fat. All her records were made in the 305 day division and seven of them were on twice-a-day milking.

Tag Day for Blind Here on May 3rd

Back to Work
Time was when employment possibilities for the blind were limited to a very few indeed, but nowadays the blind take their place in a wide variety of occupations.

Anne Gray, a recent graduate of The Ontario School for the Blind, who, with the help of C.N.I.B. Music Consultant, was successful in obtaining a position as organist and choir leader in a busy Ontario church. In her chosen profession she will use Braille music from the C.N.I.B. Music Library, and will transcribe her Braille notes on special paper and instruments also made available through C.N.I.B. These services are mere rungs in the ladder; the means by which blind people achieve their ends.

Then there was the young stenographer, who suddenly lost her sight, and with it, all hope of ever working again. C.N.I.B. gave her special lessons, taught her to do her typing by touch and today she is busily employed in the stenographic pool at C.N.I.B. Head Office. The dictaphone is a substitute for shorthand, and the new blind steno is busy and happy.

Another interesting person is a man setting up machines in a large factory, who lost his sight through glaucoma. Still needed for his special job, his firm approached C.N.I.B. Employment. Blind placement officers gave him lessons in working by touch, and taught him how to go around without sight. They built guards around the machines and special devices for use by touch. Today he is over 70 but still on the job. Any number of blind Canadians are successful today because of C.N.I.B. constructive service.

The Tag Day in Stouffville is under the sponsorship of the Stouffville Women's Institute with Mrs. H. Shuttleworth as Convener, and will be held May 3rd.

Lady Teachers' In-Service Study Group

On Thursday evening, April 24, the Markham and Stouffville Lady Teachers' In-service Study Group were hosts to the parents, at a meeting held in Stouffville Public School.

To open the meeting Mr. C. Watson, principal of Stouffville Public School showed an interesting film, "Social Development of the Child." All then retired to the newly decorated classroom upstairs where Miss Hosie, as chairman of the group, welcomed the parents and friends, and briefly explained the purpose of the forming of the study group.

Mrs. Fleury, in her entertaining manner, gave an appropriate reading. Miss Eva Walker, teacher in one of Toronto's Special Health classes, and treasurer of FWTAO, was introduced to the audience, and gave an interesting and sincere talk on matters pertaining to the child and of interest to both teachers and parents. She spoke of the grave concern of the teachers and others concerning the impact of present day literature, movies, etc., on the child's mind, and his power to concentrate and to think for himself. Miss Walker has had a vast experience as teacher, traveler and social worker and by her quiet, sincere talk left all with much to think about. Those who failed to make use of this opportunity to hear Miss Walker missed something really worthwhile.

Mrs. Paschler of Mount Joy School thanked Miss Walker for taking the time to come to Stouffville with her splendid address.

A light lunch was served in the Home Ec room, and a social meeting of parents and teachers was much enjoyed. Expression was heard on all sides of the hope that more such meetings would be planned.

Complete Survey Of Markham Sanitation, Urge Sewers

A low incidence of reported communicable diseases, increasing problems in sanitation, and the making of plans for extension of services in the coming year have highlighted activities of the York County Health Unit during last month.

With melting snow and spring rains, formerly dormant problems in waste and sewage disposal are appearing throughout both the rural and built-up communities in the Health Unit. Because of extensive building on small sized lots, the solving of private sewage disposal problems is exceedingly difficult. Where new building is now being carried out, problems are becoming less frequent as more builders and home owners take advantage of the available assistance and advice from the Health Unit before installing private sewage disposal systems.

A detailed report of a sanitary survey of the Village of Markham was presented to the Markham Village Council. This survey was made jointly by the staff of the York County Health Unit and the Provincial Department of Health in the summer of 1951. It involved an investigation of all premises, private or commercial, in Markham Village with respect to water supply and waste disposal, including sanitary waste and garbage. Also included in the report is a large scale map showing the location of each well, privy, septic tank, and cess-pool in the Village. The Health Unit endorsed the recommendations made by the Provincial Department of Health and based on this survey urging Markham Village to take steps as soon as possible to obtain engineering plans for a sewage disposal system with provision for installation of sewers in that part of the Village most urgently requiring sewers, to provide for connection of all remaining premises to the Village water system, and to arrange for garbage collection services for the entire Village.

Food Sanitation

Continuing stringent administration of food handling regulations for restaurants and lunch counters is under way. It is felt that more than ample time has been allowed the operators of food handling establishments to meet the minimum requirements for equipment and operating techniques. Plans are also under way for chest x-rays for all food handlers employed in restaurants, lunch-counters, and dairies.

Child Health Centres

The continuing good attendance at the various local child health centres is shown by an average attendance of 20 infants and preschool children at the child health centres held during March. Immunization is presently provided to approximately half of the child health centres this spring, and will be offered in the remaining centres in the coming fall.

Communicable Diseases

A notable low incidence of reported cases of communicable diseases is shown for March. Most of these have been chicken-pox and mumps with a scattered few of scarlet fever. It is realized that possibly many more cases of communicable diseases are occurring but for various reasons are not being reported to the Health Unit, however, more and more parents, teachers and physicians are appreciating the value to the community in keeping the Health Unit posted as to what contagious diseases are occurring, where and when.
