

News of the World in Pictures

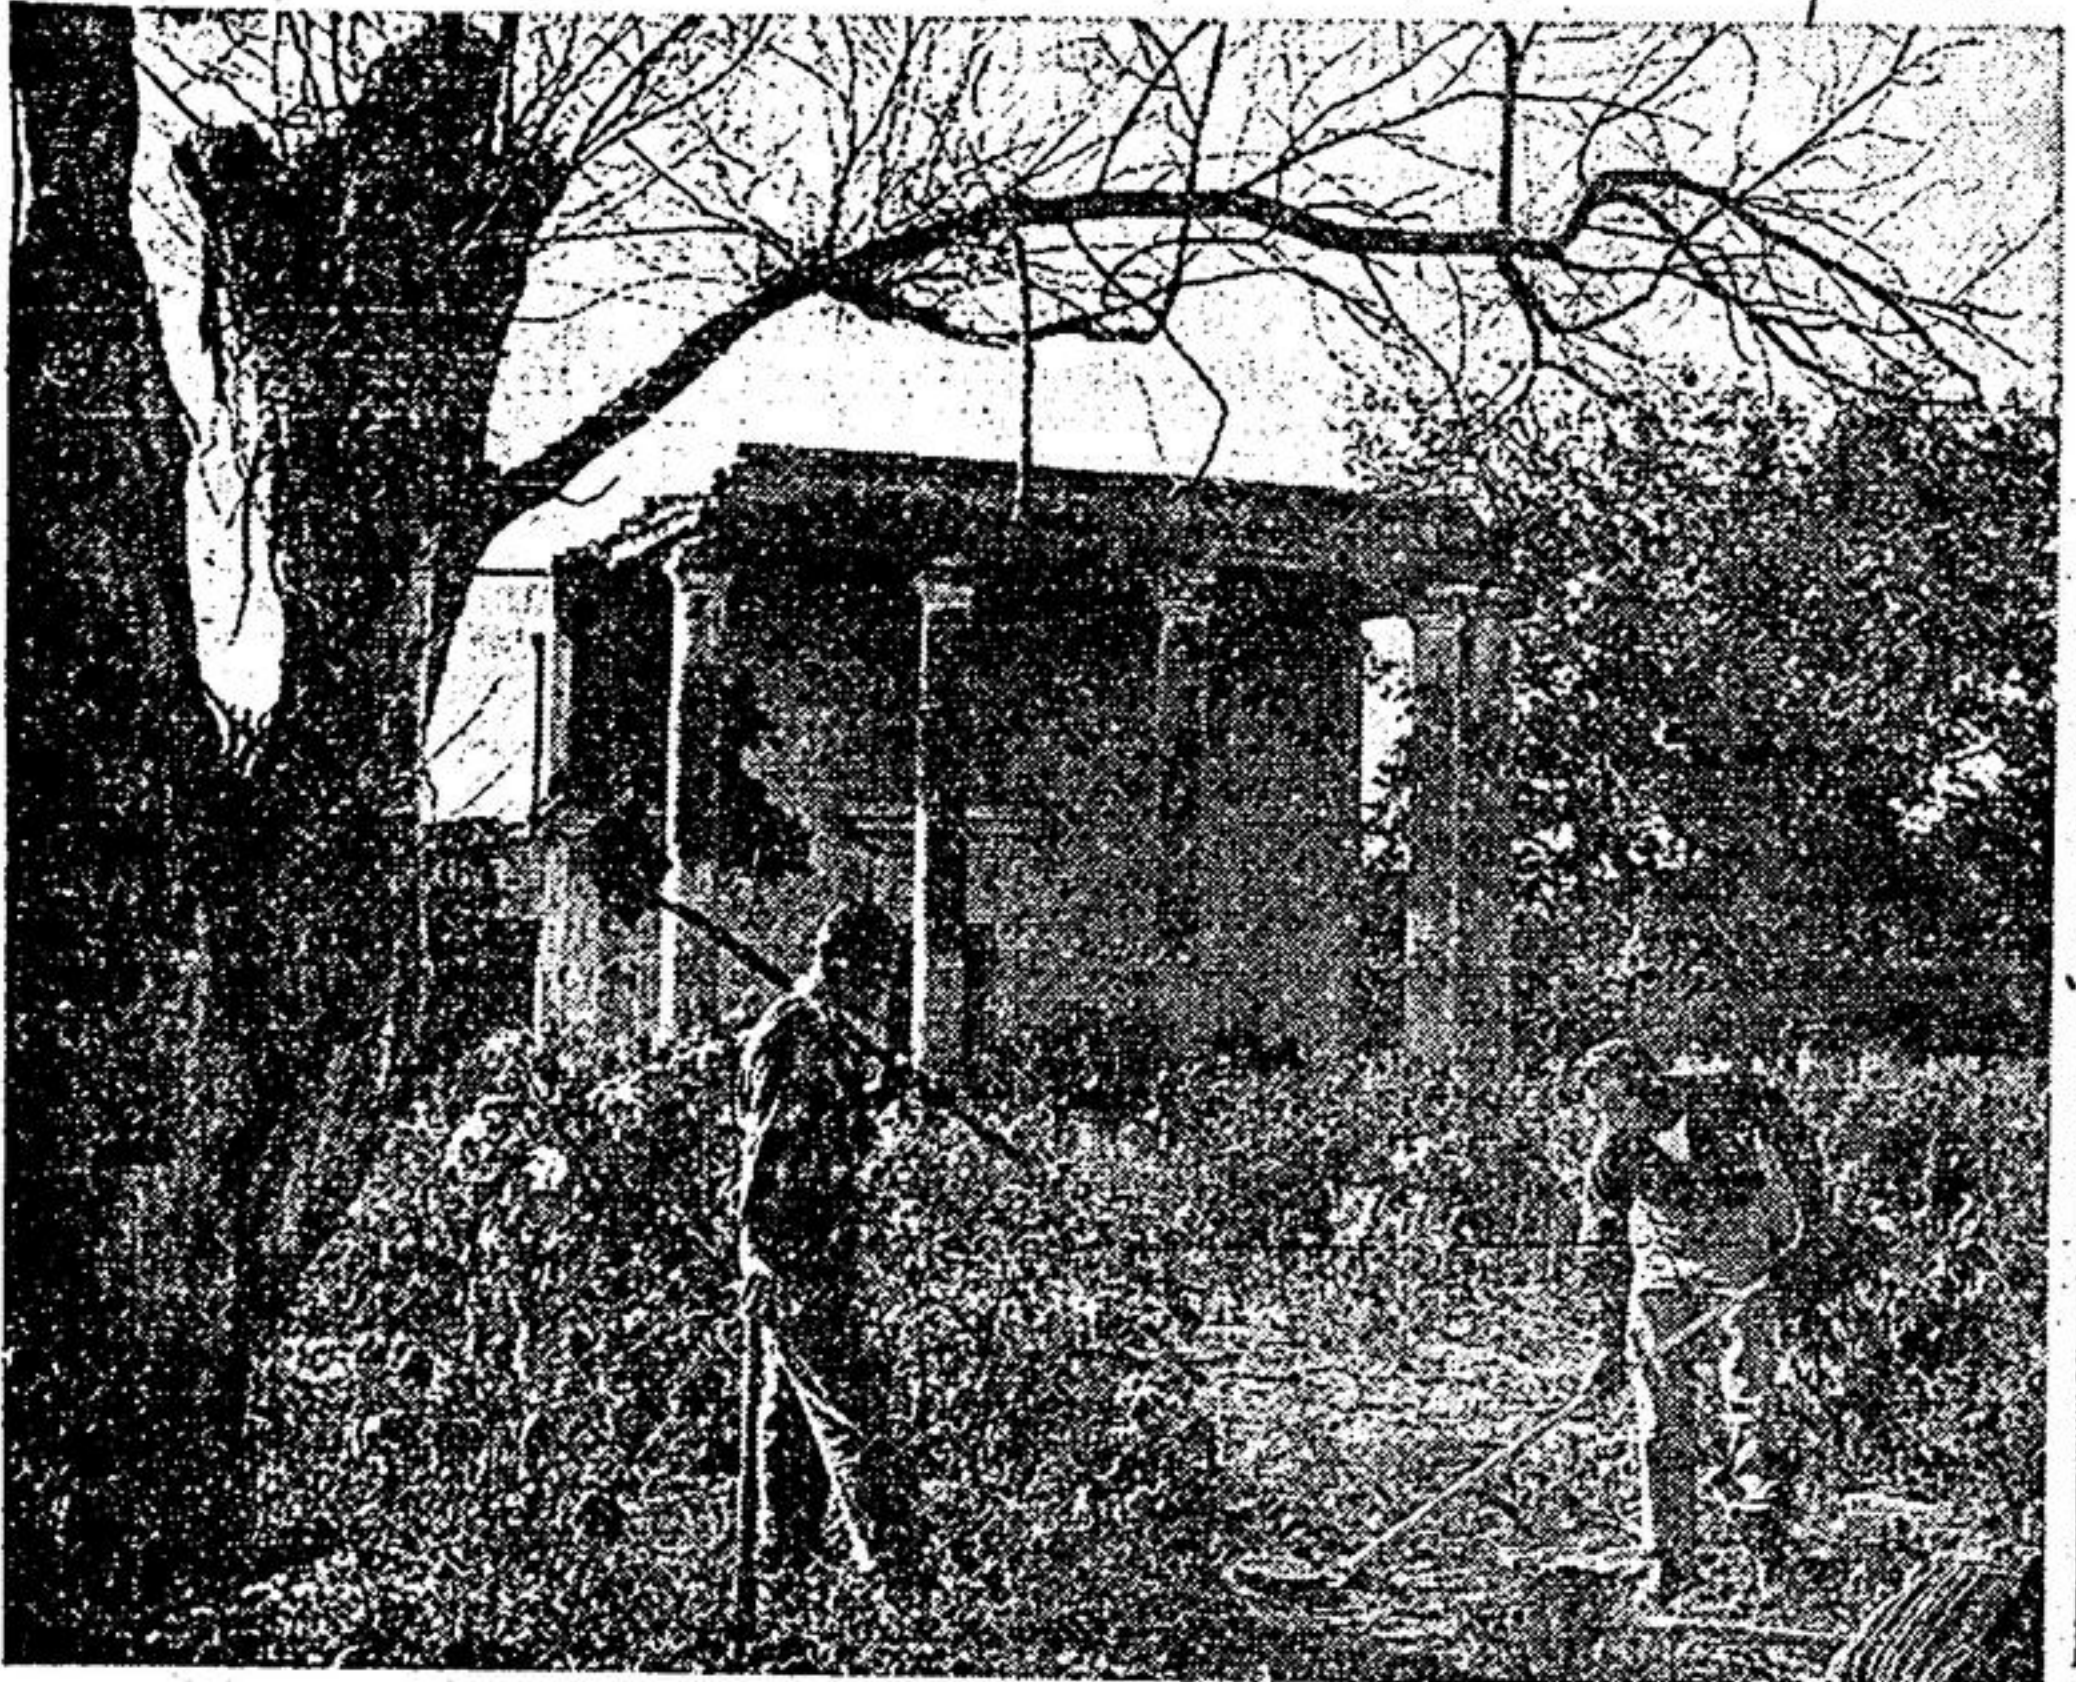

HIGH PRIORITY—Brand new super Sabrejets line up on a flight ramp at the Los Angeles airport. The Sabres are high-priority items in United States Air Force budget.

QUEEN OF QUEENS—Lovely Queen Maria Luisa Fernandez Martinez, a descendant of Spanish parents, selects an old Spanish theme for her coronation in San Juan, P. R., as the ruler of the Ponce de Leon carnival. She's a bachelor of arts student at the College of the Sacred Heart in Santurce.

SKI BLUE WATERS—Guests at a swank hotel go skimming over the waters of the Gulf of California, off west coast of Mexico's mainland. Several ex-champs put on a show.

SILVER SEEKERS—Ancient Alamos, Sonora, Mexico, was once one of the world's richest silver capitals, but turned into a quiet resort town. Legend, however, says treasures were buried there during a revolution and this has caused an influx of searchers.

FLIGHT OF FANCY—No airedale, but nonetheless air-minded is Sandy, decked out in a stewardess uniform similar to that worn by Adele Lindeman at Chicago airport. Sandy belongs to an airline employe and is called a sky terrier.

THE FLATTENED CALF—A dismounted cowboy moves in on calf after throwing a loop over him while his horse begins to pull the rope taut at a rodeo held in Tucson, Ariz.

TOPS—Despite the crisis in Formosa, lighter moments find fashion show with a Chinese gown.

SURIBACHI SIDELIGHT

TEN YEARS AGO, some United States Marines raised the flag on Mt. Suribachi and the photograph of that stirring event became one of the most famous war photos of all time. As a footnote to the capture of Mt. Suribachi, George Burns, a Schenectady photographer, has released two pictures he took as a correspondent for Yank magazine. Burns took pictures of the landing, climb and first two men to reach the top, after they planted the flag. Joe Rosenthal, pool photographer assigned to the Iwo Jima invasion, made world-famous shot a few hours later.

This is the widely-distributed Rosenthal photo of the flag-raising on Mt. Suribachi.

Burns took this shot of first two Marines to reach summit.

Four men who first raised the flag pose for Burns' camera.