman Rowan to collect them in this district and reveal his findings before one of those big Saturday evening crowds he assembles in town weekly.

Basing his remarks on the parable in Luke 12: 16 to 21, the Toronto pastor gave a vivid account of interviews with five people to whom he asked the question: "What would you do if you knew you had only one year to live?" He also recounted the recent newspaper story of the Oklahoma woman who had one year to live and who asked newspaper readers for suggestions on what to do in this time. The woman was deluged with so many suggestions that she had to seek seclusion from her advisers.

One person might say that he would use the year seeking personal pleasures. Examined in the light of the Scriptures, this policy would be consummately foolish. No satisfaction would be found. Another would seek to amass a fortune in the year. The desire to accumulate money is a dreadful disease, Mr. Carlson said, and it can bring no happiness or lasting benefit.

Another person would use the year in seeking wisdom, knowledge and in research for the good of mankind. Again, those things alone cannot satisfy. Still another person would spend the year making sure that he was prepared for eternity.

"Thank God it doesn't take a whole year to prepare for eternity," said Mr. Carlson. "That can be done in the twinkling of an eye—here and now." He referred to the Biblical story of his text to point out the immediate urgency of saving souls.

Finally, the Christian answer to the problem of spending one's last year is simply to spend it living and working for Christ and serving His interests in an out-and-out fashion with the thought in mind that the Bible warns that Christians are to be the "lights of the world."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white brocaded satin. Miss Elsie Wideman attended her sister in pale blue brocaded taffeta. Mr. James Brownsberger of Toronto, cousin of the groom, was best man. Bob Stokes, cousin of the groom, and John Wideman, brother of the bride, were ushers.

The young couple left amid showers of confetti for a trip through the U.S.A. The bride chose a blue figured dress and a grey coat, with navy accessories for travelling. On their return they will reside near Markham.

WIDEMAN — YAKE

A very quiet wedding took place on Saturday, Oct. 15th, in the presence of the immediate families at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Yake, when Eunice Mary Margaret, daughter Mrs. Annie Yake and the late Albert Yake, became the bride of Harvey H. Wideman of Bethesda. Rev. Aaron D. Grove was the officiating clergy. The bride wore a street length dress of white Jacquard crepe and a corsage of Biarcliff roses and ferns. After the wedding supper the couple left on a motor trip via the U.S.A. to the Atlantic coast. For travelling the bride chose a dress of Cobalt blue woolena with blue coat and black accessories. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Wideman will live at Bethesda.

BENNETT—SIDER

Dickson Hill Church was decorated with baskets of pink and white chysanthemums and ferns for the marriage of Agnes Marion Sider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sider of Stouffville, to Charles Murray Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bennett of Gormley. Rev. P. R. Barley officiated. The organist was Miss Alice Barkey and soloist was Howard Baker.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with lace yoke and fitted bodice, the full skirt forming a circular train. Tiny white ostrich tips and a net cap held her finger-tip veil. She carried a cascade of white chysanthemums and blue corn flowers with streamers of myrtle. Miss Nellie Warkentin, maid of honor for her cousin, chose pale blue moire taffeta. Her headdress was a halo of ostrich plumes to match. The bridesmaid, Margaret Bennett, sister of the groom, wore rose moire taffeta and headdress of ostrich plumes to match. They carried nosegays of pink and blue mums. The groomsmen were Mr. Lawrence Hoover of New Dundee and ushers were Kenneth Jones of Dickson Hill, cousin of the bride, and Earl Goforth of Toronto, cousin of the groom.

A dainty reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride's mother received in a wine crepe dress with grey accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother assisted wearing brown and a corsage of bronze mums.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to northern points. The bride wore a tiel blue wool gabardine suit with navy accessories. On their return they will reside at Gormley.

Sunday School Bus

The school bus seems to be here to stay, and now it is well established, next we introduce the Sunday School bus. Up Kitchener way the Baptist church has such a bus in operation going out to the country and rounding up 30 scholars for Sunday School service. If it would provide a means of inducing every boy and girl to attend Sunday School, the expense would seem small in comparison to the possible good that would be gained by the boy and girl in this day when so many ignore the opportunity for Christian instruction.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! Vacuum cleaners have come a long way from their original job of straight carpet cleaning. So, if you are shopping for a new one, you will find them equipped with tools to shoulder the major portion of your cleaning tasks. The attachments run all the way from upholstery and floor brushes to spraying tools for paint, insecticide and moth-proofing.

However, the first requirement of your electric cleaner is effective rug cleaning. Tests show that more than 85 per cent of all dirt in a room gets into the carpet.

Cleaners can be classified three ways according to their construction: (1) straight suction cleaners, which have no moving parts on the nozzle opening, are available in upright or tank-type models; (2) motor-driven brush cleaners have a rotating brush within the nozzle; and (3) motor-driven agitator cleaners have a rotating cylinder equipped with bristles and two glass-smooth vibrator bars. These rotating brushes are electrically driven by means of a rubber belt even when the cleaner is in a stationary position.

Take a Tip

1. The weight of a vacuum cleaner is not a test of its efficiency, and you will be happier with one that can be easily carried from room to room whether it's upright or tank-type.

2. Inquire about the motor guarantee before you buy. Most reliable cleaners have a year's guarantee.

3. In upright cleaners the nozzle must be adjusted to the thickness of the rug to clean effectively. Some models adjust automatically and others have a foot pedal for this purpose.

4. The efficiency of any cleaner, whether tank or upright, depends upon the condition of the bag or filter. Check to see that they can be easily removed and cleaned and what provision is made for replacing filters.

5. Attachments, especially with the tank type, should be light and easy to connect. There should be a convenient carrier for storing tools.

6. It's important to have 3 easily-adjusted handle positions in the upright cleaners—upright for storing, operating position, and a low position for cleaning under furniture.

Operation of Cleaner

Just a few simple cleaning practices will net best results from your investment:

1. Clean often. Daily cleaning will prevent a great deal of surface dirt from becoming embedded in the rugs and the corners.

2. Clean slowly. Allow at least ten minutes for a 9 x 12 rug. Your cleaner cannot do an effective job at high speed right across the surface.

3. Make use of attachments. Tools represent wasted money if they are tucked away in the back of the closet. These gadgets do an easier and more effective job for many cleaning problems.

4. Keep the cleaner in working order. Empty the bag often—after each use. Comb the brushes. Read the instructions carefully and keep booklets and guarantee handy. Follow the manufacturer's directions to oil. Do not wind the cord too tightly on the guards. Never run over the cord or yank it from the wall plug.

Mrs. C. R. asks: How do you fumigate upholstered furniture?

Answer: Clean the furniture thoroughly with cleaning gadget especially along the seams. Place 1 pound of moth crystals in the moth control device and attach to the cleaner at bag outlet. Disconnect the belt on the motor brushes, if there is a belt. Turn the switch on. Cover both the cleaner and furniture with heavy paper and a heavy blanket on top. Hold the lower edges of blanket to floor with books. Connect the cord at electric outlet and let cleaner operate for at least two hours. At the end of this period disconnect the cord but leave furniture and cleaner undisturbed for at least 3 days.

PIE-FACE EDITOR?

Editor of The Scarboro Mail may be working up a racket in free apple pies. He maintains after two visits to Richmond Hill that the ladies in Jack Smith's billowack make the best pies obtainable. Exception to his claim has been registered by one or two other communities, but the editor of the Mail points out that since they sent him no samples of their baking capabilities, they are not to be considered.

Now, will the pies come in until the Scarboro Mail looks like a pie-face? We'll be watching results.
