By George Abell of Stouffville
Have you heard the great news about what has been arranged for us lucky people at the time of the Coronation?
As the song used to say "It's wonderful and it's marvellous." In order for you to appreciate what a noble gesture has been made I should like to describe the great moment the news was first given out to the eager populace.
Just imagine the scene that stormy evening a week ago. In the front room (also sitting, dining and anything else you want room) of the moated old ancestral mansion, Squire and Lady Abell (pronounced Chumley) were huddled over the glowing coal in the fireplace and daintily sipping coffee out of pint mugs. From the huff and gleaming radio set (ten dollars second hand two years ago) the soft and cultural voice of the B.B.C. announcer reading the 9 p.m. news was floating out to complete the enjoyment of the evening.
Each news item seemed more interesting and stimulating than the one before. Milk was to go up a penny a pint. The Americans were mad at us and we were mad at the Persians. Coal was in short supply and fares were to go up on the buses and trains. What happiness! What cozy, blissful contentment! Ah, what a happy evening and so typical of the landed gentry in this second Elizabethan age.

Then at the end of the news came the announcement we had been waiting for. As the government realized that most people would wish to do some entertaining at Coronation time a very big step had been decided upon to ensure that there would be plenty of food to entertain with. So in a mad moment of reckless abandon caution was thrown to the winds and the heads of the Food Ministry in consultation with members of Her Majesty's government had decreed that every resident over the age of five shall be permitted to purchase an extra pound of sugar and a quarter pound of margarine in Coronation week. Oh how I wish you could have been here to see the tears of joy and thankfulness trickle down our cheeks at this generous and so typical gesture by those who rule our destinies. If any civil servant from the Ministry of Food had walked in the door at that moment it's hard to say what we would have done to him in expressing our feelings over the matter.
What gluttons the British will be in June. While the visitors are being made to eat such muck as roast duck and lobsters the people will be stuffing themselves and each other with that good margarine and sugar.
Here's the tip if you are coming over. Never mind the champagne suppers at the Ritz. Go to Shore-ditch or Wapping or any of the quaint old boroughs in and around the Big Smoke. Knock on any cottage door, easy mind you, it takes time putting those old doors back up. When the people come to see who you are tell them and where you came from. They'll have you in and helping to dispose of that margarine windfall before you can say "No thanks I'm just looking." But don't worry if you should not care for the food, there's sure to be something to wash it down with that will make up.

Think what it would do to some golf scores if all players told the truth, the hole truth and nothing but the truth.
The average person is said to be sick only eight days each year. Just before the income tax deadline, and when else?
