The highlight of the day was the guest speaker, Mrs. Floyd Honey, recently returned from West China. She spoke of her impressions and experiences of the last two years in China under Communist regime. In the old society a few landlords owned the land and were the idle rich with the peasants living in dire poverty and working the land. Social evils wherever found breed communism. The communists set up land reform, re-dividing the land and giving it to the peasants who work it. The Chinese communists have accomplished miracles (this may be true) but at what a price.
