Local Health Unit Completing Second Year of Operation

The York County Health Unit is now approaching the completion of its second year of service to the eleven municipalities forming the Health Unit. The first eighteen months have had their ups and downs which may be considered normal during this establishment phase. It is felt that community leaders such as mayors, Reeves, councillors, school teachers, municipal officials, physicians, dentists, and other persons frequently coming in contact with the Health Unit activities, as well as the general public, have acquired an understanding and appreciation of Health Unit services that will make these services during the coming months even more valuable to the community as a whole.

The interim financial report received from the auditors regarding finances for the past year, 1951, has been most encouraging and inspiring to the Director and to the Board in showing that, while rising costs have hampered and threatened this new venture, it has been possible to keep on an even keel and to set a course for the following year without a worrisome burden of liabilities to interfere with normal developments of the Public Health program.

Interest has been apparent from certain other communities in the northern part of York County which are not included in the Health Unit area at the present time. It is hoped that the three municipalities of King, Whitchurch, and East Gwillimbury may enjoy the benefits of a full-time preventive health program in the near future, but this will depend upon the desire of the peoples in those municipalities for this valuable type of preventive program.

Up to the present, seven Child Health Centres have been put into operation and are serving the areas surrounding these centres in Markham, Unionville, Sutton, Thornhill, Keswick, Newmarket and Woodbridge. A total of nine Child Health Centres are in operation on a regular monthly basis since the opening of new Centres in Aurora on February 21, and in Richmond Hill on March 3. If the recent attendance at the previously-opened clinics indicates a trend, then the Child Health Centres will be extremely busy and will demonstrate the prediction that this type of service has been in great demand, and should make a valuable contribution to the health of the younger children in the Health Unit area.

Each of these new Child Health Centres is being sponsored by a local women's organization and in every case, the enthusiasm of the women volunteers for this new activity has been overwhelmingly encouraging and guarantees the success of this new venture. The sponsoring organizations are to be highly commended for their efforts in making possible this additional assistance to mothers with infants and preschool children in their communities.

Child Health Centres provide guidance and assistance to mothers in keeping their well children healthy from infancy to school age. The Public Health Nurse provides a form of regular health supervision with weighing and measuring, advice about good nutrition, and the many principals of good care for normal children. From time to time, immunization will be available at the Child Health Centres. The whole program will be designed to assist the community to make better use of all community facilities for prevention of disease and will help promote a close relationship be-
