DUTCH PAINTINGS

DUTCH TOUCH—Toledo's Museum of Art wanted to call attention to its exhibit of 17th century Dutch masterpieces, so it added a calling card in the persons of 12 wooden shoe dancers from Holland, Mich., and a 27-foot windmill.

PETS AND PALS—Strange birds of a feather, one might say, are this canary and her buddy, Minet, the cat. Minet is supposed to eat birds, but instead she is the top kick in charge of an army of canaries, doves and parrots in a Paris pet shop. There is also an assortment of fish.

NORTH OF THE BORDER—Three Mexican "mariachis" and a pretty singer bring their south-of-the-border influence to a Tucson, Ariz., guest ranch during winter tourist season.

WHAT WAS LINCOLN REALLY LIKE?

San Francisco—Lincoln holds lapel in pose reminiscent of Napoleon.

EVEN NOW, nearly 90 years after his death, Abraham Lincoln is still a puzzle to sculptors seeking to carve his many-sided personality into one all-embracing statue. Lincoln's character was so complex that new research constantly unearths new facts about him. Aside from religious figures, more probably has been written about him than any other person and, yet, no sculptor will probably ever produce the Lincoln statue. Here are some excellent, though different, ones.

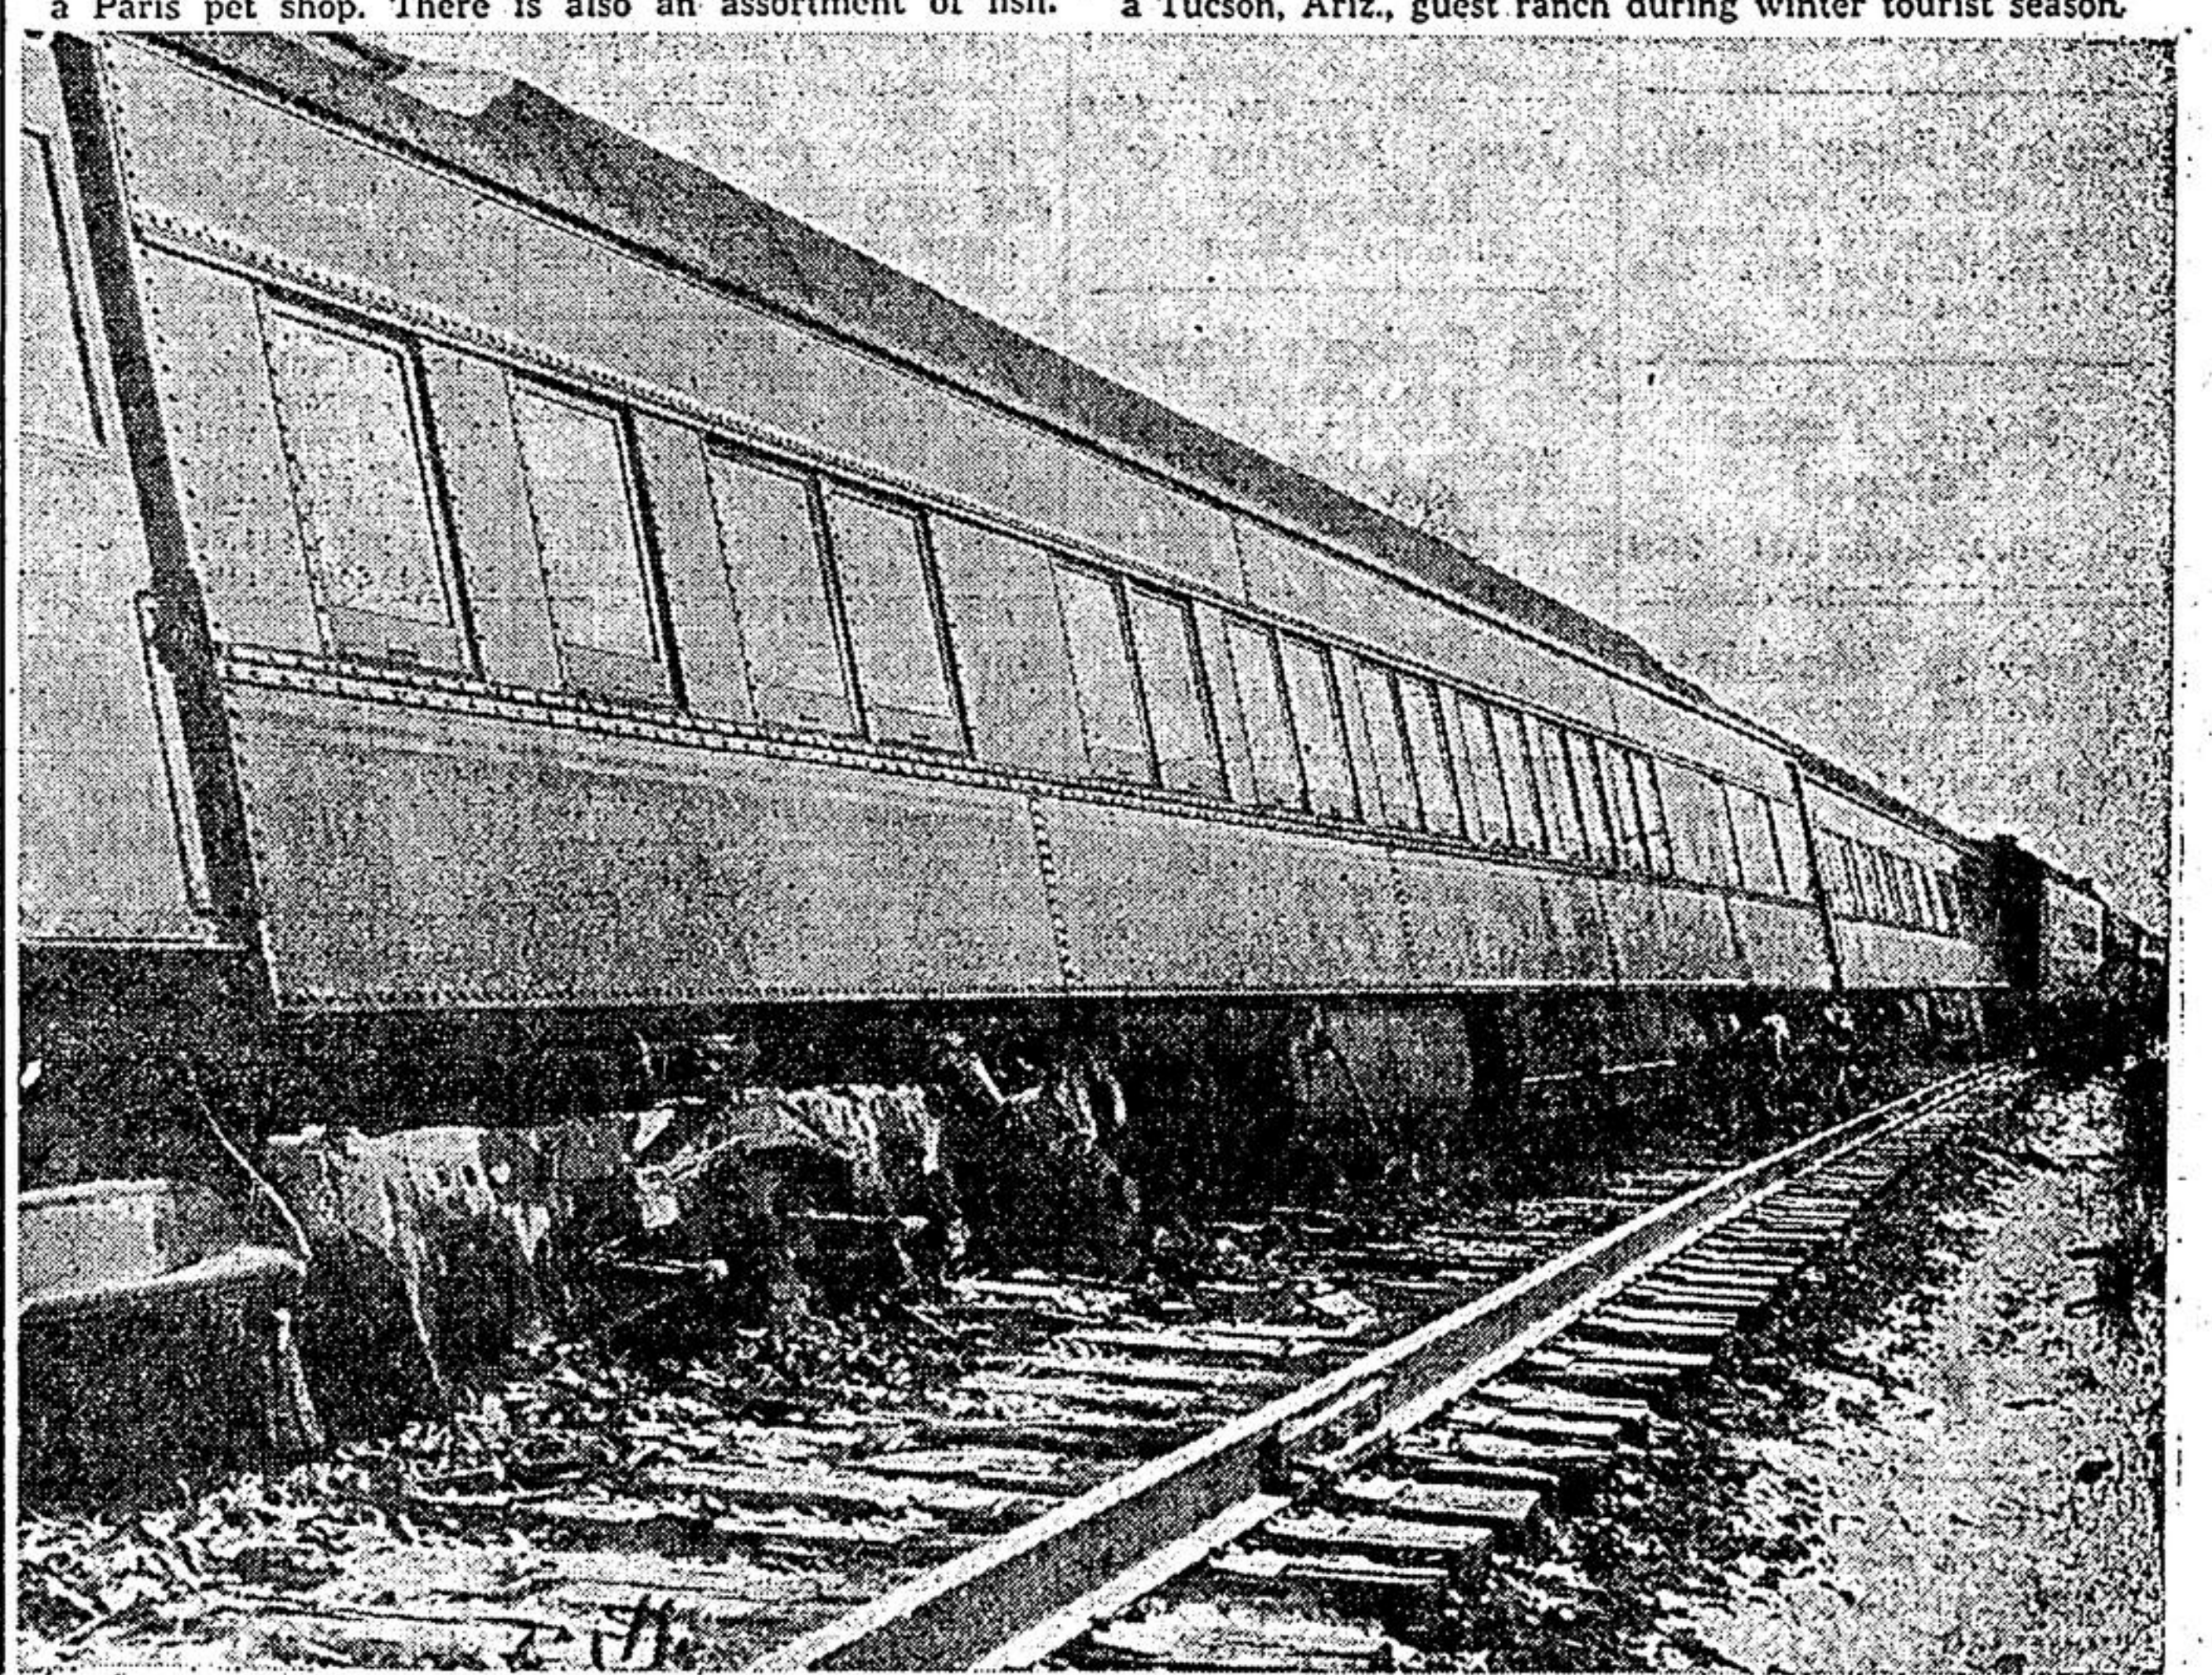

Washington—Great Emancipator frees slave.

Washington—Famous Lincoln shrine attracts millions.

Newark—Philosophic Lincoln meditates on park bench.

OFF THE BEATEN TRACKS—Five cars of the Pennsylvania railroad's Gotham Limited remain upright after jumping tracks in Leetonia, O. Thirty-eight passengers in derailed cars escaped injury. A structural failure on the front wheels of a baggage car caused derailment. Undercarriage was severed from car and plowed up 800 feet of track.

TRAITOR—Lovely Linda Leader couldn't stand the cold weather in her hometown of Findlay, O., so she deserted to Sarasota, Fla.

NO PARENTS, NO HOME—These happy young orphans seem unaware of peril they have escaped from as they arrive in Taipei, Formosa, after leaving Tachen islands.
