Fast Growth Cuts Feed Costs . . . Feed for Fast Growth!

leeway above expenses.

Here is something worth thinking about: Your hogs are still growing when marketed. Most hogs are sold at around 210 lbs. - fully grown hogs weigh 400 or more! That points up the importance of feeding a good growing ration right through. They don't need as high a percentage of muscle and bone-building materials toward the end but they're still growing.

Grain alone, or grain plus a "smitch" of supplement, or a poorly balanced supplement, doesn't provide the extra proteins and minerals, and the protein and mineral balance, necessary for fast steady growth.

And it's fast steady growth that takes your hogs to market at a profit. Setbacks and slowdowns mean more time and more feed consumed . . . less
