That old-fashioned turkey? supper held last week in the Stouffville United Church as part of the festivities marking the opening of the new church wing, was enjoyed by nearly seven hundred hungry participants. Snapped by The Tribune photographer are just a few of more than two hundred and fifty who enjoyed each In the centre foreground can be seen Archie Fleming, Markham Township assessor, completely engrossed in the job at hand—a little farther down the table, Arthur Dowswell is eyeing a platter of turkey with contemplation. H. W. Moyer is in view at the doorway in the background, keeping traffic moving, while other well-known local personages can also be seen, making the most of a great opportunity.

A "behind the scenes" shot is taken by Tribune photographer Ted Cadieux, who slipped into the kitchen to catch this one. Scenes like this were common, as bushels of turnips, potatoes, and other eatables were prepared for the "great feast." To the right, the minister of the church, Rev. Douglas Davis can be seen sampling some of the preparations. Other hard-working ladies surrounding the table, beginning with Mrs. Gorman Dixon in the immediate foreground, are, Mrs. Ray Fleury, Miss Bertha Winn, Miss Anne Lehman, Mrs. Floyd Fairles, Mrs. Garfield Kellington, and Mrs. Albert King.
