MARKHAM MINK DEAL HAS ITS TROUBLES

Mr. Eli Shank, well-known Markham mink owner, and rural mail carrier at Unionville, came up with an odd experience recently during the process of a mink transaction with Mr. Art Brown of Unionville, also a mink fancier.

A deal was struck between Messrs. Shank and Brown for the delivery of one of Mr. Shank's blond minks to the Unionville breeder, who agreed to have the animal picked up by a friend in his car. The transaction was completed, except that when Mr. Brown received the mink cage, it was empty, and the deliverer could shed no light on the valuable animal's disappearance.

A call was placed with Mr. Shank who stated that he had placed the mink in the cage, and it was a plain open-face cage, with no secret compartments or trapdoors. However, another deal was agreed on and this time the transaction went through without a hitch, up to a point. As the cage with the second mink was being taken from the car, the cage door mysteriously opened and the animal escaped, scampering across the snowy field and disappearing.

By this time, Mr. Shank had received payment for two mink, but Mr. Brown had no little blonde animals to show.

The happy ending to the tale goes thus: on the day that mink number one was picked up, the deliverer had also picked up a bag of chicken feed. This he had left in the car overnight. In the morning when his chickens came clamoring for their cereal, Mr. Brown went to the car to get it. First he heard a faint squeak then he noticed a pair of beady eyes peering around the bag from the corner of the back seat. That's right—it was the missing mink. Mink number two was captured by neighboring farmer in his cellar, and identified by Mr. Shank.

Mrs. Crossen, Mrs. Woodcock, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Morrison served lunch.

Unless the skunk has read the weather forecasts wrongly, spring is just around the corner, because the little striped fellow is out of hibernation up Walkerton way, where the local paper reports one or two incidents where farmers came across skunks that had come out of the long winter sleep. Wm. Malloy reports coming across one on Market street two weeks ago.

On the eve of the annual Red Cross Appeal for funds (this year $5,000,000) Hon. Leopold MacCaulay, chairman has declared that February 26 has been set aside as Red Cross Sunday and February 25th as Red Cross Sabbath, the latter for the Jewish people and of course Sunday is to be remembrance day in churches throughout Ontario. The mention of the Red Cross from churches, the Minister says, "is traditional practice among all clergymen of all faiths emphasizing the spiritual ideal and wide humanitarianism of the Red Cross."

Stouffville was incorporated in 1877. It has had 19 reeves in that time.

The Tribune is indebted to Mr. Peter Byer of Winnipeg through his family connections on the 8th concession of Markham, for a weather report from the gateway city, which indicates more than a really stiff January out there. Not in the whole 31 days did the thermometer get above zero. In fact the month came in with a temperature of 8 below and on January 30 and 31 it was 40 and 30 below respectively. The mildest day in January was the 21st when the temperature stood at 7 below. Mr. Byer is a brother of our Mr. Jess Byer who is still a bed patient at his home on the 8th, and does not improve over the months, we regret to report. Peter J. Byer, of course, is interested in his native district in Markham and enjoys receiving The Tribune despite his long absence from the place where he first saw the light of day.

Well, folks, the weather man gave us the surprise of the winter last weekend when high cold winds prevailed over Saturday night and wound up Monday morning with the thermometer registering 20 below zero, and ten below when the bright sun got up, and the wind dropped. Garage trucks were more than busy Monday hauling trucks and cars about trying to get them to run on their own power again. Farmers reported water systems in stables freezing, all of which reminds one of the average winter, so different to what we have had to face this present season. With the month of March just a few days away, the customary comment on Monday was, "oh well, the cold can't last long now, it's nearly spring." The snow storm that preceded the drop in temperatures over the weekend blocked up the front street, but was quickly removed by power shovel and trucks before it froze into solid ice as it surely would have. When the snow came down it was accompanied by spasms of rain, and was just right to form ice over night. Had the slushy snow been left to freeze, the streets would have been in bad condition for perhaps a long time with solid ice lining the parking areas.

NEW DENTAL OFFICE FOR MARKHAM

The Robert Fleming property on Main street, Markham, is being remodelled and will contain modern dental offices for Mr. Fleming's son Bill who is expected to establish a practice in Markham and district shortly. The business place will be finished with modern per-

Don't Blame the Editor—Frequently the editor is taken to task by some long-standing friend because his or her paper has stopped when it was not promptly renewed. This is unfair to the publisher because it is not known to him when subscriptions expire, and are discontinued when not renewed. This is understandable when it is realized that one person cannot keep track of three thousand names on a mailing list, consequently this is no small task and is delegated to others. Best thing to do when your subscription approaches the expiry time, is to drop a couple of dollars in the mail and have the little matter attended to promptly.

The February meeting of the Garrett Evening Auxiliary was held at the home of Miss Gertrude Todd, on Wednesday evening, the president, Mrs. J. M. Storey, presiding. The meeting opened with singing, followed by prayer offered by Mrs. H. Lee. Rev. D. Dvis conducted the worship service, using as his topic the thought contained in Psalms 119 1 and 9 and verse 51 of Psalm 119, namely, "Cheerful Christians". Two pleasing piano duets were given by Misses Joy Wood and Marie Schell. Mrs. Reg. Button reviewed the last chapter of the Study Book, "Growing with the Years". Mrs. F. Fairless and Mrs. A. Wood, the two delegates to the Toronto East Presbyterial Annual Convention held in Glenmount United Church, gave splendid reports.

Newton Hill Reached 79th Birthday
East end resident of Stouffville, Mr. Newton Hill reached his 79th birthday on February 15, and is living in his new house on Tenth street which he recently built just north of Main street. Veteran stone mason and brick layer, many foundations and chimneys are doing service in this district that are a monument to his handicraft. He built numerous cobble stone verandas too, and one of the last of these was constructed in Uxbridge town after Mr. Hill had considered himself on the retired list. Newton Hill first located in Stouffville over 30 years ago, occupying a house on east side of the school building just south of Nels. Byer's residence. Later he moved to the extreme east end of Main street where he remained until after his wife died. Then he built his present compact house on Tenth street. The town and district is the poorer for such men as Newton Hill having to give up their trade because of advancing years, when few of the rising generation are following in his footsteps, largely because the nature of the work Mr. Hill did was hard and exacting with little to offer but still more hard work.
