Stouffville saw no less than five wedding parties here Saturday, but again life and limb were in danger as the celebrants raced through town and heavy traffic, at high speed. The wild driving which frequents most of these wedding parties has been drawn to the attention of this newspaper on endless occasions and we agree that the practice is a menace. Certainly most stringent policing should be on hand particularly in the busy business section on these Saturday afternoons.

Someone apparently has decided to set up his own garage business according to the number of break-ins and robberies around the district during the last month. On Friday night or early Saturday morning thieves gained entry into Campbell Motors and Neil's Machine Shop, located on the Main Street in Markham. At the garage the robbers made off with nine tires, a tool kit valued at $125.00, an electric drill and one spray gun. The thieves searched the entire interior of the machine shop but the only piece of equipment that caught their fancy was a brace-and-bit. One of the robbers picked up a new electric motor but left it outside the building. Constable Clarence Wideman of the Markham Twp. Police Force believes that the unwanted callers were using a new model car or light panel truck but so far no other clues have been picked up. Constable Wideman claims that the same persons are responsible for the current break-ins as gained entry to Conlin Motors in Markham some two weeks ago and Les Wilson Motors in Stouffville last month.

Lloyd Freal, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. B. Freal, passed his University of Toronto examinations with honours and received his B.A. degree last week.

Markham Teachers' Banquet

Dr. Frederick Minkler, Inspector of North York Elementary Schools, gave a very thought-provoking address on the revised program of study. Mrs. Thompson completed a four and a half year term as president of the Synodical Society of Toronto and Kingston in April.

Although the village of Stouffville escaped the brunt of the severe electrical storm on Sunday night other nearby centres were hit heavily. Three miles south of town a regular cloudburst developed bringing Sunday night traffic on the highways to an abrupt halt. During the deluge many homes were thrown into darkness when the strong wind wreaked havoc with hydro lines. Although there was some hail mixed with the heavy rain it did no damage to any great extent.

ACCOMMODATION TAXED TO LIMIT AT HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

The Monday evening open meeting of the local Horticultural Society was so well attended that the basement of the United Church was inadequate to accommodate the hundreds who were present. The Flower Show was of exceptional quality, the solos by Mr. Colin Bray were greatly enjoyed and the colored movies presented by Mr. Glenn Ratcliff in the auditorium of the church, were excellent, educative and greatly appreciated.
