A very heated debate took place in the House of Commons when the Government introduced a Bill under the sponsorship of the Minister of Trade and Commerce, known as Bill No. 3, which is an Act respecting the construction, operation and maintenance of International River improvements. This Bill has been brought before the House by the Government because the Province of British Columbia entered into an agreement with the Kaiser Corporation of the United States to allow them to build a dam on the Columbia River, on the Canadian side, for the purpose of creating power for use in the United States.

States. Under this Bill, when it passes Parliament, it will be necessary for any Province entering into negotiations with the United States and other countries with respect to rivers flowing out of Canada, to apply to the Federal Government for a licence.

The Social Credit Members of the House insisted that it was a matter for the Province to decide and that by this Act the Federal Government were stifling the Provinces. The result of this debate will be that the Bill will be passed and will become law. Since it is retroactive it will affect the transaction which has been going on regarding the Columbia River.

The Honourable Louis St. Laurent, Prime Minister of Canada, returned from his meeting with other Prime Ministers of the Commonwealth, which was held in England a short time ago. He made his report on what had been discussed at this meeting but did not reveal anything in any way startling.

The Canadian National Railways, which is a Canadian Government utility, have built a new hotel in the City of Montreal and named it the Queen Elizabeth Hotel. In this instance they have entered into an agreement with the Hilton Hotel Corporation, and have turned over the management of this hotel to them. This has brought about severe criticism from Members of the Opposition and when one Member requested that all communications and letters in respect to this transaction be tabled, the Government refused. The matter was brought to a vote and they were upheld so that any information regarding this transaction will not become common knowledge.

Quite recently the Soviet Government has invited other countries to exchange legislators for the purpose of personal appearance and even speeches in each other's Parliaments. According to their explanation, the purpose is that this would lessen world tension. It is regarded in parliamentary and official quarters that this is a possible sign that the new Kremlin regime may prove more conciliatory than had originally been expected. There are indications that the Canadian Parliament may prove receptive to the proposal. The Prime Minister assured the House of Commons that the plan would be given careful consideration if it should be advanced by the Russian authorities in some more formal manner.

sponsored by the Government to go into Supply, which means that certain Estimates are introduced for the scrutiny of the Select committee which has been set up for this purpose. This gives the Opposition an opportunity to introduce an amendment on any subject which they may have in mind. In this case the Conservatives introduced an amendment stating that in their opinion the Department of Immigration has not been functioning as it should and that its policy needs overhauling. This brought on a debate from all sides of the House, in which Members brought specific cases to the attention of the Minister. He was urged to inaugurate a planned, vigorous policy of selective immigration to bring in more people, which is in keeping with the best interests of all sections of our country and of our people. It was pointed out that the immigration policy of the Government is not clear, consistent or co-ordinated and is not in conformity with the needs and responsibilities of Canada and in its administration denies simple justice to Canadians and non-Canadians alike. This amendment was, of course, defeated but it is to be hoped that the many things which were brought to the attention of the Government will be heeded and rectified.
