Decorations were in evidence everywhere during the weekend celebration and several merchants added to the occasion with special window displays. A. E. Weldon & Son drew no end of viewers to their window which contained a great number of photos taken in Stouffville during the past seventy-five years. One of these pictures which drew particular interest was a view of Main St. looking east from Church St. a half century ago. Other groups, firemen, school board, baseball teams, lacrosse teams and celebrations of past years portrayed many of the familiar faces of those who were prominent figures here in days gone by. R. E. Curtis' window contained the photos of all the past reeves of Stouffville centred by the large charcoal photo of the present reeve Henry Ogden. On Saturday night, an air of celebration was added by a number of residents in old time costume who paraded the street calling on the various business places. The one group was led by Reeve Timbers of Markham Twp. in tall silk hat accompanied by Mrs. Timbers, Mrs. S.W. Hastings, Miss Anne Lehman and Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Klinck. The ladies of the group were dressed in stylish gay ninety attire while H.O. got many a laugh in his white nightgown, night cap and candle. Mrs. Roy Dickson of Toronto and sister-in-law of Miss Bessie Dickson, eastend, well-known Stouffville family of long-standing, was a lone wolf in her old time outfit and clay pipe and had everyone guessing most of the evening as to her identity. On Monday she was accompanied by Mrs. W. Hopkins in an equally striking outfit. Lehman's Store had a fine display of old fashioned hand made shoes and Mrs. M. E. Watts' store windows at the west end displayed fancy dresses and millinery of seventy-five years ago.

Mr. Lorne Carson sang "O Perfect Love" and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Kenneth Carson, the bride wore a gown of white French lace over taffeta with fitted bodice, portait neckline and full skirt extending into a train.
