

Cattle Sell Well at Stewart Burnett Auction

Despite the trend towards lower prices on livestock, the auction sale last Thursday of Stewart Burnett's at Aurora proves that good cattle are still in demand and bring good prices.

The top priced cow of the sale was $255, while her stable mate, a grade Holstein, fresh, sold for $232.50. First calf heifers sold for $190 with an extra $13 for her calf.

The 77 head including a number of small calves, went through the auction ring in 2 hours and 20 minutes, for a total netting $10,000. The milking machine brought $242.50. The sale was conducted by Sellers and Atkinson, auctioneers for the stockyards at Stouffville.

Opening Night At Cherry Hill School 1955

Hilda Woodcock I think it was in 1917 in answer to a notice in the paper, and a call to Betty Madsen who assured me, that there was a school being started at Cherry Hill Farm, that I rather nervously drove the old Plymouth up to the factory door, (hoping it would start when I came to work home, as it was a rather cold Saturday afternoon.)

There didn't seem to be anyone around, but there was another car there, so I rapped on the door and there was no answer, so I walked in. I guess I was a little early, as Mr. John Madsen was very busy getting things in order.

Soon more people arrived, and I think we had about 18 that first afternoon. Mr. Perry was soon at work and cleared a table and in a short time everyone was busy at something.

Weaving, ceramics, metal work or wood carving kept us busy and very happy at that first school, and we gazed with

High School Students Now Added to County Health Service Plan

Sanitary inspection of new houses and sub-divisions has kept the six sanitary inspectors in the Health Unit very busy during the summer. Seventy-two proposed sub-divisions were investigated for sanitary problems before municipal and provincial authorities approved the sub-division development during the first eight months of 1955. Wherever the sub-divisions lie adjacent to municipal sewerage systems, the Medical Officer of Health insists that municipal sewerage services be installed since sewers are safer and cheaper in the long run. If septic tank disposal methods are the next best means available, then each individual lot requires approval before sub-division proceeds. Each septic tank installation is inspected before being approved; 287 septic tanks have been inspected in the last eight months.

Sewers for Sutton, Stouffville and Markham Village have been approved by the voting residents, and processing through the planning and provincial approval stage is proceeding. It is most unfortunate that Woodbridge, one of the most unsanitary communities in the county from the public health point of view, is forced to live in its bed of squalor because of its financial situation in these prosperous times is technically unsatisfactory to the point of preventing sewers from protecting the community and from assisting in correction of its financial position.

Plumbing inspection services have been extended to East Gwillimbury Township when the council recently adopted the plumbing inspection by-law. This leaves only Aurora, King Township and Georgina, Twp. without plumbing inspection in York County.

High School Students throughout York County have been added to the School Health services given by the Health Unit with the beginning of the Fall term this September. The High School health service program is a prevention program, providing health counselling services for the students and health education activities throughout the general programme. The importance of the family physician is being stressed.

Dr. Douglas A. Hutchison has joined the health unit staff as additional Medical Officer of Health, and assistant to the Director. He has replaced Dr. L. H. Douglas who has returned to the University of Toronto for further study. Dr. Hutchison, a graduate of the University of Toronto School of Medicine, has been in practice in the city of Toronto for over 6 years before returning to the University of Toronto for post-graduate training in the field of public health. He and his wife and two sons have taken up residence in Newmarket.

Five new public health nurses have joined the staff during recent weeks replacing four nurses that have left the health unit and bringing the staff up to Federal Health Grant requirements of 15 public health nurses. Miss Marilyn Dobbin is working in the southern part of Vaughan township. Miss Florence Kerr is working in the Yonge Street area of Vaughan and Markham townships. Miss Phyllis Campbell is working in the northern part of Markham township and the southern part of Whitchurch pride at our first achievements. There has been a great change since then in our own lives and in our community and in The Cherry Hill Folk School. I could hardly believe my eyes on that first night of this year as a very successful school go away to a good start, with its excellent leader and apt pupils.

On Oct. 5th, the school had its opening night for this Fall and all the classes got started. After the session in the classes, where we all had an opportunity to meet new friends and welcome old ones, coffee was served and all gathered for a sing-song, led by Mr. Edmunds of Richmond Hill, later followed by a few heartfelt words of welcome from Betty, who expressed the thought that never had there been a better feeling of comradeship and co-operation than was felt in the gathering that night.

Mr. Alfred Perry then introduced the speaker, Dr. Ross Murray, who spoke on Leadership, showing it in a new light, to a very attentive group.

As I recall the memories of that first school I can't help but know that the spirit of love and enthusiasm for people that was part of John Madsen himself, is still the spirit of the school in every department.

It was a strange whim of fate, or was it fate, that decreed that John Madsen should spend the last few days of his life, among the beautiful mountains of Switzerland, with its calm serenity and indescribable beauty, that seemed to him was next to the Heaven he was so first school, and we gazed with Beverly wore a frock of turquoise nylon with white dotted Swiss trim, and in her hair she wore a coronet of sweetheart roses. Miss Joyce Myers was soloist during the ceremony.
